

Dress-Clad 'Girl' Found to Be Boy After Questioning

A new "girl" at the YWCA Friday aroused suspicions that she was a runaway by telling conflicting stories about recent travels.

After more than 4 hours of questioning and investigation by YWCA officials, police, city and county matrons and a physician, "she" was found to be a boy, early Saturday.

The lip-sticked, flat-chested "girl" in 3-inch heels was identified as an escapee from McLaren School for boys. He was wearing a dark gray dress of soft material, silk stockings with several runs, white strapped shoes with high heels, a single strand of pearls, thick lipstick and vivid fingernail polish, police said.

Short Hair

His hair, although mostly covered by a bandana, was seen to be short, but as he had represented his age as 16 this was not considered highly unusual. Actually he was found to be 14. Officers said they did not know where he got the clothes and make-up.

First suspected of being a runaway, it was later thought that he was a mental case. The suspicion that he was not a girl grew during the night. However, he was treated like a "lady" as long as the possibility remained that he might be one.

During the course of questioning, a Salem officer tentatively identified him as a boy who evaded him in a downtown alley Friday morning when he attempted to speak to him on the possibility that he was a runaway. Apparently the girl's clothing was obtained after that time.

No Address

A check with Salt Lake City officials also revealed that the home address he had given at the YWCA was fictitious.

The physical examination was given in the juvenile section of county jail early Saturday morning.

McLaren officials took custody of the boy later Saturday. They said he had escaped Thursday in Salem from the custody of a counselor.

Make-Believe Hollywood Fight Injures Sinatra

HOLLYWOOD — Frank Sinatra fell on some busted glass Saturday in a movie fight scene and got cut up a little.

French Police, Troops Clash In New Riots

ROUEN, France — New rioting broke out Saturday night around the Rouen barracks from which draftees had refused to leave for North Africa.

A crowd estimated at more than 1,000 battled with armed riot police and tried to set fire to a wooden barricade closing a breach in the barracks wall.

Riot police, who now occupy the barracks, had to duck their heads behind the walls as stones hurled at them. They retaliated by hurling stones back and throwing tear-gas grenades.

A group of youths poured gasoline on the wooden barricade, masking a hole in the wall made by an army truck Friday night, and tried to set it afire. Ten truckloads of riot police were rushed to the scene.

Bottles filled with gasoline were thrown at the barracks wall. The police drove back the demonstrators, fearing that the flaming bottles might set off a nearby munitions store.

The new outbreak, the third in Rouen in 48 hours, was intended to protest the enforced sending of more troops to North Africa, where the French are fighting nationalist rebels in both Algeria and Morocco. It was also a demonstration against police occupation of the barracks.

Order was restored in Rouen late Saturday night. Strong forces of police remained in occupation of the barracks and patrolled the surrounding streets.

Supercarrier Christened

NEW YORK — Under overcast skies and a light drizzle, the world's heaviest and most powerful warship, the 60,000-ton atom-age supercarrier Saratoga, was christened.

More than 5,000 persons watched Mrs. Charles S. Thomas, wife of the secretary of the navy, vigorously smash a bottle of champagne across the great ship's bow.

"This ship, from the keel up, is built for the future," said Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

As Mrs. Thomas approached the bow, water began flooding into the floors of the graving dock, in which the mighty ship was built, 40 feet below.

But only about 20 feet of water was let in, from the nearby East river, for a token "launching."

The Saratoga is not due to float until next month.

Long Driving Career Dealt Two Blows

A Salem woman who has been driving for 34 years was in her first two accidents Saturday. She was home today, nursing a few bruises and stiff joints after examination at Salem General Hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Ray, 2585 Cherry first collision of her driving career St., said she was involved in the about 2 p.m. at Capitol and Chemeketa streets. She did not get the name of the driver of the other car, however, and police had no report on the accident.

She went home to think it over and then started downtown to make reports to police and her insurance company.

At 3:10 p.m. she was in the middle of another smash, this time with a truck driven by Emery David Bartruff, 730 Oregon street, at Cherry avenue and Pine street. From this one she was taken to the hospital and her 1955 Plymouth sedan had to be towed away.

The second accident occurred during a hard rain on wet streets in poor visibility, according to the police report.

Brooklyn Cop 1st Contestant For $100,000

NEW YORK — A Brooklyn detective was the first contestant Saturday night on a new television quiz program, "100,000 Big Surprise." He won $10,000 and may try for more next week.

Sgt. Barney Arluck was selected to appear on the NBC show because of his role in the freeing of a man wrongfully imprisoned on a murder charge. Contestants are chosen only if they have performed a "worthy deed," those in charge of the show said.

All questions asked of contestants pertain to their professions, hobbies and present or past activities.

Starting with $1, Arluck made his way through the fourth, $1,000 question, by singing correctly the first two lines of his high school's anthem.

He missed the second part of the $10,000 question. However, Mrs. Viola Meyers, of Pottstown, Pa., who was in the audience, was asked to help Arluck go on with the quiz by answering a general question.

Mrs. Meyers answered correctly that Earl Warren was Thomas E. Dewey's running mate in the 1948 election.

She will appear again on next week's show. Should Arluck win $100,000, her share would be $10,000.
