Anti-Greek Riots Erupt In Istanbul

By ALLAN JACKS
ISTANBUL, Turkey — Violent anti-Greek rioting exploded in Istanbul Tuesday night.

Tens of thousands of young Turks roamed through the city, smashing Greek store windows, wrecking store interiors and overturning automobiles.

The rioting erupted after a stick of dynamite exploded near the Turkish consulate in the Greek city of Salonika. For more than two hours after the outbreak began, mobs charged through the streets bent on destruction.

The crowds attempted to set one big Greek Orthodox church afire but were driven off by police and firemen.

At the height of the disorder, hundreds of Turkish infantrymen with fixed bayonets moved into the center of the city.

The Turkish rage apparently was touched off by reports here that the birthplace of the late Kemal Ataturk was damaged in the Salonika dynamiting. Ataturk, father and first president of the Turkish republic, is the country's national hero.

The mobs met no resistance from store owners and the police were hopelessly outnumbered.

Istanbul army headquarters said it had called out one division of infantry, an armored brigade and a number of marine units to bring the rioting under control.

Armed Marines blocked off both bridges across the Golden Horn which divides the two sections of the city. They also threw a cordon around the Greek Orthodox patriarchate on the left bank of the Golden Horn.

Basis Halted
All small boats which shuttle thousands of commuters about the city were halted. Ferry service connecting the European section of the city with the Asiatic quarter across the Bosphorus also ceased.

In addition to attempting to set fire to the big Greek Orthodox church, crowds heavily damaged several smaller churches.

Scores of minor casualties were reported.

One employe of a Greek pastry shop suffered a serious stab wound. Other persons were seen in the streets bleeding from face and arm cuts. Most of the injuries seemed to come from flying glass.

The mob ripped out store furnishings and hurled them about the cobbled streets. Merchandise, from groceries to high priced furniture, was stewn about the streets, sidewalks and squares.

Malnutrition Kills Wealthy Portland Man

PORTLAND — A shabby, middle-aged recluse, who had a secret fortune estimated at in excess of $10,000, was found dead from malnutrition in a Portland hotel Tuesday.

He was identified as John L. Boyd, about 50. Deputy Coroner Tony Wald estimated his fortune after checking over papers in a small safe found in the room.

Wald said Boyd had not eaten properly for several months. There were numerous empty evaporated milk and bean cans stacked in the room.

Among the papers was an uncashed check for $2,340 issued in April by Uyreke Bros., Weiser, Idaho. There were also papers showing Boyd owned preferred stock in the Idaho Power Co.

Other papers indicated sizable accounts in two Portland banks and one in Salt Lake City.

Four Injured In Collision Of Salem Cars

Four persons, all occupants of the same vehicle, suffered apparently non-serious injuries Tuesday afternoon in a two-car collision at Chemeketa and Capitol streets, city police report.

Most severely injured, said aidmen, were Sharon Maple, 11, of Salem Route 7, Box 765, and Cecilia Young, 65, of 1400 Lawless St. Both were taken by ambulance to Salem Memorial Hospital where the girl was treated for lacerations and a jaw injury and the woman for a lacerated knee and a fractured wrist.

Attendants said condition of both was "good." Slightly hurt were Bill Maple, 8, and his brother, Allen, 7, both of whom were released after a check at the hospital.

Officers said the injured were passengers in a 1947 Studebaker driven by Mrs. Violet Cecilia Maple, mother of the children and daughter of Mrs. Volney. Other driver in the 4:55 p.m. accident was listed as Mrs. Josephine Louis Harrell, 375 Fairview Ave. Police said the impact shot Mrs. Harrell's 1950 Buick on to a parking strip at the State Public Service Building. Damage to both vehicles was heavy, police reported.

Oregon Fair, Minus Rain, Said Rarity

When an Oregon State Fair escapes without rain it can consider itself in rare company, according to the Weather Bureau at McNary Field.

Weathermen pointed out Tuesday that prior to this year probably only four state fairs since 1930 have missed being hit by measurable rainfall.

The 1955 fair, past the midway mark, has a chance of joining the select circle and may go on record as being the most sun-kissed fair in the state's history.

The other four dry fairs came in 1943, 1942, 1935 and 1932—though traces of rain did fall in '42 and '32. The Weather Bureau is fairly certain measurable rain fell at all other fairs since 1930, because its records show considerable precipitation in the first 10 days of September in each of the cases.

NEW YORK — The stock market moved easily to a new high Tuesday.

Brisk buying brought gains of $1 to $4 a share and a few issues went well beyond that range.

Marine Wins $32,000 on Quiz Show

NEW YORK — A crew-cut Marine captain with a shy grin Tuesday night won $32,000 on a television quiz show by trotting out his encyclopedic knowledge of food and cooking.

