

Japs Electing Solons; U.S. Issues at Stake

TOKYO — Millions of Japanese voted Sunday for their equivalent of U.S. Senators after a campaign based largely on two issues involving the United States.

At stake were 127 of the 250 seats in the House of Representatives. The upper House is expected to remain conservative despite rising socialist strength.

The results of the voting, basically a test of strength between Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's conservatives and the socialists, are expected to indicate:

- How fast the conservatives can push rearmament, advocated by the United States but distasteful to many Japanese who remember the terror of World War II bombings.
- How deep is the resentment of the Japanese people against U.S. military base policy on Okinawa.
- How far the socialists are demanding the Americans leave.
- A definite trend probably will not be established until sometime Monday.

Blue skies and bright sunshine caused political analysts to raise from 30 to 35 million the number they expect to vote. Japan has 1,002,677 registered voters.

Judge Who Tried Ex-Truman Aides Found Shot, Dies

ST. LOUIS — U. S. District Judge Ruben M. Hulen, who presided during the conspiracy trial of two former top Truman administration officials, died on the operating table Saturday after he had been found shot in the yard of his suburban home.

The 61-year-old jurist's death came less than four hours after he had been found at a spot in his yard where he occasionally practiced marksmanship.

He had been given preliminary treatment at St. Louis County hospital and rushed to Barnes hospital for an emergency operation. He died while this was in progress.

Judge Hulen, who physicians at county hospital said was shot in the left temple, had been given a blood transfusion in an ambulance en route to the second hospital.

Mrs. Hulen said her husband occasionally practiced revolver marksmanship by a woodpile in the back yard on squirrels and rabbits.

Matthew J. Connelly, White House appointments secretary to former President Truman, and T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the justice department's tax division, were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government by a jury in Judge Hulen's court June 14.

The two men were scheduled to be sentenced by him July 19, the same date motions for a new trial are to be heard. Judge Hulen was found by a negro gardener, Ivory Robertson, who told officers the jurist was lying on his back with a .32 caliber revolver near his left foot.

Norway Faces Strike Crisis; 41,000 Out

OSLO, Norway — Norway faces its worst labor conflict in 25 years Saturday night, as 16,000 workers in the thriving paper and wood pulp industry struck for more pay, bringing the number of Norwegians now on strike to nearly 41,000.

The last comparable labor conflict was in 1931, when a nationwide lockout forced thousands of workers into the streets.

No quick solution was in sight and the work stoppages will cost the nation several million kroner a day in lost earnings, production losses and foreign exchange.

The three strikes came after long negotiations, including normal direct talks, voluntary government mediation and personal intervention by labor minister Erik Olsen. Fearing labor reaction, the socialist government decided not to make use of forced arbitration.

11,000 Jam Third U.S. Jazz Festival Activities Crash Kills Five Persons

NEWPORT, R.I. — The third annual American jazz festival came to a successful conclusion Saturday night with the record attendance of 11,000 fans gathered under the stars at Freebody Park for an all-star program.

The future of jazz at Newport is undecided. President Louis L. Lorillard of the festival did not seem hopeful, although he declined to comment.

"The board of directors of the American Jazz Festival in Newport will decide the future at their next meeting, and it is likely that they will consider offers from other communities," Lorillard said, though he admitted the city of Newport had been most cooperative this year.

Jazz Taken Seriously
The festival left no doubt that today's youth take their jazz seriously. An estimated 75 per cent of the audience was under 25.

Enthusiasm and beer resulted in a few, off-beat noises, but mostly the starchy eyed music lovers were orderly.

The Voice of America carried much of the program to the far places of the world.

Friday night's record crowd, which was a sellout, brought the attendance for the three nights to around 25,000, which indicated a rate of more than $60,000.

Hobby of Jazz
The Rev. Norman O'Connor of Boston, who has made a hobby of jazz, was master of ceremonies, and gave a little history of each group as he brought them on stage.

Duke Ellington, who wrapped up the evening when his band played several new numbers as well as the old favorites, opened the concert with the Star Spangled Banner and a couple of mood-setting numbers.

The Bud Shank quartet, with Bud starting on the saxophone, paved the way with several numbers in the progressive manner.

Ike, Dulles Fail to Get 2 New Weapons

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles, it is now clear, have failed to get two new weapons they sought at this session of Congress for fighting Russia's economic offensive in Asia and Africa.

