4 Star TV Number Classic Comedy Bit

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD — STARR REPORT: What happens when four people like Jack Benny, Peggy Lee, Elsa Lanchester and Frederic March get together to rehearse the "quartet" (and I use the word in its loosest possible sense) number they did last Thursday on "Shower of Stars"?

I sat in on a rehearsal the day before the show and watched them run through it no less than five times. On the first run-through, the entire crew plus all the usual hangers-on were killing themselves laughing. It hadn't been perfect, but it was funny.

Not to the director, however. Ralph Levy didn't laugh. "Look, people," he said, "let's go through this again. You have to play it straight. It just isn't funny if you don't know what you're doing."

They did it again. Peggy Lee goofed on the second bar, apologized and said, "Sorry, let's take it from the top." Halfway through, March missed a line completely. He frowned, slapped his knee and, let it be repeated, swore. Eloquently, too.

They took it from the top of his line and he missed it again. He frowned harder, swore louder. "What am I doing wrong?" he asked plaintively.

"It's the 'oh'," Peggy said. "You're waitin too long. Don't hold the 'oh'. Just go right ahead with it."

"Oh", said March. He muttered and hummed the line to himself twice.

"That's it," Benny said. "Now you've got it. Let's go back."

They took it from the top again. Benny, who rarely reads a throwaway line twice the same way, was deliberately trying to break Peggy up. Peggy had to keep looking at him and she couldn't keep a straight face. She broke..

"Come on, people," Levy called out. "Come on, Jack. I know it's fun but we've got work to do. Take it from the top. Now let's get it."

This time they got it, although it was still far from perfect. "Once more," Levy said, heartlessly. They did it once more, picking up the tempo and getting both the lines and the business a good deal more smoothly.

"All right for now," Levy said. "Take five and we'll go into the sketch."

Benny slumped down into a seat in the audience. "I'm getting awfully sick of this, but I think it's going to play well. It's a good bit. Ralph's right—if we don't know it cold it's not going to be funny. It's only when you know what you're doing that you can cut loose and start playing with it. But we'll get it."

Which they did. To my mind, it was one of the classic comedy bits of the season.

FOOTNOTE TO "Richard III": Laurence Oliver's great picture is now playing in theaters around the country. Go see it. Even if you saw it on television, go see it again, if only for the magnificent color. I was fortunate enough to be able to watch it on a 21-inch color set, the first time I had seen Technicolor film on color TV, and can report that it was an unforgettable experience. So go see it again. It's well worth it.

VIGNETTE: A TV producer recently wanted to sign a fairly well-known actress to an exclusive contract for a series of 13 half-hour films. He told her a national sponsor had already bought the show and that it would start on NBC in the fall. The actress, who is as smart as she is pretty, checked with NBC. The network had never heard of the show. She checked with the sponsor's advertising agency in Detroit. Same answer. Then she called the producer. He's now looking for another patsy.

STARRDUST: Bob Hope's Tuesday show, "The Awful Truth," was shot in advance via kinescope recording, the sets being such that it would have been impossible to get all the action on a live telecast. Hope wants to do more such "book" shows next season, and is leaning more and more heavily on the pre-kinescoped technique . . . Dean Martin, with Jerry Lewis, has been added to the cast of Dinah Shore's April 10 hour-long show with Marge and Gower Champion, Stubby Kaye, Johnny Silver and the Skylarks . . . "Ford Star Jubilee" next season will concentrate largely on the talents of such stars as Judy Garland, Bing Crosby, Red Skelton, Eddie Fisher and Noel Coward. But if they can find another "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial," they'll do it.

SHORT SHOTS: Mark Stevens is needling NBC for a better time period for his "Big Town" series, which this season has been airing at 10:30 p.m. on Tuesdays . . . On top of the panning she took on her first TV film, "Cleapatra Collins," Betty Grable comes out of her four-week stand at the El Rancho Vegas looking at a $53,000 lawsuit brought against her and her husband Harry James for expenses incurred during their four-week stay there. They were paid $51,000 for the show. The hotel claims Betty owes them $48,000 in salaries for the supporting cast, plus a $5,000 hotel bill.

Salary Plea Blamed for Nanette's Exit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—TV Guide magazine said Tuesday a demand for a $10,000-a-week salary, about three times her present pay, plus insistence on co-star billing led to the split between Nanette Fabray and Sid Caesar, her boss.

Caesar announced last week that Miss Fabray, who plays his wife on their weekly television show "Caesar's Hour," was leaving with regret.

The magazine reported that there was also a "clash of egos"—and this was another reason that Miss Fabray will depart at the end of the current season.

Won Awards

Miss Fabray on Sunday night won two "Emmy" awards, for best supporting actress and best comedienne. She took special pains to thank Caesar for his part in her success.

TV Guide said Miss Fabray currently is paid about $3,750 and that she wanted $10,000 weekly starting next fall.

A National Broadcasting Co. executive, close to the split, said however that Caesar was paying Miss Fabray $5,000 a week "when her agents demanded more. It was just a case of economics."

With Nanette

Currently the show credits read "Caesar's Hour, starring Sid Caesar with Nanette Fabray," and TV Guide said the actress wanted it changed to "co-starring Sid Caesar and Nanette Fabray."