Tall, handsome Capt. Richard McCutchen of Worthington, Ohio, knocked off a complicated five-part question about fancy desserts—what they're made of and where they originated.

Thus he qualified for a try next week at $64,000, top prize on the CBS TV show "The $64,000 Question." If he chooses, he can take his $32,000 and quit. If he tries and misses, he loses all but a consolation prize of an expensive automobile.

No contestant on the show has yet tried for $64,000. Two have won $32,000 and stopped there.

67 Escape, One Dead in C124 Crash

ALBUQUERQUE — A giant, four-engine C124 Globemaster crashed on takeoff in a dust storm Tuesday, killing one man. Air Force officials said one other man was badly injured but 67 others aboard the plane escaped unscathed or with minor injuries.

The Air Force transport, from Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, Tex., apparently had gone almost the full length of the runway at Kirtland AFB when it skidded for several hundred feet and pancaked on the shoulders of the runway.

It burst into flames almost immediately.

The plane was destroyed by white-hot flames.

The craft, enroute to March AFB, Riverside, Calif., carried 13 crewmen, 56 passengers and cargo. The one seriously injured man was a member of the crew.

Many of these were evacuated from the blazing ship by medics, firemen and rescue teams. Some were treated on the scene and then rushed to hospitals.

Speculation Grows Over Salem Fires

Speculation that a firebug is operating in Salem was stepped up Tuesday after the second fire in three days struck a vacant feed warehouse on Portland Road.

The second fire, which started about 4 a.m. in a building formerly occupied by the Oregon Feed Co., caused an estimated $1,000 damage. It followed on the heels of a $25,000 blaze in the one-story masonry structure last Friday evening.

Fire Chief Ellsworth Smith said both fires were of "suspicious origin" and at his request members of the state police arson squad Tuesday began an investigation.

Chief Smith said the path taken by the second fire was "almost as if somebody had sprayed gasoline around the walls and set a match to it."

One of the first persons to see the Friday night blaze at the unoccupied feed said it appeared to start at the southeast corner of the structure.

Firemen's suspicions about the fires were given impetus by the fact that the building, being vacant, lacked many of the usual fire hazards.

Conjecture about a possible firebug posed one question: Why would he strike the same building twice when little remained to burn?

Meanwhile, Chief Smith announced Tuesday that all city fire permits have been cancelled for the time being because of hot, dry weather conditions.

Plane Crash Kills 4 Men

ALEXANDRIA, La. — A C119 flying boxcar crashed Tuesday killing four men and injuring two soon after leaving England Air Force Base here.

The dead were identified Tuesday night as:

First Lt. Curtiss B. Larsen, 31, Denver, Colo.

M. Sgt. Ralph W. Elson, 31, Newton, Ill.

Airman 2.C. Wayne J. Berger, 22, Melrose, Wis.

The fourth man was not identified pending notification of relatives.

The plane, carrying a cargo of classified material, took off for the Kirtland Air Force Base at Albuquerque, N. M. Soon after leaving it developed engine trouble and the pilot tried to crash land into the Red River. He missed it by about 70 yards.

The crippled plane slammed into a gully, exploded and burst into flames. Parts were scattered over four acres.

Boy Tumbles 500 Feet at Crater Lake

EUGENE — A 15-year-old boy told Tuesday of surviving a 500-foot fall down the steep slope from the rim of Crater Lake.

Dennis Fitch, 15, Eugene, suffered cuts and bruises, but the major injury resulting from the spectacular tumble was a broken arm.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fitch, said they started to hike down from the rim, about miles from the lodge, when Dennis suddenly slipped and plunged out of sight.

Dennis said shale gave way and, "I guess I went head over heels."

He said he remembers hitting more shale and bumping against protruding rocks on the way down.

"It seemed like a dream," he said, adding that he didn't remember losing consciousness, but that he was knocked out. When he awakened he was 15 feet from the edge of the lake.

His parents said he was unconscious about 20 minutes, while they searched frantically for him. Then he began trying to climb back up the slope. The parents found him, took him to the Crater Lake Ranger Station for first aid, and then to a doctor at Klamath Falls.

Dennis was bruised severely, but said he expects to be in school when it opens next week.

Police Quick To Nab Young Auto Thief

It didn't take state police long to catch their quarry Tuesday night after a state-owned car was reported stolen from the Shoppers Car Park, High and Ferry streets.

Officers said a 17-year-old Oakridge youth was arrested on a charge of car theft after the vehicle was halted in the Lake Labish district north of Salem. The theft of the old-model vehicle was reported about 8:30 p.m. and the arrest was made less than an hour later.

The car was bait for the first officer in sight since it carried no license plates. Police said the youth was lodged in Marion County juvenile ward.
