Jalopy Destruction Derby Slated As Hollywood Bowl Feature Tonight

Forcing opponents off the track, such as is being accomplished above, is a pet trick during jalopy destruction derbies. There will be lots of this, and other similar mayhem tonight at Hollywood Bowl during the Capital Auto Racing Association's smasheroo.

The roaring wrecks go at it tonight at Hollywood Bowl here, featuring the weekly auto racing program on the Valley Sports organization's agenda. The jalopy destruction derby will get under way at 7:45 p.m., with regular time trials.

The Capital Auto Racing Association, guilty of banging things up in many a hilarious smasheroo the current and past seasons, will again provide the one of tonight.

The regular CARA drivers, who normally pilot stock hard tops and who generally look as if they're in a destruction derby even when riding herd on the regular racing vehicles, will be at the controls of the assorted klunkers.

They came forth with over 30 of the ramblin' wrecks during the last derby held here, and left most of them in badly bruised and battered shape after countless crackups and wrecks.

Over two dozen more of the ancient models have been lined up for tonight's go.

The jaloopies will perform in trophy dash, heat races and main events following the time trials. Then if any are still in running condition, they'll put the finish to the card with a demolition bee.

For other than the taboo on head-on collisions, all racing rules are suspended for tonight's card. The "anything goes" flag will be up all during the program.

badly in trying to cut down the Salem left fielder.

Koepf Taps Dandy

Harv. Koepf as next up bunted also, and so well that the squibbler got between Humphreys and Duretto for another scratch hit, filling the bases. This brought up George, and since he had just conversed with Generalissimo Luby for instructions, the Chiefs figured he'd try to squeeze in the winner. He didn't, much to Humphreys' disgust, and the big right-hander's glove was thrown high into the damp night air when the drive zoomed over Segovia.

Wenatchee got ahead by two when Segovia doubled in the fifth and scored on a pair of bunts, the latter by Don Lundberg that squeezed the center fielder across, and when Humphreys himself doubled in the sixth and scored on Dick Watson's single through the middle.

Salem tied it in the sixth when Mel Krause walked, Chuck Essegian picked up a scratch single on a slow bouncer to third base and the dependable Bob Easterbrook ripped a long double into deep left-center, scoring both runners.

Wild Pitch Helps

Humphreys helped kill himself off in the eighth after Gene Laurson, the new Solon third baseman singled and got to third on a sacrifice and a ground-out. The big hurler had a 2-0 count on Easterbrook, and then cut loose with a tremendous wild pitch high over Bob's head. This allowed Laurson to scoot in with the tieing run. Easterbrook then fanned for the third out.

Salem came close in the third when Essegian lined out to short with the bases full, and earlier in the second when Essegian tried to score from third on a short fly to right, and was thrown out at the plate by Phil Marvier. A double play helped George out of a tight squeeze in the ninth, and in the tenth he had some pitching to do when he walked te bases full after whiffig the first two swingers. He was un to it, however, and got Frank Mataya, the former Washington Stater on a third-out grounder to Krause.

Rain fell through most of the early part of the game, but things went on with no interruptions. In fact it was a fast clash for one of 11 innings, being knocked off in 2:24. Many of the 9-inning affairs go longer than that this semester . . . Vanni was in top form as early as the third inning when he gave plate ump Ted Lonat a good chewing for balls-strikes calls on Essegian.

5 Marks Fall In NCAA Meet

events Friday and there will be finals in 17 Saturday.

Bantum's shot putting proved the day's highlight. He got off one toss of 59 feet 5½ inches and then followed it with another of 60 feet ½ inch. Only world record holder Parry O'Brien and Kansas' Bill Nieder have thrown farther.

The Manhattan weightman, who towers several inches over six feet, surpassed O'Brien's 1953 NCAA mark of 58-7¼, O'Brien, now in the Air Force, has thrown 61-1 this year.

Hurdler Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College won his 110-yard heat in 13.9 seconds to better the meet record of 14 seconds shared by Clyde Scott of Arkansas and Jack Davis of the University of Southern California who ran in 1948 and 1952, respectively.

Muscular John Morefield of Massachusetts Institute of Technology threw the hammer 193 feet 2½ inches, about 17 feet past the previous meet standard.

Nieder Second

In the shot put, Nieder was second among the qualifiers with a throw of 57-3⅛.