What effect the Congressional refusal will have on United States cold war strategy is uncertain. If officials have any alternative proposition in mind they have not said so.

Within administration circles, however, the reaction to the re-buffs received from Congress is less than one of alarm. One reason is that the vital importance of the two new weapons has been in dispute among officials themselves from the beginning; the other is that administration leaders became reconciled to their lost several weeks ago.

Both were related to the foreign aid program and were contained in the administration version of that program as it was presented to Congress early this year.

One weapon—the one about which Secretary of State Dulles talked most at the time—was proposed authority for the foreign aid administration to guarantee United States participation over a number of years in construction projects in foreign countries.

The other new power proposed—new, at least, on the scale which the administration suggested—was flexibility in the use of foreign aid funds. Much of this has been denied, although some degree of flexibility in administration action has been provided in the present foreign aid legislation as in that of former years.

Truck Driver Offers Money To Kidnap

CINCINNATI — A truck driver walked into the Cincinnati Enquirer newsroom Saturday night with a plan he thinks will turn the trick in returning kidnapped Peter Weinberger to his parents.

And Bernard Waterman says he is willing to spend $2,000 of his own money to make his plan work.

Waterman said he figures the kidnap might be willing to meet some one far removed from the scene of the kidnaping. "I think this kidnaping is too scared of police to try and collect now," Waterman said.

The Weinberger baby, only five weeks old, was snatched from his carriage last Wednesday from the family's Westbury, N.Y., home. A ransom note asking $2,000 was left.

Crippled Wife, 80, Husband Die in Pact

DETROIT, Mich. — A crippled 80-year-old woman and her 77-year-old husband died Saturday in what police said was a murder and suicide.

The victims were Mrs. Nellie Wickham, released from a hospital only three weeks ago after treatment for a broken leg she suffered last May, and Roy C. Wickham, a retired butcher.

Police Sgt. Angus McIntyre said Wickham shot his wife and then himself.

Mrs. Wickham died in her wheelchair. Wickham, found on the basement floor with a .38 caliber pistol beside him, died on a hospital operating table.

White-Maned Traveler Visits Big City, Capital of Each State

By CALVIN JOHNSON
Staff Writer, The Statesman

A 78-year-old white-maned traveler popped in and out of Salem Saturday, keeping a promise he made earlier this year to visit the major city and capital of every state in the country.

He had just arrived from Boise, Idaho, by way of Portland, and was on his way to Olympia via Tacoma before the sun had set.

The hasty voyager calls himself an "ambassador of God Will" and his home port is East Orange, N.J. His calling card says he is also an unofficial representative of the East Orange Chamber of Commerce.

He started this year's trek May 11, and expects to cover about 17,000 miles before returning home in September. To date he has been in 24 states and visited 59 cities, leaving about 70 cities to visit during the next two months.

"And the whole thing, including transportation, won't cost more than $800," Harry said. Saturday's visit was his third stop at Salem, which may account for his short stay. He was last here in 1953.

Bigger Kicks
"Each year I get a bigger kick out of the trip," Harry said, "chiefly because I know more people and remember more things about the different areas." He admitted, however, "that when I first started I got rather lonesome at times."

"I find the United States is truly God's country," Harry said, adding that "everywhere I've gone I continually find improvements."

Then, with a flourish of his hand, a nod and a smart wink, Harry got up and headed for his Tacoma transportation, calling over his shoulder, "If you're ever in East Orange, look me up."

McKay Says Ike Will Run

BEND, Ore. — Douglas McKay, campaigning for the U.S. Senate, said Saturday that President Eisenhower "is going to run again because he has a mission to fulfill."

McKay, who resigned as Secretary of the Interior to run against Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore), said he had no "inside information" from Washington, but was making the statement on a "hunch."

McKay, taking note of Democratic attacks on Eisenhower as a part-time president, said "I would rather have Ike one hour a day than all three Democratic aspirants 16 hours a day."

Demos Back Kefauver as 2nd Choice

Sen. Estes Kefauver, who was defeated by Adlai Stevenson in the Oregon Democratic presidential primary, is the second choice of four Oregon delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Thirteen members of the 16-man delegation attended an organizational meeting here Saturday. All are pledged to support Stevenson at the convention.

Eleven of these were polled on their second choice should Stevenson lose out. Four said they were for Kefauver, two favor Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), one chose Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, one favored either Williams or Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement and one favored New York Gov. Averell Harriman.

