Action Delayed On Employee's Reinstatement

Action by the State Industrial Accident Commission in connection with the reinstatement of Clyde Hill, recently discharged for alleged insubordination, has been deferred until probably early next week, the commission reported Tuesday.

Meanwhile Hill's Salem attorney, Ralph Wyckoff said Tuesday he intended to bring suit against the commission unless it "took action" soon on the Civil Service Commission's recommendation that Hill be rehired.

Hill, a resident of Noti, was discharged April 26 from his job as a safety inspector with the accident commission. He then appealed to the state civil service commission from the discharge order.

The Civil Service Commission, at a hearing here May 23, reinstated Hill to the Civil Service but did not direct that he be reinstated to his previous position.

He had been employed as an inspector for the Accident Commission for six years. He now holds a temporary private job.

One member of the Accident Commission said he wanted to read the full transcript of testimony at the hearing before reaching a decision. Hill denied the insubordination charge.

The Accident Commission will meet again Monday.

Record 350 Pass Swim Tests in YMCA Program

More than 350 youngsters, believed to be an all-time high, successfully passed tests that capped the Salem YMCA's annual Learn to Swim campaign. All will receive certificates at ceremonies Thursday, 7:30 p.m., in the YM gym.

Dale Dykman, YM physical director, pointed out that those passing the tests comprised well over half of approximately 600 boys and girls who tried for certificates. Participants in the campaign totaled about 850, but some 250 chose not to take tests held on Monday.

"Highly successful," was General Secretary Gus Moore's term for the 1956 program.

"Our campaign this year exposed more youngsters to swimming than at any other time I can recall," Moore said. He added that there was unusually fine response from youngsters in surrounding valley communities.

"The program helped all youngsters regardless of whether they passed the final tests," observed Dykman. "The campaign helped all to make an adjustment to the water."

A roster of 67 youngsters passed the 60-foot deep water test, which involved diving into deep water and swimming the 60 feet. A total of 37 earned certificates for a deep water plunge and 30-foot swim, while 97 passed the 20-foot test. Prone floating awards went to 164 for ability to float face down on top of the water for at least five seconds.

Parents of all participants are invited to attend the Thursday night award ceremonies.

Tax Agency's Look at Books Judged Legal

Circuit Judge Val D. Sloper Tuesday ruled against a lumber company's suit that condemned as a "fishing expedition" a State Tax Commission subpoena of the company's books for tax purposes.

The phrase "fishing expedition" apparently implied that the tax commission was uncertain of what it was seeking but suspected it might find something if it could get its hands on the company records. Judge Sloper, however, ruled that the commission's subpoena was for a specific purpose and not merely a general order to reveal the firm's books.

Pope and Talbot, prominent lumber firm, brought the suit asking for a declaratory judgment to make clear the rights of the respective parties.

In its complaint the lumber firm contended both that the commission lacked authority under existing statutes and that it infringed on the company's constitutional guarantee against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Judge Sloper confirmed a Tax Commission notice that failure to comply with the subpoena would make Pope and Talbot liable to certain criminal penalties.

County to Escape 'Attack' In Civil Defense Testing

There will be no rushing ambulances, buzzing jets, or scurrying troops, but throughout the city, county and state civil defense workers will be busy combating a make believe enemy delivering a nuclear attack on the Northwest.

All-Out Attack Due
The basic assumption for Operation Alert is that hypothetical air and submarine attacks will be made simultaneously against 76 areas in the United States. Theoretical air attacks in the Pacific Northwest will be made by hostile bombers carrying atomic and hydrogen bombs, plus high explosive and incendiary bombs. Enemy submarines may launch guided missiles against areas within their range, the civil defense bulletin said.

In Oregon the general pattern of the test will be to provide simulated care and housing for evacuees from Portland, and to provide support for that city after the hypothetical attack.

Stated as War Game
Operation Alert will be conducted as a war game, with civil defense agencies of the 48 states, the federal civil defense agency, the armed services, and other federal groups taking part. The over-all test will extend from July 20 to 26, but county and city participation will be only on the 20th.

The test period for Marion County civil defense units will be from whenever the first test alert is sounded until 7 p.m. Hub of the county civil defense network will be at the courthouse in Salem.