Qualifying in the 100 and 200-meter dashes came much as expected with comparatively slow times in the century as the runners faced winds of from 6 to 8 mph.

Duke's Dave Sime won his heat in 10.6 seconds in the 100, but was edged by Dick Blair of Kansas in the 200 as both qualified easily. Blair ran 21 seconds flat.

And here is how Pacific Northwesterners fared:

In the 110 meter high hurdles, Dean Benson of Willamette qualified by coming in fourth in the second heat in 14.5 seconds. Heat winner was Joe Savoldi of Michigan State at 14.3.

McClure Qualifies

In the hop, step and jump, Don McClure of Oregon was the seventh to qualify for the finals with 46 feet, 7¾ inches. The leader was Bill Sharpe of West Chester, Pa., State Teachers, at 50 feet, 4¾ inches.

In the 10,000 meter final Dennis Critchfield of Idaho State came in seventh at 34:06.5. The leader was Selwyn Jones of Michigan State at 31:15.3.

John Fromm of Pacific Lutheran was the sixth qualifier in the javelin. He pegged the spear 215 feet. The leader at 231 feet, 8 inches was Phil Conley of Cal Tech.

In the 400 meter hurdles, Don Spinas of Oregon failed to qualify with a 54.9 time.

The 800 meter race saw Dave McCullough of Washington fail to qualify.

Sam Wesley of Oregon State failed to qualify in the 100 meter dash with his 10.9 time.

Spurrier into the grass on the last turn. Spurrier was placed second in the time of 1:48.6. Dick Foerester, Navy, was third.

Santee could not have qualified for the final Olympic trials as he has been ruled a pro by the AAU.

Courtney's effort was his second best time for the 800. He ran 1:46.8 in Finland last summer.

Martin Engel of the Army won the hammer throw with a meet and Coliseum record fling of 189 feet 5½ inches.

Competition in other events was to begin Friday evening. The hammer throw was held early to allow plenty of room.

Engel, former New York University star and a member of the 1952 U. S. Olympic team, eclipsed the meet record of 180 feet 7 inches set by Sam Felton of the Navy in 1953.

He also broke the Coliseum standard of 182 feet 5 inches he established when he won the final Olympic trials of 1952.

Taking second in Friday's event was Robert Taylor of the Army, formerly of Rhode Island State College, with 177 feet 11¼ inches. In third place was Tom Henderson of the Army, an ex-Yale athlete, with 172 feet 10½ inches.

The three men automatically qualify for the final Olympic trials here June 29-30.

Just One More Race . . . . .

Ab Jenkins at 73 Eyes Speed Attempt

(Editor's note: Streaking across Utah's Bonneville Salt flats, Ab Jenkins set auto racing records more than 20 years ago that still are unsurpassed. Now 73, he hasn't raced for five years but here's a report on his immediate plans that indicates things may be different soon.)

By DWIGHT L. JONES

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The orange racing car with the underslung snout and the high tail fin was doing 200 miles an hour when it hit a spot of water and skidded into a row of course markers.

One marker damaged the radiator.

Moments later 68-year-old master racer Ab Jenkins, standing up to steer his famous Mormon Meteor III because of fumes from the overheating engine, coasted to a stop just three minutes short of a new one-hour speed record.

The Associated Press reported the end of the run July 20, 1951:

"Disappointed, Jenkins crawled from the cockpit and reiterated that this was his last race:

"'At 68, I've outworn the car.'"

But that was five years ago.

Now 73 Years Old

Today, at 73, broad shouldered Ab Jenkins is talking of one more race. Far from retired, he is traveling this summer on a safety driving exhibition tour for a major automobile manufacturers. And he hopes to sandwich in a speed-endurance run in a stock car on the Bonneville salt flats of Western Utah—probably in July.

"I made a proposition and got called on it," he chuckled.

The racing proposition was typical of the man who holds more world auto speed records than any other human being. With his stack of records, trophies and fame, he could bask through the twilight of his life in the warmth of more thrilling memories than most.

But the thought of retirement apparently never enters his head.

He is now heading toward his 3 millionth mile as what he calls "the world's safest driver. "Operating with the motto that "courtesy is contagious,' he long ago chalked up more than 2½ million miles in more than 50 years of driving without an accident.

Brooks Move To 2nd Place

er's bases-loaded single that won it in the ninth.

