Senators Tilt With Lewiston Bows to Rain

LEWISTON (Special)—The Salem Senators and Lewiston Braves were rained out of their scheduled Northwest League baseball game here Wednesday night, as thunderstorms moved into this area and made play impossible.

The teams hope to make up the rainout Thursday night, via a doubleheader.

Lewiston leads the current series 2-0 after winning 9-8 and 10-3 games Monday and Tuesday nights. The series is scheduled to end Thursday, after which the Senators move on to Spokane for four weekend games with the Indians. Salem returns home next Monday to open a series with the Eugene Emeralds.

Both Have Streaks
Lewiston is working on a six game winning streak, while Salem has now lost six in a row. The Senators expect to be considerably strengthened this weekend, as both second baseman Mel Krause and outfielder Jack Dunn likely will join the club in Spokane.

Manager Hugh Luby of the Senators also has lined up for additional player help for his club, but has mentioned no names or connections. The Senators got off to a five-game winning streak at the start of the season, but then lost eight in a row. After winning two games from Lewiston at Salem, the Senators then went on their current six-game losing string.

Radio Station KSLM will broadcast both games of the Thursday Salem-Lewiston doubleheader, starting at eight o'clock. The pregame "Dugout Dope" program will go on at 7:45 o'clock.

A's Pull Up; Yanks Victor

Kansas City's Athletics finally pulled out of the American League cellar Wednesday but had to go to extremes to do it—defeating Washington 7-6 in 17 innings.

The A's three times scrambled from behind in the 4-hour, 5-minute marathon, scoring the deciding run on a wild pitch by Camilo Pascual, Washington's fifth pitcher.

New York's Yankees were back in business with a 17-hit attack that made up for shabby pitching and fielding to wallop Detroit 13-5 and retain their 2 1/2-game AL lead. Second-place Cleveland kept the pace as Herb Score won his fifth in a 6-3 decision over Boston.

The defeat sent the Red Sox 1 1/2 games behind the Indians and trimmed their edge over fourth-place Chicago to 1 1/2 games as the White Sox beat Baltimore 3-2.

Rain Halts Two Games
Rain postponed Milwaukee at Brooklyn and Cincinnati at New York in the National League.

The A's, now a half-game ahead of the Senators, came out of the first inning with a 3-2 lead, but had to rally for two in the ninth to tie it at 5-5. Washington broke the knot with one in the 17th, but Jim Finigan homered to tie it again in the bottom half and set up Pascual's errant toss as the clincher.

Longest Game
It was the longest game in the AL since April 27 last season. The Senators were hooked up in that one, too—losing 6-5 Cleveland in 17 innings. The National League had a 17-inning game three weeks ago with New York defeating Chicago 6-5.

The Yankees, knocked off a six-game winning streak Tuesday by the Tigers, got rid of starter Billy Hoef in a five-run second inning and then packed it away against Detroit boss baby Jim Brady as (Continued on next page)

PCC Officials Eye Charges By Uke Alum

VICTORIA, B.C. (U)—In an atmosphere of calm after the storm, the Pacific Coast Conference ended its 5-day, penalty-dispensing session here Wednesday after indicating it may hold a special meeting to consider accusations of improper payments to University of Southern California athletes.

Dr. Glenn Seaborg, the PCC spokesman from the University of California, said in a parting keynote, in reply to a question about possible revision of the conference's athletic code:

"The code is always being improved. We are considering more seriously than usual the possibility of change."

Unofficial Talks
There has been unofficial talk about the possibility of adopting a more liberal interpretation of the code or to go in the opposite direction toward the stricter policies of the Ivy League. These unofficial discussions have come amid the furor over the severe penalties against the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Washington for aid to athletes from outside sources.

The closing hours of the session Wednesday afternoon were devoted largely to minor matters.

The accusations against Southern California were made earlier Wednesday in Los Angeles by a UCLA alumnus. He charged $7,235 was paid illegally to 60 USC athletes over a two-year period.

Evidence Forwarded
The alumnus, J. Miller Leavy, told a news conference he had forwarded the documentary evidence to conference officials.

Here for the spring meeting of the circuit, conference President Emmet Moore and Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt said they had not yet received the information.

The conference statement Wednesday said: "It is the intention of the conference (Continued on next page)"

Annual YMCA Sport Show Set Tonight

The annual Salem YMCA Sports Awards Banquet is set tonight at the First Christian Church, starting at 6:30 o'clock. It is open to the public and tickets may be secured either at the YMCA today or at the church tonight.

Ted Ogdahl, football and track coach at Willamette University will act as master of ceremonies for the banquet, and Roy Harjan, president of the YMCA board of directors will handle the presentations.

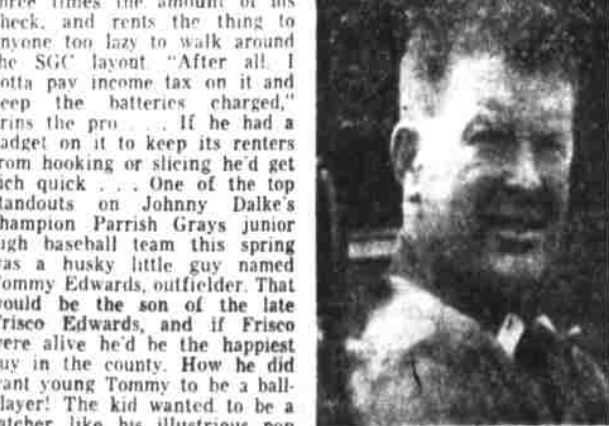

Dozens of awards are to be made to the many who have earned recognition during the year in the numerous YMCA programs, according to physical director Dale Dykman.

