

Car Theft Racket Said Master-Minded From Leavenworth Pen Cell

NEW YORK (AP) — A Federal grand jury has indicted 20 men on charges of running a million-dollar stolen car racket which authorities said was master-minded from a cell in Leavenworth, Kan., Federal prison.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Howard Gliedman said Gabriel (Blah Blah) Vigorito, 61, directed the ring from prison where he was already serving a five-year term for car theft. He said Vigorito ran the racket to make money to pay his legal bills.

Vigorito, known as the "King of car thieves," relayed his order to the ring through his son, Sabato, 37, who would come to the prison to visit him, Gliedman said.

Changed Cars
The government attorney said the cars were brought to New York from surrounding states where they were stolen by specialists for a fee of $250 each. The ring then painted the cars, changed the engine numbers and parts and forged new papers.

The indictment, returned by a jury in Brooklyn, said the ring worked mostly on Long Island where it maintained used car lots to dispose of the altered cars.

Those indicted included Vigorito's three sons and two nephews. In addition to Vigorito, four of the 20 named in the indictment are now serving time.

Close Check Kept
Gliedman said the ring had operated for about a year and a half and was finally cracked by keeping close tabs on some of its members, including Vigorito.

Besides Sabato, the sons indicted with the father are John, 31, of Amity Harbor, N.Y., and Frederick G., 33, of Brooklyn.

A nephew, Sylvester J. Fiato, 34, now in Sing Sing prison for auto thefts, is one of those already in jail. The others are Albert J. Plakstis, 41, and Nicholas Lardizzone, 29, both in Rikers Island penitentiary, and Joseph A. Riccitelli, 62, in Sing Sing.

They were all charged with violating the National Motor Vehicle Theft Act.

McKay Says 'Giveaway' Attacks 'Bunk'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior McKay said Sunday that "give-away" attacks on the Eisenhower administration are "purely political bunk."

"What have we given away — name one thing," McKay said in a radio interview with Rep. Keating (R-NY). The program was recorded for upstate New York stations.

McKay said he had been the chief target of the "give-away" attacks. But he said since he has been in office 130,000 acres have been added to the national parks and 80,000 acres to game refuges.

As for power contracts, McKay said his opinion on power development was this: "Where people are able to do things for themselves, they should not lean on the federal government or the state. I think the local people should step out and do the things themselves, and whether it's public or private is none of my affair."

McKay said there are some projects beyond the reach of local people where the federal government should step in and help.

Man Kidnaps 5 in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Brandishing a razor, a swaggering, drunk early Sunday kidnaped five persons from a South Side saloon after offering to "ship any hillbilly in the place."

He slashed two men who tried to quiet him. He prodded the frightened passengers into a stolen taxicab and drove west out of Chicago, threatening "If the cops catch up with me, I'll kill you people and myself."

One man escaped through a ruse 25 miles from Chicago. The drunk released three of the others, and drove on another 15 miles where he raped the last passenger, a young woman, and set her free, police related.

Police seized the man Sunday afternoon — 12 hours after the wild escape — at the home of a girl friend in Chicago.

Authorities identified him as Pat Dillon, 25, an employee in the shipping department of an appliance company. He was held without charge.

MANILA (AP) — A quiet mass for Fred Hampson, Associated Press chief of bureau in Hong Kong who died Nov. 28, was said here Monday at Malate Roman Catholic Church.