The Braves, with manager Charley Grimm's job in jeopardy, blew a 4-1 lead to drop their 11th decision in the last 16. Bill Bruton hit a three-run homer for the Braves.

1-1 Tie Broken

Cincinnati broke a 1-all tie with two in the seven against tarter Johnny Antonelli, but after Schoendienst tied it, reliefer Windy McCall held the Redlegs in check. Johnny Klippstein walked Jim Mangan to force the big run home. Jackie Brandt and Bill Sarni, also ex-Cards, both were 0-for-5.

Elmer Valo's pinch three - run homer in the seventh and Jim Greengrass' solo shot in the ninth tied the opener for the Phils. And after Monte Irvin homered for the Cubs in the 10th, a bases-loaded walk by reliefer Turk Lown and Ted Kazanski's squeeze bunt won it. The Cubs scored six in the sixth to snare the afterpiece.

The Yanks got the job done against Mike Garcia, who was tagged for all nine of their hits in six innings. All the Tribe could get off Kucks was Jim Bushy's eighth inning homer. Al Rosen's two singles and an unearned run in the ninth. Kucks now is 8-3, with three victories over Cleveland.

Chisox Get Three

The White Sox got three runs off starter-loser Bob Wiesler with the help of eight walks and a hit off reliefer Camilo Pascual on Sherm Lollar's homer and a three-run triple by Nellie Fox. Billy Pierce gave eight hits for his ninth victory.

Boone smacked his No. 9 homer with one on in the sixth to give Detroit a 2-2 tie, then blasted No. 10 with two aboard in the eighth. Bob Porterfield went all the way for his sixth defeat. Billy Hoeft won his eighth.

Hal Smith's single broke up the game for Baltimore in the ninth after a walk and single off reliefer Bill Harrington. Lou Kretlow gave the Birds only one hits in 7 2-3 innings.

The Capitol Handicap, run annually as Laurel's opening day feature, was first held in 1919 when Billy Kelly was the victor.

'Live' Baseball Fails To Aid Mays' Hitting

MILWAUKEE (UP)—The baseball being used in the majors this season may be as hopped up as the hero of the "Man With the Golden Arm," but you can't prove it by Willie Mays of the New York Giants.

May, who pounded out 51 homers last season to lead both leagues, has only five this year. Willie confesses that the paradox has him nonplussed. He can't figure out how he could hit so many with a supposedly ("bonest") baseball in 1955 and so few this season when the ball, by all indications, is a mighty live one.

"I couldn't say if the ball is more lively, or not," Mays said, "I haven't hit that many long ones. I'm sure not the one that question. You better find somebody who has hit many homers. The ball hasn't gone anywhere for me."

Could Use Singles

May's difficulties are not confined to home runs this season. He could use some singles, too. As of June 11, the New York outfielder was hitting only .247 and he finished last season with a .319 mark.

Willie professes to be unconcerned about his current shortcomings at the plate. "It wouldn't take too many hits or homers to get back in the race," Mays said. "Last year I had hot streaks. One of these would be all I need to catch up.

"I don't know what's caused the slump. If I did I probably wouldn't be in one. It seems that when I do get hold of one there's always room for somebody to get under it."

Towering Blast

Mays hit one against the Milwaukee Braves in the opener of a series which no one got under. It was a typical Mays' home run: high and long. The towering blast carried about 420 feet into the left center field bleachers. It was his first home run since May 15.

In batting practice during the day, Mays hit three in the same general area. But during the game, his 402-foot drive to center and 320-foot shot to left, both against the fence, were caught.

Rigney Backs Willie

Rookie Giants' manager Bill Rigney has gone along with Mays during the slump, reasoning that the hits will start falling in for the slugger before long. Besides, the manager really hasn't had anyone hitting well enough to fill in for Mays.

The Giants in the latest averages were last in team batting, with not a regular over .300.

Thomson Has Lead in Open

Jerry Barber, 145-pounder from Los Angeles, and 24-year-old Wesley Ellis, a Texan who gave up medical studies to pursue the golf trail.

No Pacific Northwest golfers qualified for the 36-hole final.

Thomson grabbed three birdies on the first six holes but cooled considerably to make the turn in 34, one under par for the 6,902-yard, par 35-35-70 Oak Hill course.

After three-putting the 11th, Thomson sank a 30-footer to get the stroke back on the 13th, then played even par on the last five holes—a stretch which has broken the backs of the games best shotmakers all week.

