Before Wednesday the seige of smog had brought five "alerts" in five days.
Hot gusts ranging up to 35 m.p.h. swept in from desert areas, driving out to sea smog that plagued motorists during early morning hours. Smog was so thick shortly after dawn that another alert appeared almost a certainty.

Director Smith Griswold of the Los Angeles County Air Pollution Control District has called on industry to institute voluntary smog control measures.
Gov. Goodwin J. Knight issued a statement saying:
"In the event of a far more critical smog condition than now exists, under the emergency action program, upon request of the (Los Angeles) Board of Supervisors, I have the power to declare a state of disaster . . . and I would do so."

Truman 'Set Ambush' for MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP)—A top wartime aide of Gen. Douglas MacArthur says former President Harry S. Truman set "a sly, political ambush" for MacArthur by summoning him to their celebrated Wake Island conference in October, 1951.

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, in the fourth and last installment of his biography of MacArthur published in Life Magazine, includes this in a series of controversial charges and allegations about the conduct of the Korean War.
They include:
1. The only explanation for the entry of the Chinese Communists into the Korean War is that "someone must have told them that even if the Red Chinese swarmed across the Yalu . . . the U. S. government would meekly decline to retaliate and the Reds' staging and supply area in Manchuria would remain a sanctuary."
2. MacArthur's offer to negotiate with the Red Chinese commander in the field, one of the episodes that preceded his dismissal by Truman, "Cut right across one of the most disgraceful plots in American history: Men in the U. S. State Department and others in U. N. capitals were scheming to give Red China both Formosa and a seat in the United Nations."
3. MacArthur's August, 1950, message to a Chicago VFW convention, another of the actions that eventually led to his dismissal, "ran afoul of plans being hatched in the State Department to succumb to British pressure and desert the Nationalist government on Formosa."
4. MacArthur was denied the use of 33,000 crack Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa because "evidently the British preferred sabotaging the U. N. effort in Korea to fighting alongside Nationalist Chinese."
5. MacArthur could have averted the near-disaster of the Red Chinese breakthrough if he had been allowed to bomb the Yalu River bridges.

End Result
Of the Wake Island meeting, Whitney claims it accomplished nothing that could not have been settled just as easily over the military communications system between Tokyo and Washington.
"But what Truman personally — and the Democratic Party — gained by the trip was tremendous in terms of political advantage," Whitney says.
"By this one stroke, only three weeks before the 1950 congressional elections, the President was able to establish a connection between his administration and the military strategy against which most of his military advisers had argued but which had just won the great victory at Inchon."
In Kansas City, Truman's office said the former President would have no comment on Whitney's version of the incident.

Disgraceful Plot
2. MacArthur's offer to negotiate with the Red Chinese commander in the field, one of the episodes that preceded his dismissal by Truman, "Cut right across one of the most disgraceful plots in American history: Men in the U. S. State Department and others in U. N. capitals were scheming to give Red China both Formosa and a seat in the United Nations."
3. MacArthur's August, 1950, message to a Chicago VFW convention, another of the actions that eventually led to his dismissal, "ran afoul of plans being hatched in the State Department to succumb to British pressure and desert the Nationalist government on Formosa."
4. MacArthur was denied the use of 33,000 crack Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa because "evidently the British preferred sabotaging the U. N. effort in Korea to fighting alongside Nationalist Chinese."
5. MacArthur could have averted the near-disaster of the Red Chinese breakthrough if he had been allowed to bomb the Yalu River bridges.

Indian Victim Of Shooting; Suspect Held

CHILOQUIN, Ore. (AP)—A shooting which Klamath County Sheriff Murray Britton said capped a long-standing feud took the life of a 25-year-old Klamath Indian early Wednesday. The suspected slayer and a witness were being held in the Chiloquin jail.

Killed by a .30-30 rifle shot in the chest was Jackie Jones, recently released from the Missouri state prison.
Sheriff Britton said the witness, Leroy (Buzz) Warley, Springfield, Ore. logger, told him:
Jones, Warley and Marcelus Norwest, 26, another Klamath Indian, were riding in a car near an oil plant here about 2 a.m. when Norwest seized the rifle from the back seat and shot Jones.
Norwest fled, and unable to pursue him, Warley went to Lewis Jones, Chiloquin chief of police. Soon after, Norwest appeared to give himself up.
Klamath District Attorney Richard Beesley said he had obtained a recorded statement of the shooting, but declined to make it public. He said he would prepare charges, however.

Oregon Reports 154 Polio Cases

PORTLAND (AP)—Oregon had 154 reported cases of polio up to Aug. 27, compared with 131 in the same period of 1954, the State Board of Health said Wednesday.
The board had reports of only two children among the 46,000 who received either their first or second shots of the Salk anti-polio vaccine being struck. Only one of the two had paralytic effects. Some 98,000 of the 144,000 first- and second-graders eligible for inoculation did not take shots.
The board reported 32 polio cases among 98,000 un inoculated children between the ages of 5 and 9.

Railroad Strike Set for Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—The CIO Transport Workers Union called a strike Wednesday for midnight Friday of 35,000 maintenance and inspection employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad.
Mike Quill, union chief, said he was assured that the Pennsylvania's operating employees — the men who run the trains — would respect the picket lines of the non-operating strikers.

Pilots Group Asks Control Tower Return

The Salem Pilots Association officially went on record Wednesday night with a request that a control tower be returned to operation at McNary Field.
The resolution approved by the 38 members of the association also asked "competent airport management" and a workable set of airport regulations.
The action by the association followed the Saturday plane crash which killed Gordon King, 39, Salem, King was a member of the association and was flying one of the organization's ships at the time of his death.

Warren Merrill, secretary of the association, said copies of the resolution will be sent to the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the city, the State Department of Aeronautics and the state's congressional delegations. A committee was set up to draft a set of airport rules.
The CAA removed the Salem control tower about two years ago.

Charles Barclay, airport manager, said the city's Airport Advisory Committee will meet today to discuss regulations and to plan possible effort to regain a control tower for McNary Field.

Santiam River Project Let

PORTLAND (AP)—L. C. Daniel, Eugene, has been awarded a contract for $47,404 for bank protection work on the Santiam River three miles northwest of Jefferson, the Portland District Army Engineer announced Wednesday.
The engineers also disclosed that C. T. Malcolm & Co., with an offer of $8,170, apparently is low bidder for extension of revetments at Dexter Dam. Other bidders were P. G. Knox, Gladstone, $10,315, and Floyd Gram Construction Co., Lebanon, $11,247.

Digging Machine Operator Killed

THE DALLES (AP)—The operator of a dragline digging machine was killed but his oiler scrambled to safety Wednesday when the equipment toppled into water at The Dalles Dam project.
William Kinder of Burns was pinned in the cab of the machine under the water. Workman were unable to recover the body at once.
The oiler, unidentified, struggled to safety as the bank on which the dragline was operating crumbled, spilling the machine into the pool at the lower end of the project.
About 5,000 Americans are drowned every year.

Plane Crash Tale 'Untrue'

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP)—State police foreman had notified a policeman said Wednesday night there apparently was nothing to a report that a plane may have crashed near Juntura, 74 miles southwest of here, earlier in the day.
The office here said a Union Pacific Railroad maintenance crew summed there was no crash.