Two refused to concede that Stevenson might not be nominated and declined to name a second choice.

Actress Has 7-Pound Boy

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Actress Yvonne De Carlo gave birth to a 7-pound boy Saturday in St. John's Hospital. It was the first child for the 32-year-old actress, who is married to movie stuntman Robert Morgan.

The baby, named Bruce Ross Morgan, was not expected until September, but Miss De Carlo's physician said both mother and child are in good condition.

Police Arrest Bottle Tosser

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. — Fred Bantz was charged with assault causing bodily harm Saturday in connection with a bottle-throwing incident at a Friday night wrestling show.

June Byers of Houston, Tex., billed as world champion woman wrestler, lost the sight of her right eye temporarily as a result of the attack. Bantz was plucked from the crowd of 800 by Sam Menicken, the wrestler's husband, and turned over to police.

Doctors said Miss Byers "temporarily lost half the vision in her right eye and suffered hemorrhaging behind the eye." They said she would recover after a few days in bed. The cut required three stitches.

Steel Strike to Add Swiftly to Jobless Total

PITTSBURGH — The nationwide steel strike marched through its first week Saturday more as a disagreement among friends than a major economic struggle between mighty forces of big labor and big business.

There was no sign of a solution. Ninety per cent of the nation's basic steel production had been halted; 650,000 steelworkers were idle. Their walkout spread its effects to other industries where nearly 50,000 more workers were furloughed "for the duration."

In Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania Railroad disclosed that all 7,000 non-union employees of the railroad have been placed on reduced work scheduled for the duration of the steel strike.

The total of strike-idled workers was certain to climb swiftly next week as business generally returned to a more normal course after the July 4th holiday week—a widely-used vacation period.

Log Tumbles, Kills Trucker

GOLD BEACH, Ore. — A log fell on Ronald Kenneth Owen, 22, Gold Beach, and killed him as he adjusted a load on his truck Friday.

The body was discovered by another trucker, Bob Ezell. He had to walk four miles up a narrow highway to get aid.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Owen, Gold Beach, and a sister, Mrs. Esther Suter, Roseburg.

Wife Recovering After Mate Shoots Her in TV Row

BOCA RATON, Fla. — Mrs. Anna Slemmer, 43, was reported improving Saturday after being shot by her husband in an argument over their television set.

The Slemmers were watching a crime program Thursday night when they decided the picture wasn't quite up to par, police chief W. A. Brown related.

In the argument over where the indoor antenna should be placed, Mrs. Slemmer grabbed a pair of scissors and her husband, David, 42, went for his .32 caliber revolver.

Brown said Slemmer hit his wife in the shoulder with the second shot. The first was fired toward the ceiling.

Slemmer was held in $1,000 bond on an aggravated assault charge.

Corvallis Paper to Name Juveniles Accused of Crime

CORVALLIS — The Corvallis Gazette-Times has begun publishing the names of juveniles charged with felonies.

R. C. Ingalls, publisher, said the paper also will print the names of juveniles guilty of misdemeanors when authorities state they have become habitual breakers of the law.

The paper, which in the past has not revealed the names of juveniles in trouble, adopted the new policy after polling a number of parents, Ingalls said.

He said the policy will continue until the community expresses a desire for a change.

"After all, it will be very simple for juveniles to keep their names out of the paper for committing a crime," he said.

Thornton Backs Teachers' Right To Use Discipline

Public school teachers have the right to squelch misbehavior of pupils outside of school hours when necessary to protect property or discipline, Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said Saturday.

The ruling was requested by Deschutes County District Atty. G. F. Rakestraw of Bend.

The school board is responsible for maintaining order of the school building and may appoint supervising officers to maintain order and protect property, Thornton said.

Reds Tell France To Free Algeria

MOSCOW — Pravda in effect told France Saturday to free Algeria.

An article in the official newspaper of the Russian Communist Party said the only solution to the conflict between France and the Algerian nationalists was the one used in Morocco and Tunisia. France has granted independence to both those former protectorates in North Africa.

France has taken a different attitude toward Algeria, considering it a part of metropolitan France.

Portland Hospital Rate Increased

PORTLAND — Portland hospitals Sunday increased their rates $1.25 a day. This will make the minimum rate $16.25 a day.

Wesley G. Lamer, chairman of the Portland Council of Hospitals, said the increase was made necessary by a wage boost granted hospital employees.
