

LYONS—The Lyons Plywood Division of the M and M Wood Working Co., at Lyons, Ore., is one of the nation's most modern and complete mills. The latest electronic equipment and 400 skilled employees enable this plant to produce 75 million feet of plywood annually.

LYONS—The public is invited to the official opening of M and M Wood Working Company's multi-million dollar plywood plant just east of Lyons, and the first showing of the Douglas Fir Plywood Association's Plywood circus at the plant Sept. 2 from 1:30 to 9:30 p.m., President Clay Brown announced.

There will be favors for children and guided tours through the mill. In conjunction with the opening, city officials in the area will attend a luncheon given by M and M at Mari-Linn High School.

The Lyons mill was started in 1953 as a green veneer plant. During the next year the machinery and floor space necessary for plywood production was added.

It now produces quality fir plywood exclusively which is sold nationally under the nationally advertised Malarkey brand name. Annual capacity of this plant is 75,000,000 square feet. It is operated principally by push button controls.

It is one of 12 principal Malarkey operating divisions in Oregon and California. Also located in this end of the valley are the Idanha Green Veneer Division, Idanha; the Albany Plywood Division, Albany and the 50 per cent owned Springfield Lumber Mills, Inc., at Springfield. The home office and other Oregon properties are located in Portland.

Douglas fir logs from Linn County are trucked to the Lyons mill and dumped into a 17-acre log pond while waiting for use. Logs are cut into eight foot sections or "peelers" while still in the water and then carried by continuous chain into the mill where they are peeled by huge lathe into veneers.

The veneers are dried, glued together at the edges electronically and then clipped into four-foot widths.

Veneers are run through glue machines and laid one upon the other forming a "sandwich." These are then placed in large hot presses where heat and pressure bond the veneers into solid plywood panels.
