

Battle of Words Leads Robeson To Contempt of Congress Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negro singer Paul Robeson engaged in a lengthy battle of words Tuesday with the House Un-American Activities Committee which resulted in a decision by the committee to bring contempt of Congress charges against him. Chairman Walter (D-Pa.) said the committee was basing its action on Robeson's "entire conduct" at the hearing, "personal attacks on the committee" and "the smear on a senator." The latter reference was to Robeson's mention of Sen. East-

Multi-Purpose Chief Joseph Dam Dedicated

BRIDGEPORT, Wash. (AP)—Chief Joseph Dam, named for a reluctant Indian warrior, was dedicated Tuesday as another electrical harness on the Columbia, "the greatest power river on our continent."

Harold E. Stassen, special assistant to President Eisenhower, described the dam as part of "the American success story," in his dedication address. He also termed it "a magnificent tribute to the industry and initiative that flows everlastingly from the well-springs of freedom."

Parl of Basin Plan
The 160 million dollar project, which will ultimately produce 1,728,000 kilowatts, was described by Assistant Secretary of the Army George Roderick as part of the "unified development of the Columbia Basin."

The Columbia contains "about a third of our entire national water power potential," Roderick said, and "we have ultimately to make use of about 93 per cent of its 1,290-foot fall between the Canadian border and tidewater below Bonneville Dam."

Below Grand Coulee
Chief Joseph is about 51 miles downstream from Grand Coulee, the largest dam in the world. The structure is about 80 per cent complete, but its power has already gone on the line.

The dam is named for Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indians, who is pictured as a peaceful leader who once led his people in a five-month running battle with army troops through Idaho, before surrendering in 1877 near the Canadian border.

He is buried about 35 miles from the dam.

Driver Hurt In Polk Crash

INDEPENDENCE—Huey Myers of Independence Route 1, Box 49, was treated early Tuesday morning at Salem General Hospital for head wounds received in a one-car accident about 12:35 a.m. on Albany Road about 3 miles south of Independence, city police said.

The car in which Myers was driving alone was extensively damaged as it left the road and struck a tree, and Myers injuries apparently resulted from striking the windshield, police said. He was taken by Willamette Ambulance to the hospital, where he was released after treatment for bruises, cuts and embedded glass, attendants said.

Agricultural Specialists Meet Today

Fieldmen and headquarters staff of the State Agriculture Department's division of feeds and dairies will open their annual two-day conference in Salem today.

The conference will be under the direction of O. K. Beals, division chief.

Various department officials, including James F. Short, director, will participate in the first day's program. Subjects slated for discussion include dairy sanitation, Oregon's tuberculosis and bang's disease testing program as it affects the production of fluid milk, the pilot meat inspection program, and weights and measures.

Thursday's discussion will feature farm tank pickup practices, changing patterns in feed and beverage packing and handling, fiscal problems, visual aids and a summary of the divisions advisory committee meetings.

There also is a possibility that several proposed changes in laws governing the agricultural department's activities will be discussed.

Injured Scouts Now on Mend

MEDFORD (AP)—Two Boy Scouts were recovering in a hospital here Tuesday after their rescue from the wilds of southwestern Oregon, where they fell off a cliff while on a hiking trip Sunday.

Attendants said Tom Turpin, 14, and Bruce Blachly, 13, were "resting comfortably."

Turpin suffered concussion, shock and a jaw fracture. Blachly ankle and arm fractures in their fall from the cliff.

Other Scouts hiked to Agness on the lower Rogue with word of the rescue Monday. The rescuers had to take the boys out, first by boat, including several arduous portages, then by truck to Agness, and finally by the Medford Mercy Flights plane to a hospital here.

Baking Firm Office Begun

Construction of a Davidson Baking Company office building and storage area which will cost an estimated $52,000 was started Tuesday at 13th and Cross streets in Salem.

All operations in Salem will be consolidated in the 40-by-140-foot poured concrete building which will include sales and supervisors offices and a large meeting room. E. F. Davidson, president, announced Tuesday in Portland. The present Salem branch office is at 1905 N. Commercial St.

A $19,900 city building permit for the one-story construction at 1210 S. 13th St. was taken out Thursday by Bingham Construction Company of Portland.

A building identical to the new Salem structure also was started Tuesday in The Dalles, Davidson said.

No Action Set By Governor On Graft Study

The office of Gov. Elmo Smith indicated Tuesday the governor has had no request to intervene in a reported attempt by a former Marion County grand jury to reopen investigations in charges of graft and corruption in state institutions.

A spokesman at the governor's office said the matter "has not been brought to the attention" of the governor by any official source.

Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton said last Friday he had received a telephone call for a grand jury inquiring into the possibility of the attorney general's office making an investigation. Thornton said he informed the caller his office could move only on order from the governor.

Several of the grand jurors have indicated dissatisfaction with their report of last March in which they failed to find "a fermenting mass of graft and corruption," as charged by Al M. Richardson, former food manager at the state prison.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Kenneth Brown said Tuesday he has not been approached by any member of the grand jury "since the day all members voluntarily signed the report which concluded the investigation."

A spokesman for the grand jurors, who talked with a reporter Friday, was not available for comment Tuesday.

Police Seek Crash Driver

Police early today sought the driver of a car which struck two others before smashing into the concrete pillar of a parking company plant on North Commercial St.

Being questioned was Leo John Lipsky, 900 N. Commercial St., owner of the car who told police he was in a suburban cafe at the time of the accident. Lipsky's car was demolished by the mishap which occurred shortly before 12 midnight at the Producer's Cooperative Packing Co., in the 1600 block of N. Commercial.

Firemen were called to hose down gasoline spilled from the vehicle's ruptured tank. Both of the parked cars were damaged, police reported.

About 10 billion dollars worth of free road maps are given to people in the United States and Canada every year.

Columbia Dikes Hold, Flood Drops

PORTLAND (AP)—The dikes kept held in the lower Columbia River area Tuesday as the river edged downward about an inch.

Forecasters said the river will hold steady at 25 1/2 feet at Vancouver, Wash., through Wednesday, but then will begin a steady drop, going down 1 1/2 feet by Sunday. Flood stage at Vancouver is 15 feet.

$950,000 Suit Filed Against SP

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A South San Francisco railroad switchman Tuesday filed a suit in U.S. District Court asking $950,000 damages from the Southern Pacific Railway Co.

Court attaches expressed belief it is the largest sum ever asked in this type of complaint.

The suit was filed by George W. Barnett, 49, who lost both legs and his right arm when he fell between two cars last March 24.

Replat Near School Site Gains Okehs

Preliminary plans for replating of an area around the future Salem District school site north and west of Lowen Street on Kingwood Heights were viewed with favor Tuesday night by Salem Planning Commission.

Members decided to advise Jacob Lowen to proceed with formal plans for establishing streets around the school site, extending one new access street and vacating west ends of both Primrose and Margaret Streets.

The commission also asked its streets and traffic committee to bring in a report on suggestions from Southern Pacific that the city vacate parts of Howard and Nebraska Streets now occupied by railroad property at site of former grade crossings. The crossings were recently ordered closed by the public utilities commissioner.

A large public kiddies wading pool will be opened today at Englewood Park in East Salem. Walter Wirth, Salem city park superintendent, reported.
