Tax Cut on Burned Forest Lands Studied

Reclassification and tax reductions on 19,000 acres of cutover and burned forest lands in six counties, including Marion, has been recommended by the State Forestry Department. The move comes under the Oregon Reforestation Law.

The recommendation goes to the State Tax Commission for consideration.

An estimated 1,446 acres in Marion County would be effected by the proposal. If the recommendation is approved taxes on these lands would drop to five cents an acre in lieu of property taxes.

The reclassification program is designed to encourage and aid owners to retain land and develop re-growth.

Harold Domogalla, Marion County assessor, said the county would lose little in taxes from such a move because the land in question is presently of little value. When forests are re-grown, the county would realize something from yield taxes, he added. About one million acres already have been reclassified under the law.

Rites Planned Tuesday for Salem Man

Funeral service for Stanley Quamme, 1299 Saginaw St., will be Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. in Howell-Edwards Chapel, to be followed by interment at Belcrest Memorial Park. The Rev. Wallace Almstead will officiate.

Quamme died last Saturday at a Salem hospital at the age of 82, after about a five-month illness. He was a heating plant employee of the Chemawa Indian School.

Quamme married the former Josephine I. Rossland of Williston, S. D. on Nov. 24, 1927, a year after he moved to Salem from Williston. He was a member of Salem Fraternal Order of Eagles and Thor Lodge 42, Sons of Norway.

Native of Salem Wins UO Medical Fellowship

A Salem native has been announced as first winner of a new $2,000 fellowship established at University of Oregon Medical School by the Oregon Heart Association.

Dr. Warren S. Welborn, 22, a resident physician at Stanford University Hospital, is first to receive the honor, it was announced Sunday by the association.

Called the Raymond R. Brown memorial fellowship in cardiology, the grant provides the recipient with opportunity to spend a year in clinical investigation or basic research at Oregon Medical School.

Dr. Welborn attended Salem schools, graduated from University of Oregon in 1949 and received a degree from Oregon Medical School. He is the son of Mrs. Lydia Welborn, 1680 N. 20th St., and his father was the late Warren Welborn, a mail carrier here for many years.

Dr. Welborn has served his internship and is in his second year of residency at Stanford Hospital.

The late Raymond Brown, for whom the fellowship is named, was a former president of the Heart Association, a member of the national advisory heart council and was recognized nationally for his work as a lay leader in the fight against heart disease.

Panel to Open Lectures at Willamette U.

Ministers of the Methodist Church in the Oregon Conference will be on the Willamette University campus Tuesday to attend a closed panel discussion on "The Church and Its Colleges."

The discussion will be held in collaboration with the opening of the Willamette University Lecture Series inauguration by Dr. Umphrey Lee, chancellor of Southern Methodist University, who will speak Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday on the theme, "Christianity — An Historic Faith."

Following Dr. Lee's opening lecture, a luncheon for the representatives of the Methodist Church will be held in Lausanne Hall. At 2 o'clock in the Fine Arts building the panel discussion will take place, with Dr. G. Herbert Smith acting as moderator. Dr. Frank Bennett, president of Eastern Oregon College of Education and representing education in the state, will speak of "The Place of the Church College in the Educational Program."

The Rev. Daniel E. Walker of the Methodist Church in Corvallis and member of the National Board of Methodist Churches, will take as his topic "The Relationship of the Church and its Colleges." Professor Burton Bastuscheck, assistant professor of religion at Willamette University, will speak on "The Church College Serves its Constituency."

Representing the student viewpoint will be a freshman, David Steward of Corvallis, stating "What the Christian College Offers Its Students."

The general public is invited to attend the evening lectures presented by Dr. Lee in the Fine Arts building at 8 p.m.

State Highway Road Toll 25 During March

Oregon's 1958 traffic death toll swelled to 79 as a result of 25 fatalities during the month of March, according to the State Traffic Safety Division.

However, the March figure was well under the 33 total for the same month a year ago and also was lower than figures for January and February.

The 1958 March total may climb slightly because of possibility of belated reports, officials said.

The February mileage death rate was 5.7 persons killed for each one million miles of travel. Total miles traveled during February was 477,262,442, which was under mileage figures for January.

Distribution of State Liquor Fund Ready

Distribution of $220,000 in liquor privilege tax money to state and county general funds has been announced by Secretary of State Earl Newbery. The money covers the quarter which ended March 31. Funds are distributed on the basis of 75 per cent to counties and 25 per cent to the state. Marion County received $10,997.64. Counties use the money for old age pensions, mothers' aid and direct relief of the indigent.

Urban Week Due in April

Emphasis on improvement of human relations in communities of the state will be made during Urban Week, which has been set from April 18 to 22 by Gov. Elmo Smith.

Highlight of the week will be a panel discussion at the 11th anniversary celebration of the Urban League of Portland on April 22 at Benson High School.

Panel theme will be "Religion's Responsibility for Improving Race Relations". Dr. Julian Keiser pastor of the Salem First Congregational Church, will be one of several ministers on the panel.