Golf Lessons Draw Over 60

Over 60 junior boys and girls turned out Friday for the annual golf lessons and clinic at the Salem Club, provided by Pro Bunny Mason. The majority of the turnout was included in the boys' group, 8 to 12 years in age. Thirty-eight of these lads were counted.

The lessons will continue each Friday morning for a number of weeks, after which a tournament is to be held to climax the program.

In contrast by error, with preclinic publicity, a small registration fee was charged the juniors Friday and will be used for the purchase of trophies and prizes for the upcoming tournament.

in action, Cornell lost but one race—to Yale in the Carnegie Cup—this year. The Big Red avenged that defeat a week later by nipping the strong Elis in the Eastern sprint championship at the Potomac at Washington.

The three top varsity crews will be in adjoining lanes, Princeton in No. 9, Washington in the 10th spot and Cornell in the 11th position. There is supposed to be no advantage to any of the lanes.

The 13-0 victory scored over Vanderbilt this year was Mississippi's first shutout against the Commodores in a football series that dates back through 33 games since 1894.

Riders Okeh State Rodeos

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Six Oregon rodeos in the three-week period starting Sunday have been approved by the Rodeo Cowboys' Assn. for inclusion in national competition.

The rodeos, dates and purses:

The Douglas County Rodeo at Roseburg, June 23-24, $4,000.

Phil Sheridan Rodeo, Sheridan, June 23-24, $1,100.

Molalla Buckeroo, Molalla, July 1-4, $7,500.

St. Paul Rodeo, St. Paul, July 1-4, $8,400.

Klamath Basin Roundup, Klamath Falls, July 2-4, $6,250.

Riding Club Rodeo, Cottage Grove, July 7-8, $1,500.

Sheridan Gets Softball Win

SHERIDAN — (Special) — The Sheridan Darigold softball team nipped Central Jaycees, 4-3, in a WVL game here Friday night.

Frank Johnson of Sheridan collected three hits in four attempts and winning hurler Chuck Hopkins threw four-hit ball. Rex Davis of Central whopped a triple in his team's losing cause.

Losing hurler was Jim Rawlins, who gave up 11 hits.

Metric Mark Scoring Told

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Many championship track and field meets are being held at metric distances because this is an Olympic Games year. Here are the metric equivalents in relations to yards:

100 meters — 109 yards, one foot, one inch.

110 meters — 120 yards, 10.7 inches.

200 meters—218 yards, 2 feet, 2 inches.

400 meters — 437 yards, one foot, 4 inches.

800 meters—874 yards, 2 feet, 8 inches.

Ruth Jessen, Stewart Set for Links Playoff

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Canadian champion Marlene Stewart, graduated from Rollins College last week, and Ruth Jessen, Seattle University freshman, soundly defeated semifinals opponents in the women's national collegiate golf tournament Friday and headed toward a repeat of their sizzling contest in the North and South women's amateur.

The 5-foot-1 Miss Stewart's 5 and 4 victory over defending champion Jackie Yates of Honolulu was not unexpected after their earlier play in the coed meet.

Miss Jessen, six inches taller than Miss Stewart, defeated Barbara McIntire, another Rollins College product, 6 and 4. The long-driving Seattle player closed out the match with a birdie and matched Miss Stewart's par card for 14 holes.

Miss Jessen needed 34 holes of play to reach Saturday's 18-hole final match, compared with Miss Stewart's 57, and was 8 over par for the distance.

The collegiate finalists met in an early round of the North and South women's amateur at Pinehurst, N. C., and Miss Jessen had a 1 up advantage at the 17th tee. She three-putted to lose the hole. Miss Stewart won the 18th with a 15-foot birdie putt and went on to capture the tournament trophy.

Miss Stewart is 22 and Miss Jessen 19.

Kansas Tops In Qualifying

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The University of Kansas led the qualifying Friday in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. championships as nine athletes reached Saturday's finals.

UCLA was next with eight followed by the University of Southern California with seven.

California, Michigan State, Morgan State, Abilene Christian and Fresno State each had four qualifiers and Texas three.

Manhattan, Minnesota, Duke, San Jose State, Pittsburgh, West Chester, Pa., State Teachers, Oregon, Stanford and Indiana qualified two each. Twenty-eight schools had one.

Qualifying was held in 12 events with finals in those and five additional events scheduled Saturday.
