By C. YATES McDANIEL
ON BOARD THE U. S. S. NAUTILUS — The submarine Nautilus emerged from the secret depths of the Atlantic Sunday and surged proudly into New York harbor to give the world a look at the capital ship of the future atomic fleet.

This was the first cruise that ended, by deliberate design of the Navy, where tens of thousands could see nuclear power in motion.

Proposed Superliner for Pacific Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO—This is an artist's conception of a super-liner for the Pacific. American President Lines officials said the luxury craft would be 825 feet long, with a speed of 26 knots and have accommodations for 1200 passengers. The cost would approximate $50,000,000. The ship, scheduled to be constructed in the near future, was one of 24 new passenger and cargo ships embodied in a contract signed by the steamship line and the Federal Maritime Board here. # 'Check Rein' Asked on TV News Casts WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said Sunday a government "check rein" may be needed to make sure television networks broadcast unbiased news.

Bricker cited this as an additional reason why he believes Congress should hold hearings on his bill to put networks under federal regulation.

"I don't want any censorship," Bricker said in an interview, "that would be 10 times worse. That's the practice of a monolithic state."

But he said that networks, through news commentary and political broadcasts, have a "potential power to mold public opinion" that may require some kind of control.

So far, he said, the networks generally have been fair in news commentary and in giving political parties equal access to the air.

But if they wanted to revise their policies, he said, there "is nothing to stop them."

Bricker already has presented as one reason for federal regulation the claim that networks have an unchecked monopoly.

When someone's counting on you... you can count on life insurance

What are your plans for retirement? Will it be a time to enjoy the trips you always seem to be postponing? Hours to spend with your favorite hobbies? Or perhaps the fun of developing a small business of your own?

Whatever your hopes, they require planning ahead for your financial needs when you retire. This is where your present life insurance may help... because most policies offer two forms of protection. First, they protect your family now. Then, when your youngsters are grown, these same policies can add to your own income at retirement.

Last year more than half of all life insurance benefits were paid to policyholders themselves... including many millions of dollars as monthly income for retired men and women.

This is one of the reasons why you can count on life insurance... and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

You may be able to arrange your present life insurance to provide a regular income when you retire. The best person to show you how this may be done is your own life insurance agent.

You will also find helpful suggestions in the new booklet, Your Life Insurance—and How to Use It. Your free copy will be mailed promptly; simply send your name and address on a postcard to Dept. L.

Yours free!