It also said that "the pair have been reportedly tiffing behind the scenes for some time," adding:

"Insiders point out that she has been unhappy because Sid on occasion did not give her enough musical numbers to perform, limiting her efforts on some shows to one or two sketches."

PP&L Wins Preliminary Project Permit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission Monday issued a preliminary permit to Pacific Power and Light Co. for its proposed hydroelectric project on four Lewis River tributaries in Skamania County, Washington.

Cost of the project was estimated at between 16 and 18 million dollars when the firm applied for the permit in July of last year.

To be known as the Meadows Project, the plan calls for five dams and two powerhouses with an installed capacity of 74,000 kilowatts.

The dams, ranging in height from 20 to 150 feet, would be across Big Creek, Rush Creek, Meadow Creek and Curley Creek, all Lewis River tributaries. The Big Creek and Meadow Creek dams would create a reservoir.

The plan calls for dropping the combined streams a vertical distance of 2,175 feet through the two hydroelectric plants to the valley floor. This would make it one of the highest head hydro projects in the United States according to E. Robert de Luccia, PP&L vice president and chief engineer.

Power developed at the project would go to the Portland firm's customers in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

The preliminar, permit does not authorize construction. It merely gives the company priority to the sites while making studies necessary to prepare application for a federal license.

MONACO ANTHEM PRACTICED

GENOA, Italy (AP)—The U. S. S. Constitution Orchestra is practicing the national anthem of Monaco for the Prince Rainier - Grace Kelly wedding. The band's big moment will be when the American Export liner makes a special call off Monte Carlo in mid-April and puts the bridal party from the United States aboard the Prince's yacht Deo Juvante II.

Sterilization Eyed For Some Parents of Illegitimate Babies

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Parents who seek public welfare assistance for more than one illegitimate child could be sterilized, under a bill under study in the Mississippi House of Representatives.

Rep. D. H. Glass of Attala county, author of the bill, said Tuesday he introduced it in an effort to "curtail immorality at the state's expense."

He said the state is "innocently responsible for the immorality of a certain specie of our people in contributing to illegitimate births.

He said there are "plenty of Negro illegitimate children in my county."

Whites outnumber Negroes 15,000 to 11,000 in Attala county.

Royal Panel Asks Britain Allow Three New Grounds for Divorce

By STANLEY GODFREY

LONDON (AP)— A royal commission recommended Tuesday that Britain recognize three new grounds for divorce, now limited to adultery, cruelty and desertion.

But it warned that the idea of life-long marriage is in danger through growing social acceptance of divorce as a casual matter.

The commission, headed by 68-year-old Lord Morton, spent 4½ years sifting evidence on Britain's altering marriage pattern in a study intended to help bring marriage laws up to date.

Its 30,000-word report carried this theme: Divorce must not be made easier and all efforts should be made to bring divided couples together before dissolving a marriage.

But the 19-member commission, including lawyers, educators and doctors, unanimously recommended recognition of these matters as grounds for divorce:

1. Wilful refusal of one party to consummate the marriage (instead of being a ground for nullity, as at present).

Minus Consent

2. Artificial insemination of a wife without her husband's consent.

3. The fact that one party is a mental defective who has been detained for at least five years and who shows no hope of recovery from violent or dangerous characteristics.

In an introduction to the report, the commission said:

"Weighing all the evidence before us, we are satisfied that marriages are now breaking up which, in the past, would have held together."

Changes Favored

"We have evidence that in certain respects the present law hampers efforts to bring husband and wife together again and a majority has recommended changes designed to remedy these defects," the report said.

Among these was a recommendation that "a suitably qualified body" should set up to control national programs for premarital training and that government grants to existing marriage guidance bodies should be increased.

The commission's findings have no legal weight.

Its report will be studied by the government and later debated in parliament, which can adopt or reject all, or any, of the proposals.

Among the main recommendations for divorce law changes is that a husband should have the same right as a wife to claim maintenance "where he is destitute and the wife has more than is reasonably sufficient for her own support."

Right to Damages

Another is that a wife should be given the same right to claim damages from an adulteress in a divorce action as her husband has to claim them from an adulterer.

Divorces on grounds of cruelty should be allowed on past cruelties, the commission said, and it should no longer be necessary for the applicant to prove that he or she needs protection from cruelty at the time of seeking a divorce.

The three-year peroid of desertion needed for divorce should be altered to three years within any period of three years and one month to allow for a trial period of reconciliation, the commission said.

Italy Commie Boss Miffed by Stalin Stories

ROME (AP) — Italy's Communist Boss Palmiro Togliatti lashed out today at non-Communist comments on the Kremlin's anti-Stalin campaign. He termed the commentators "a mob of shrieking apes."

The attack came amid newspaper reports that Togliatti and his aides were having trouble deciding how to explain the Stalin switch to Italy's two million Communists.

In a front page statement in the Communist newspaper L'Unita, Togliatti fumed:

"Every time the Soviet Union makes a forward step, every time wrong or outmoded policies are changed . . . the mob of bourgeois journals and journalists only knows how to shout, shriek, fabricate and vomit lies, calumnies, vulgarisms and coarseness."

Togliatti spoke out from his Communist party headquarters on the Street of Dark Shops. Since his return from the Soviet Communist party's 20th congress in Moscow, he has remained secluded there, shunning recent important sessions in the Italian chamber of deputies. Togliatti, a deputy, normally attends with regularity.
