Nut Growers to Meet Wednesday At McMinnville

The Nut Growers Society of Oregon will hold their 41st annual meeting Wednesday and Thursday at McMinnville, according to an announcement from John Wilkens, society president. Much discussion is expected to be given to effects of freezing weather on walnuts and filberts as well as possible damage to nut trees which could influence walnut and filbert production in 1956.

All walnut and filbert growers are invited to attend the meeting as are other interested persons. The sessions will be held at the fairgrounds in McMinnville.

State Horse Group Ends Salem Meet

Election of three directors and passing of several resolutions Sunday concluded a two-day convention of the Oregon Horsemen's Association in Salem.

Re-elected to three-year terms as directors were Richard Wagner, Oregon City, and William Healy, Salem. Newly elected to a three-year term was William Jones, Vancouver, Wash.

Among resolutions was one which will seek to put 4-H saddle club contestants on an equal competitive basis at the State Fair with 4-H livestock competition and other activities.

It also was resolved to promote facilities for pleasure-riding in congested areas. Some 150 members agreed that a step toward this goal would be conferences with city, county and state officials.

It also was agreed to take steps toward establishment of a licensing program for owners of registered stallions.

The closing session was held at the Hotel Marion.

Presbyterian Fund Drive Underway

General canvassing in the $300,000 Presbyterian building fund campaign started Sunday with $93,500 pledged even before the canvassers began their work.

At the services Sunday morning in First Presbyterian Church, Pastor Paul N. Poling and the congregation commissioned over 200 workers. The advanced gifts solicitation, plus pledges by the canvassers totalled $93,500, the congregation was told by Arthur Bates, general chairman.

Workers will report at dinners in the church on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings at 6 o'clock.

Friends Quick to Assist Young Cowboy Injured During Rodeo

By CONRAD PRANGE Staff Writer, The Statesman

When Donnie Pyeatt, a young cowboy, was critically injured last July 4 in rodeo competition, his friends began to help him and they haven't stopped.

A benefit rodeo to help Pyeatt, whose severely injured brain keeps him in a semi-conscious state, will be staged here on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 10 and 11, at the State Fairgrounds.

Twenty-one-year old Donnie had just finished high school and had been married only a few months when he was injured in a steer-roping contest at a small rodeo in Cottage Grove last Independence Day. His wife, Billie, had been elected queen of Cottage Grove's centennial celebration last July.

The couple expect a baby in February. The family hopes Donnie will be improved by then.

Donnie was raised on the farm of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pyeatt in Polk County west of Salem. He attended Dallas High School and transferred to Cottage Grove when he and his parents moved there two years ago.

Before and since he moved to Cottage Grove Donnie was active in Salem area horse circles. He participated in many amateur rodeos here, as did his brother, James of Salem, and his father. The boys are members of the Salem Calf Roping Club, which is sponsoring the benefit rodeo.

Following his injury Donnie has been confined to a Eugene hospital where he has gained only short periods of consciousness, his brother says. He was taken home hours long, will be held at 8 p.m. on Saturday night and on Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the fairgrounds horse-show stadium.

Donald (Donnie) Pyeatt, critically injured amateur rodeo performer, will be the object of a unique benefit rodeo-horse show in Salem on Dec. 10 and 11.

The shows, free to the public, will include regular rodeo activities such as calf-roping, bulldogging and wild cow milking, saddle contests, trick riding, parade and pleasure horse class contests, and novelty races and other feature acts.

An auction of donated horse equipment will be held at the stadium Sunday morning at 10 a.m. before the rodeo. Proceeds will go into the benefit fund.

Mel Lambert of Salem, nationally-known rodeo figure, will be the announcer and Lawrence DeWitt, show manager.

Other committee chairmen will be O.D. (Bus) Youngquist, arena director; Jack Lindman, paddock manager; Jim Pyeatt, rodeo director; Hirsch Greenwade, secretary; Ralph Stangeby, public relations; Tom Allen, judge, and Harold Smith, show supervisor.

on Thanksgiving Day in the hope that a change of environment might be beneficial.

Doctors say he could gain complete recovery—others have. But at present his future is uncertain. The benefit is to help defray his medical and hospital expenses.

Cowboys over the entire Willamette Valley, assisted by most of the horse groups, have donated their services for the full-scale rodeo.

Death Claims Mrs. Moore; Rites Tuesday

Mrs. Rose O. Moore, 74 died Sunday afternoon at her home, 390 McGilchrist St., after an illness of about three weeks.

An Independence, Ore., resident most of her life, she had lived in Salem about 8 years. Born Jan. 5, 1881, in Iowa, she had moved with her family to Independence at an early age. She and the late Albert Clinton Moore were married in 1904 at Independence.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church and Pythian Sisters lodge, both in Independence.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Arthur V. Myers, Salem; a son, Dan E. Moore, Salem; a sister, Mrs. Mary M. Frieber, Salem; and four grandchildren. Funeral services will be 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Clough-Barrick chapel, the Rev. Daniel T. Wessler officiating. Burial will be in Belcrest Memorial Park.

PROTECTION NEEDED MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—When the frantic call came into police headquarters to "send the police right away," desk Patrolman George Katchner asked "what was wrong." "Somebody just took my modeling clay," came the reply in a high-pitched voice. The complainant's age was listed as 7.
