Best Baby Toys are Simplest ...

BEST-SELLING TOY ... This squeezable, unbreakable plastic milk bottle is filled with 14 brightly colored wooden clothespins and a chipboard punchout of Mickey Mouse outfitted as a milkman. Babies, it seems, love to dump out the toys. Sales are a million a year.

AP Newsfeatures

Some parents make the mistake of buying expensive complicated toys for their babies, and then feeling hurt when the infant ignores the fancy new toy and reaches for an old rattling spoon or an empty spoon instead.

The most popular toys for the crib and play-pen set usually are the simplest, says Gilbert C. Southwick, president of Childhood Interests, a firm specializing in educational toys.

He points out that one of the best-selling toys of the year is a soft plastic milk bottle filled with wooden clothespins. Babies first rattle the bottle, then dump out its contents, then put them back in again.

The partially transparent plastic lets the colored clothespins show through when the bottle is filled, further intriguing the small fry. In addition the bottle is soft, squeezable and unbreakable.

Sales of this simple toy are running at the rate of a million a year.

A companion piece is a set of three half-pint plastic bottles containing colored little wooden objects that look like tennpins.

For slightly older babies, who have started to walk, another popular toy is a push-toy milk wagon with six small wooden bottles colored to simulate bottles of orange juice, milk and chocolate milk.
