Canned Meat Handy During Summertime

Handy canned meats have come to the rescue of many an unplanned get-together for teenagers or grownups. For such unplanned affairs and for family meals, it's wise to keep a plentiful supply of time and party saving canned meats within fingertip reach.

Take a good look at any canned meat shelf and you are sure to find a variety of economical, easy-to-serve canned meats for both party and family service. When stocking your cupboard with these handy meats, be sure to choose from the many quality branded items. Canned meats which boast a well known quality seal have complete heating and serving directions on every can.

Hamburgers, one of the most popular of the canned meats, are a particular favorite of the young set. For a teenage record party or after-the-movie affair, platter of piping hot hamburgers served in toasted or oven-warmed hamburger buns with soft drinks are refreshment aplenty.

To serve canned hamburgers, just heat them in their own gravy and serve with any of the traditional accompaniments such as catsup, chili sauce or barbecue sauce. Or, for a super deluxe hamburger-cheese combination, heat the canned hamburgers in a flavorful tomato cheese sauce before serving. Here's an easy recipe that's bound to intrigue the record set.

Hamburgers With Tomato Cheese Sauce
 1 can hamburgers
 1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
 1 cup tomato juice
 1/2 cup processed cheese food
 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 Mix together cornstarch and enough tomato juice to make a smooth paste. Add remaining tomato juice, cheese, Worcestershire sauce and green pepper. Cook, stirring constantly over low heat until thick. Stir in gravy from can of hamburgers. Place hamburgers on top of sauce, cover and cook about 10 minutes or until hamburgers are heated. Makes 3 or 4 servings.
