Betty Hutton 'Kills You With Affection'

By EVE STARR

HOLLYWOOD — STARR REPORT: Betty Hutton, who has all the spirit and enthusiasm of a playful puppy, along with the puppy's propensity for wrecking the house, is the kind of person who can kill you with affection.

Her latest target is Jess Oppenheimer, the old Hollywood hand who wrote and produced "I Love Lucy" for five years and who has now been engaged by NBC to sit with his feet on the desk and think. One of his recent, and more dangerous thoughts has been a possible film series for Miss Hutton. Miss Hutton has not only expressed herself as being "very interested" in the project but has referred to Oppenheimer as being "a genius."

Where Betty Hutton is concerned, this can be the kiss of death.

Two years ago this summer another genius was latched onto by Miss Hutton. His name was Max Liebman. He, too, had just completed five successful years with a top-rated show, the old "Show of Shows" with Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca. He, too, had an idea for Miss Hutton—a spectacular, the very first of its kind, called "Satins and Spurs." Miss Hutton, practically squirming with delight, tossed a very posh party for her hero in a private banquet room at the Brown Derby, complete with a lighted sign over the door that read, "Betty Hutton Presents Max Liebman."

The trouble, Liebman wearily recalls, started shortly therefter. He was accustomed to being both producer and director of his own shows. Miss Hutton, he soon discovered, was accustomed to being—or at least acting like—both producer and director of HER own shows. There is not much point in detailing what happens when two such determined souls meet head on in the same arena. Suffice it to say that the reception "Satins and Spurs" was not, to put it kindly, one of the season's outstanding hits.

So let Mr. Oppenheimer be forewarned. His years of experience with Lucille Ball should not be allowed to lull him into a sense of false security. Miss Ball is a genius in her own right, having always known and understood the functions of a producer, and her relationship with Oppenheimer was a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Mr. Oppenheimer, sir, Miss Hutton is not built like that. When she calls you a genius, she is actually mixing the lethal dose of arsenic. She doesn't mean to, but the record is nonetheless clear. Look out.

JACK BENNY, PHIL SILVERS AND Jackie Gleason, comics all, are turning serious next season—as comics have yearned to do since the beginning of time. Benny, of course, will do his usual quota of six "Shower of Stars" shows, some of them dramatic, and Gleason wants to play a priest in "Playhouse 90" dramatic show. Comes now Silvers with a yen to do a "Ford Star Jubilee" in addition his other duties, preferably in a dramatic role.

A NEWS SERVICE has asked Groucho Marx to serve as reporter at both the Republican and Democratic conventions, but whether or not this can be considered an example of a comic turning serious is a matter for debate. He'll take the job if he can work it out with his "You Bet Your Life" filming schedule.

IT'S BEGINNING to look as though 52 of those old RKO feature films, just recently released to TV, may show up on ABC at 7:30 Saturday nights under the title "Finest 52," replacing the network's current "Famous Film Festival" which had been scheduled to move into the Saturday time.

STARRDUST: The top 12 shows during this past season, according to the American Research Bureau (ARB ratings), were as follows: "The $64,000 Question," Ed Sullivan, "I Love Lucy," Groucho Marx, "Disneyland," Jack Benny, "I've Got a Secret," George Gobel, "The $64,000 Challenge," Perry Como, "Your Hit Parade," and "December Bride." These are all network shows, of course, for neither ARB nor any other rating service rates syndicated shows on a national basis. Which is too bad. Leaves poor old Liberace out in the cold, along with such other shows as Rosemary Clooney, "My Little Margie," "Waterfront," "I Led Three Lives," "Annie Oakley" and many others. Conspicuously missing from the top network 12 are such shows as Arthur Godfrey, "Dragnet," "Lassie," Burns & Allen, Sid Caesar, Phil Silvers, Red Skelton, "This Is Your Life," "What's My Line?" and ALL the dramatic shows, be they live or film, an hour or half an hour. Interesting.

SHORT SHOTS: Poor TV, which has been blamed for everything from the movie box office decline to poor eyesight among children, is now taking the rap for the shortage of good night-club acts. Dinah Shore and husband George Montgomery take off for six-week vacation in Hawaii as soon as she finishes her current two-week stand in Los Vegas at the Riviera Hotel. MGM won't let Pier Angeli guest with Vic Damone on his summer replacement show for "December Bride" and she's plenty mad about it. NBC will do a "Salute to Football" spectacular Sept. 9, in color from the Los Angeles Coliseum and with Jane Russell among others.

Stock Market Makes Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Under leadership by aircrafts and motors, the stock market made its first gain of the week Wednesday.

It was a minor gain and volume at 1,670,000 shares was not very much better than Tuesday's 1,430,000.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 30 cents to $181.20, with the industrials up 60 cents while the rails and utilities were unchanged.

With 1,133 issues traded, it was the broadest market since last Tuesday. Of the total, there were 432 advances and 410 declines. There were 10 new highs for the year and 37 new lows.
