The hearing will primarily pertain to wages and hours employers establish for women and minors.

Appeal Notice Filed by Salem Auto Company

A Salem auto firm, Loder Brothers Company, filed notice of appeal to the supreme court Tuesday on a Marion County Circuit Court decision which denied an injunction against a labor union.

The company had sought the injunction on what it alleges were "illegal" picketing practices of the International Association of Machinists, Local 1508, its officers and the Salem Trades and Labor Council and its officers. It was denied by Circuit Judge Val D. Sloper in August.

The firm is one of several Salem auto agencies which have been involved in a dispute with the union.

Damage Suit Filed Against City, Officer

The City of Salem and Kenneth Seipp, city juvenile officer, were sued for $25,000 Tuesday in Marion County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by Ruth Diamond, who alleges a city vehicle struck her car while she was going south on Front street March 4 this year. The city car, she charges, was backing out of a parking spot on the west side of the street and struck the right side of her vehicle.

She charges the defendants with negligence on several points including failure to yield right of way.

She asks $25,000 general damages for alleged injuries to her back caused by the collision and $1,506, including reimbursement for loss of wages, in special damages.

Red Hat Day Made Official

Red Hat Day, designed to emphasize the need for caution in the forests, Wednesday was officially proclaimed by Mayor Robert White on Friday, Sept. 23.

The proclamation cited the increased activity of hunters and the attendant increased fire hazard and "distress" to landowners, and pointed to the "need for more care with fire and firearms, respect for the rights and property of others."

It concluded by urging "all citizens" on Red Hat Day "to wear a red hat or a red hat button to signify their compliance with the worthwhile objectives of the Red Hat Day pledge."

Noted Civic Leader Named UF Speaker

Thad McCarty, businessman and widely-known civic leader in the San Francisco Bay area, was announced Wednesday as the speaker for the United Fund "kickoff" meet at the Salem Armory, Tuesday noon, Oct. 4.

McCarty, president of a seat-cover and posture device company bearing his name, is director of the East Bay Federation of Community Chests and the United Fund. His home is in Piedmont, Calif., near Oakland. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama and has a wife and two children.

Known as a vigorous and informed speaker, McCarty has been active in church and business organizations for years and has taken an important part in agencies and fund raising in the San Francisco Bay Area.

At Piedmont Community Church he has been president of the board of trustees and chairman of two successful building fund drives. He has also been president of the Oakland Council of Churches and a committeeman for the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He was president of the San Francisco-Oakland Rubber Institute and served on the rubber conservation committee during World War II, and is still an area warden for Civil Defense.

He is on the advisory board for Salvation Army, on the board of directors for Children's Hospital of the East Bay, and has been both board member and president of the Travelers' Aid Society of Alameda County. He belongs to Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce; is a member of the Alameda County Civil Service Commission, and was chairman of the historical committee for Oakland's Centennial.

A board member of Community Chest, East Bay Federation of Community Chests, and of United Fund, McCarty has been co-chairman of the advance gifts department, chairman of the speakers' bureau, campaign chairman and president.

Court Rules Aluminum Firm Owes Personal Property Tax

Reynolds Aluminum Co. has to pay personal property taxes on machinery and equipment at its Troutdale plant for the 1950-51 fiscal year, the Oregon Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The company, which sued Multnomah county to escape the tax for that year, contended it should not have been placed on the assessment roll until after Jan. 1, 1950, because it didn't complete acquisition of the property until after that date.

But the Supreme Court, agreeing with Multnomah County Assessor Wilye W. Smith, pointed out that in December, 1949, the company accepted a letter of intent from the federal government covering purchase of the plant.

This letter, the Supreme Court ruled, placed the company in possession of the property, and thus made it taxable for the following fiscal year.

Had the company's argument been accepted, the tax wouldn't have been levied until the 1951-52 fiscal year.

The opinion, by Justice Walter L. Tooez, upheld Circuit Judge Lowell Mundorf's of Portland.

Upholding another Multnomah county decision, the Supreme Court ordered the officers of the Eastern and Western Lumber Co. to pay $782,495 to stockholders of the company.

The stockholders claimed they were induced to sell their stock below its actual value by reason of fraudulent misrepresentations.

The company now is defunct.

The decision was by Justice George Rossman. It upheld Circuit Judge Alfred P. Dobson of Portland.

Fescue Vote Count Awaits Ballot Boxes

Counting votes in the fescue commodity referendum now in progress under direction of the State Agricultural Department will not get under way until all ballot boxes reach the department here, officials said Wednesday.

Balloting started in 15 counties Wednesday and will continue through Friday. J. F. Short, director of agriculture, said it probably would be Monday or Tuesday before all ballot boxes are received.

Voting is in progress in several counties—including Baker, Benton, Clatsop, Jefferson, Klamath, Lane, Multnomah, Umatilla, Washington and Yamhill.

In Clackamas, Marion and Linn counties voting is at the county agent's office and at certain hours in some outlying districts.

SOUTH SALEM HIGH
Sophomore class elections, held Wednesday during home room period, showed definite controversy among sophomore voters as to the choice of their student leaders.

A revote between Colleen Nelson and Larry Payne today will decide who is to hold the office of sophomore class president. Other students running for president were Dennis Beller, Jim Davenport and Linda Ramage.

Claudia Fry and Sally Riewald received the majority of votes for the office of vice-president. A revote between the two girls will name the vice-president.

Barbara Falleur, Dan Moore, Barbara French and Inogene Thomas were the other candidates for the office of vice-president.

New sergeant-at-arms is Jim Heitzel who edged out John Brown in the elections.
