Outside of Multnomah County, the new law breaks down counties northwest canning industry, state into two categories-one for counties wherein circuit courts take and civic affairs for more than 30 care of all judicial duties, and one the Northwest Canners Association for counties lesser-populated ones in Eastern Oregon) wherein counin 1935, and has been a director in many other industry associaty courts still retain some of the judicial prerogatives. He succeeds his brother, Robert Circuit Court Category.

The explanation herein deals with the first category. The law requires that in Marion

County, and others in this classification, the county clerk near the end of each year must select a list with a minimum of 1500 and a maximum of 5000 names repre senting all areas.

In Marion, for instance, County Clerk Henry Mattson last December made up such a list by taking every 15th name off the voter registration list until he had just over 1500. He got to the "Ms."

Next year he'll get them from the through the "Zs."

After that, he says, he'll prob-ably start all over and take every 30th name so that he traverses the entire alphabet each year. And he'll try not to include anyone who has served in the three or four years immediately preceding.

Voter or Taxpayer The law says the list may chosen either from the voter registration (nearly 50,000 in Marion County) or the tax rolls. Mattson elected to use the voter registration because it's under the jur isdiction of his office. Anyway, he arrives annually at about 1500 names in the manner described.

That's the basic list from which all jurors-grand, circuit and district courts-are drawn for the subsequent 12-month period.

The circuit court list is chosen first. Slips of paper with the 1500 names, are folded and placed in a squirrel cage" for mixing. Then, in the presence of Senio

Circuit Judge George Duncar Mattson draws 50 names. These are subject to call as circuit court jurors. Then he draws another 75 court jurors, for call if and when
