on the licensed field trial.

To start the derby stake the judges called for a land test that was designed to eliminate dogs from the long string of 45 entries. They called for a double land retrieve, down wind. The cover was light but the long bird with a wind behind it fell well over 100 yards out.

The short bird with a wind behind it fell about 75 yards to the left. This apparently was a good test to determine a dog's hunting ability. However, if a dog should happen to hunt a bit short or over-run his bird and took in excess of 60 seconds to find it, he was called off.

Tough on the Younger Dogs

To add insult to injury the derby dogs were called upon to honor the following dog and his work. This honoring is tough on a young derby dog. It is hard enough to keep a young, eager dog steady on the line without having him sit and watch another dog do the job.

Anyway, the first test accomplished its purpose. Twenty-six dogs were disqualified. It would have been easier on every one held near here Sunday. The new Berg's Keizer Mkt. involved to just reach in a hat and pull out twenyt-six names and champions were Bob Norton in Dickson Market
