NEW YORK &—The nation's steel industry poured a record total of about 116 million net tons of ingots and steel for castings in 1955 compared with the previous record of 111,600,000 tons in 1953, Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, reported in a yearend statement Saturday.

The 1955 total also compared with the 1954 output of 88,300,000 tons.

"All indications point to continued high production, expansion and improvement in 1956," Howell said.

He added that the steel industry also paid its workers a record high payroll, stepped up expansion plans and established records in sales, shipments, safety and other fields.