Also, two special awards are to be made to the "Boy of the Year," and to the person selected as having contributed the most volunteer service to the YMCA. Winners of these two awards will be announced for the first time during tonight's spread.

The First Christian Church is located at Cottage and Marion Streets.

SPORTS LIGHTNER

This, that, etc. Humpy Mason's recent victory in the Oregon Open was worth much more than the $500 check he got. He also brought home one of those snazzy, electric powered "caddies" which is worth almost three times the amount of his check, and rents the thing to anyone too lazy to walk around the SGC layout. "After all, I gotta pay income tax on it and keep the batteries charged," grins the pro. If he had a gadget on it to keep its renters from hooking or slicing he'd get rich quick. . . . One of the top standouts on Johnny Dalke's champion Parrish Grays junior high baseball team this spring was a husky little guy named Tommy Edwards, outfielder. That would be the son of the late Frisco Edwards, and if Frisco were alive he'd be the happiest guy in the county. How he did want young Tommy to be a ballplayer! The kid wanted to be a catcher like his illustrious pop was, but is left handed. So it was either pitch, play first base or go into the outfield. He chose the latter and did very well at it for the Northwest Sports organization which operates all auto racing at the Portland Speedway and Jantzen Beach tracks is bringing an official NASCAR program to the Speedway next Sunday afternoon, and it will amount to the biggest racing card in Oregon's history. But what is more important to the local speed fan is the fact that the same outfit is working on a return match for the finale of the State Fair at Lone Oak track in September. That would be something.

BOB GREGG He failed physical.

Woe Befalls 'Indy' Hopefuls From Our Area
Speaking of the auto racers, drivers from this area who had hoped to do big things in this year's Indianapolis "500" are having their woe. Len Sutton has already had two bad spills in the tuneups, and the last one left him so cut and battered that he quite likely will not be fit to drive in the classic next week. Barefoot Bob Gregg was all set for his try, until he had to pass the rigid physical examination for drivers. He failed because he cannot turn his head to the left far enough. A broken neck suffered some time ago left the blond heavyweight with limited use of his neck. And we're told that Shory Templeman, the former midjet and big car driving champ of the Northwest has broken training so often that his mount has been taken from him.

However, both Bob Christie of Grants Pass and Jack Turner of Seattle, both with numerous Hollywood Bowl appearances behind them, are still in the field at Indianapolis, and may be driving in the big one.

Although there is little amusement in the recent athletic spunkings passed out by the Coast Conference brass, we imagine the USC (Con't on page 12, col. 1)

Bears Top Ems, 8-1, Lead NWL Standings

EUGENE (U)—The Yakima Bears edged Eugene out of first place in the Northwest League baseball race Wednesday night with an 8-1 victory here. Yakima now is a half game out in front and Eugene is in second place.

'Spitball' Hurler Taken by Death
SPokane (U)—Henry (Harry) Howell, 80, a former major league baseball player who claimed to be one of the first "spitball" pitchers, died in a hospital here Tuesday.

Howell, a retired mining engineer, said he played with Baltimore under John McGraw, the St. Louis American and the old Brooklyn team in 1898.

Carter Loses To Summerlin

DETROIT (U)—Johnny Summerlin of Detroit started and finished strong to win a unanimous 10-round decision here Wednesday night over Harold Carter of Linden, N.J. Summerlin weighed 194 1/2 and Carter 195.

The bout, nationally televised, was billed as another in a series of elimination events to find a successor to the heavyweight title vacated by the retired champion, Rocky Marciano.

Carter, losing only his second fight in 22 decisions, had only two days of boxing in preparing for the fight. But he made the favored Detroitier extend himself for a good finish to get the decision.

Scoring Talled
Referee Lou Jallo scored it 98-91, Judge Bill Appleton 96-90 and Judge Al Goodman 96-96, all for Summerlin. The Associated Press had it 97-92 for Summerlin.

Summerlin, the nation's fifth ranked heavyweight, won his 30th professional fight. He has lost four and drawn twice.

But the victory for Summerlin was not too impressive. Carter, 22, took Summerlin's best punches and in the middle rounds had his opponent backing off. Carter took the bout only last Friday as a replacement for Chicago's Bob Satterfield, who withdrew because of an elbow injury. Carter is ranked seventh in the division.

PCC Grid Helmets To Have Numbers

VICTORIA, B.C. (U)—It's going to be easier to identify football players in Pacific Coast Conference games next fall.

The coaches, in session here, got approval from the faculty directors of the conference to put numbers on the helmets.

The identifying numbers will be three inches high on both sides of the headgear.

Slats' Daughter Plans Wedding

CORVALLIS (U)—Jane Ann Gill, daughter of the Oregon State College basketball coach, Slats Gill, will be married this summer to Jack Stephenson.

Their engagement was announced Tuesday night.

Miss Gill and Stephenson are seniors at OSC. Stephenson is a three-year letterman on the baseball team.

Softball Meeting Set
Industrial and City League softball managers will meet tonight at the School Administration Office at 7:30 p.m. It will be the last chance for any team to come into the leagues and it is imperative that all managers attend.
