

Life Term Upheld By Highest Court

A life sentence imposed on Gordon Sayre Little, under the habitual criminal law, was upheld by the State Supreme Court Wednesday.

Little was sentenced by Circuit Judge George R. Duncan, Marion County.

The high court had previously held that the habitual criminal act does not create a new offense and that sentence in separate proceedings based thereon was

City Asked to Maintain Air Control Zone

The city has been asked to make its airport a control zone but budget limitations currently stand in the way, Airport Manager Charles Barclay said Wednesday.

Establishment of a control zone at McNary Field would put all incoming traffic to the field under control of the Northwest Control Center at Seattle when visibility is under three miles and the ceiling is less than 1,000 feet.

Barclay said the city has asked for time in which to study certain problems involved. He added that if a zone was established the city would have to provide control facilities from this end. Barclay called it an operation too big for the present airport budget.

Barclay said one of the chief burdens on the budget would be salary for a person needed to maintain telephone contact with Seattle in times of bad weather. The city also prefers to delay any immediate action on establishment of a control zone until it is determined whether a control tower might be restored to operation here.

Victor Mature Leaves Movie Cast 'In Huff'

LONDON (AP) — Victor Mature left the cast of a movie in the making Wednesday night and flew off to New York in a huff because nobody had booked him a hotel room with a bath.

The movie tough guy played his part in real life at London airport only six hours after arriving from Africa where he had been acting in a movie "Safari". Ten days of filming remained to be done in London.

Tousle headed, unshaved and wearing sandals and flannels, Mature stormed through customs shouting where everyone could hear him:

"I don't care what the devil they do about the picture. I am going home. I have had enough."

"When I arrived in London I found there was no room booked for me. I was pretty angry about the whole business. The others have got their homes all right and somewhere decent with a bath."

"I thought my room was booked. I flew in tired out and what's doing? Nothing, no bed, no bath. So they can have the wife's deal."

"If they want me to finish the film they will have to come and get me."

"I couldn't care less."

Officials Plan Probe of Air Base Listings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department officials were reported Wednesday night to be investigating the issuance — without any secrecy stamp — of a list pinpointing all U. S. Air Force bases in Europe and Japan.

Late in the day the Army and Air Force, the issuing agencies, agreed to classify the list as of Wednesday as being "for official use only." This is the lowest order of classified information.

Spokesmen said all copies of the document which have been distributed are to be so stamped.

The pamphlet is a joint Air Force - Army document. It was issued over the signatures of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and Nathan F. Twining, Army and Air Force chiefs of staff, respectively.

Pentagon spokesmen said the pamphlet was not submitted to the Defense Department's office of security review before being put into circulation. If it had been, they said, it undoubtedly would have been classified like other similar lists.

Wreck Hurts Salem Man

Dewaine J. Hicks, 872 Highland Ave., is to undergo X-ray today in Albany General Hospital to determine extent of injuries received early Wednesday when his car left the Jefferson-Scio road at a curve about midway between the two cities.

Hicks received extensive face lacerations and possible concussion and was in a state of shock all day Wednesday following the accident, the attending physician said. He will be hospitalized for at least several days, the physician said.

Cause of the accident was unknown, state police said. It happened about 1 mile east of Greens Bridge shortly before 4 a. m.

Salem Group to Help Plan State Jaycee Meeting

At least 10 men of Salem's Junior Chamber of Commerce will go to Ontario, Ore., early Friday to participate in committee sessions and the annual fall planning meeting of the state Junior Chamber organization.

Representing Salem will be two state directors, Stanley Schofield and George Hugans; Lloyd Hamel, state parliamentary; Dale Dorn, Salem Jaycee president; Lee Dorner, Dave Becker, Howard Mader, James Loder, Dee Whitlock, William Krebs.

Former Seattle Editor Succumbs

SEATTLE (AP) — Edgar G. (Ed) Hiller, 62, former city editor of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer who was forced to retire in 1949 because of illness, died Wednesday.

Hiller's only newspaper experience was with the P-I, for which he first went to work in 1919 as a cub reporter, working up to city editor in 1943.

Hypnotist Sure He Can Keep Coed From Taking $100,000

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A hypnotist Wednesday demonstrated how he plans to prevent a 19-year-old coed from collecting $100,000 on a TV show. He gave a convincing performance.

In a matter of seconds, night club performer Arthur Ellen put young Patricia Morris into what seemed to be a deep hypnotic sleep. Then he:

Made her extend her arms and legs and remain in an awkward position for many minutes.

Pronounced her arm impervious to pain and stuck her repeatedly with a pin.

Suspended her rigid body between two chairs and stood unaided on her knees.

Greatest Performance
Ellen has been performing such tricks in night clubs for years. But this Friday he'll give what promises to be his greatest performance. He'll appear on NBC's "Truth or Consequences" show and attempt to hypnotize Pat. He said he will do so merely by saying the word "Zena," which he said he has implanted in her subconscious.

Then $100,000 in new bills will be placed on a table before her. He will instruct her not to rise from her chair. If she can get up, take four steps and pick up the money, it's hers, payable at $5,000 annually for 20 years.

Under His Power
Ellen convinced the reporters at Wednesday's demonstration that she won't be able to make the trip. She appeared to be completely under his power. The fine arts student, cute in a bright blue skirt and white blouse, said she felt "kinda sleepy" after she came out of the trance.

"I don't remember much of anything," she remarked.

She has been in the charge of an official chaperone since she was chosen from the studio audience last week. She was cautioned against consulting another hypnotist or psychologist who might interfere with Ellen's spell. He said it will last for eight days — meaning that at any time during that period he can hypnotize her by saying "Zena."

Ellen is so sure of his abilities that he is himself guaranteeing payment of the hundred grand. He said he had obtained a bond from "friends who believe in me." They are reportedly Nevada gambling interests. The Brooklyn-born hypnotist is now appearing in Reno.

Army to Open River Work Bids

PORTLAND (AP) — The Army Engineers will open bids Oct. 13 and 14 for revetment work on the Willamette River in Marion and Lane counties.

Bids will be opened Oct. 13 for constructing revetted overflow channels on both banks of the Middle Fork of the Willamette, two miles north of Trent in Lane County. The Marion County work involved revetment repairs at two locations on the right bank of the river, three miles southwest of Salem.

Eastern Oregon Settler Succumbs

PENDLETON (AP) — A man who came to Eastern Oregon when the area still was troubled by Indian wars died Monday. He was 95-year-old Jim W. Shafer.

Shafer filed on a land claim when he came to Pendleton in 1876, but was not old enough to prove legal right to the claim. He waited the necessary five years to establish a wheat and horse breeding ranch. His death followed that of his wife by one week.

Investment Fund Plan Abandoned By Salem C of C

The plan to raise a citizen-subscribed investment fund to help attract industry to Salem was abandoned Wednesday by the industrial division of Salem Chamber of Commerce.

After study of the plan over the past year, Industrial Chairman Clair Brown and Chamber Manager Stabley Grove recommended against it.

They said Salem has been able so far to provide land and building space as requested by new business firms coming here.
