The Senate passed a bill Wednesday to put hobbles on bank holding companies. It looks to be tailored especially to curb Transamerica Corporation, holding company for a vast empire of finance and industry in the West. Sen Morse tried to get the bill amended to apply to all bank holding companies but failed, but one amendment he offered was adopted. Last session the House passed a very restrictive bank holding company bill by an overwhelming majority. The two bills differ in some respects and will now a local control of the total.

'Yes' Decision Ends Speculation

WASHINGTON—Vice President Richard Nixon, meeting with newsmen outside the White House, Thursday a naonaced his decision to run for re-election. Presidential Press Secretary Jim Hagerty said the President was "delighted" by Nixon's decision. The announcement ended months of speculation, amid recurrent talk that Nixon might be left off the ticket as to whether the vice president again would be Eisenhower's running mate. (AP Wirephoto).
