to attend school with students of the other race.

Thus it could lead to a three-way school system — segregated for white and Negro, and integrated for both.

But it applies only to grade school and high school students and does not affect institutions of higher learning such as the University of Alabama, where rioting recently greeted the enrollment of the first Negro student, Autherine Lucy.

Miss Lucy was barred from the campus because of the mob action Feb. 5 and later expelled from
