

Princess Becomes Salesgirl On Day Before 25th Birthday

By BASIL GINGELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

BALMORAL CASTLE, Scotland (UP)—Princess Margaret turned salesgirl for a day Saturday at nearby Abergeldie Castle, worrying more about price tags than romance on the eve of her 25th birthday, the most important of her life.

The pert princess becomes old enough Sunday to marry without the consent of her sister the Queen but Group Capt. Peter Townsend appeared forgotten as she concentrated on the local church bazaar and the China, handbags, wicker baskets and grouse on sale there.

While Margaret fussed with merchandise displays and gossiped with local residents who consider her their very own princess because she was born in Scotland, the handsome RAF war hero mentioned most in her romantic life took his ease in Belgium.

The 41-year-old Townsend was joined near Ostend by the two sons of his broken marriage, 13-year-old Charles and 10-year-old Megan, critical spectators while Townsend worked out the mare he will race later today in an international gentleman riders handicap.

The church sale was being held at Abergeldie Castle, a former royal residence only 2½ miles from Balmoral, and Margaret was to be joined later by her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, and their mother, Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Ancient Abergeldie was used by King George V, Margaret's grandfather, when he was Prince of Wales. When the prince became king he turned Abergeldie into a shooting lodge.

Balmoral has been the Scottish holiday residence of the Royal Family since the days of Queen Victoria. Her husband, Prince Albert, bought it from the trustees of a Sir Robert Gordon about 100 years ago.

It is here in a picture book setting that the pretty princess chose to spend with her family the last year before the birthday that could change the course of British history. If she decides to marry Townsend she would have to give up her right to succession to the throne. She is third now behind Princes Charles and Princess Anne.

For Britons, fed by reams of speculation on the princess' intentions, it was the greatest romantic sensation since the Duke of Windsor gave up his throne nearly 20 years ago. The reported romance fed Britain's sensation-loving news papers with their biggest bannerlines for months.

Smeller Sniffs 52 Million Fish Yearly in Cannery

TERMINAL ISLAND, Calif. — (UP) — Diiodo Taghap earns his living here by smelling some 52,000,000 fish annually, and he's been doing it for 26 years!

Taghap's profession is formally known as "fish-smeller" and involves sniffing about 2,000,000 albacore and 50,000,000 yellowfin and skipjack as an inspector in tuna canneries.

The fish-smeller works directly behind the butchers and, somewhat like a curious bloodhound, inspects fish as they go down the assembly belt to the huge cookers. Taghap has the reputation of being able to scent a bad tuna at 100 yards.

And he didn't become a "fish-smeller" overnight. He spent several years as a fisherman and working in canneries to acquire background for his unique job. Fishsmellers earn five cents an

Edison Firm Plans 2 More Atomic Units

DETROIT — (AP) — Detroit Edison Co. which now is pioneering a 45 million dollar nuclear power plant, says it will build a second and third plants within the next decade.

"And we should be able to produce power at a profit with the second installation," says Robert W. Hartwell, director of the company's nuclear power development.

Edison's first power plant, which it is building with a group of associate utilities, will be in operation by 1960. Hartwell says the cost of operating the first reactor will be about $450 a kilowatt hour compared to $80 to $90 for conventional fuels. "We'll chalk that one up to research and development," he added.

hour more than other cannery workers.

Last Army Saddle Maker to Retire

FT. CARSON, Colo. (UP) — M. Set. Vaughn E. Jones, probably the last master saddle maker in the Army is due for retirement soon after almost 20 years work for the cavalry.

In 1950 the Army closed the last saddle-making school at Ft. Riley, Kan., and Jones started caring for modern guns and recoilless rifles.
