Braves Snatch 6 to 2 Victory Series With Eugene Opens Here Tonight

KENNEWICK (Special) — The Salem Senators dropped their Northwest League baseball series finale here to the Tri-City Braves Thursday night by a 6-2 score, as Dave Kostenuk who was knocked out of the box in the first inning of Wednesday's game, returned to pitch the distance for the victory.

Young Arlie Alderman hurled a seven-hitter to match Kostenuk's but was the victim of three unearned runs as a result of two Salem errors.

Krause Hits Again
The Senators broke even in the local series at 2-2 and now move to Eugene where they open a five-game stand with a double-header Friday night.

Salem went 1-0 ahead here in the third Thursday when Mel Krause, who has apparently shaken his batting slump, singled to center and scored on Jack Dunn's double.

Esejias Belts Homer
The other Salem run came in the eighth, quickly. Chuck Esejias cracked his 10th homer of the season over the right field fence — his opposite field — at the 360-foot mark.

Tri-City scored twice in the fourth and twice in the sixth. Danny Holden's double and Ray Webster's throwing error contributed to the two runs of the fourth, which were tripled in by Tom Perez. Holden hit a homer in the sixth with one on for the next two rallies.

Krause and Dunn each had two of Salem's hits.

King Does Catching
A change was made in the Senator lineup by Ronnie King, who has been pinch-hitting as club manager for absent Hugh Luby. King inserted himself in the catching position and got one hit in three trips.

Salem had men on bases often, but no clutch hitting was present in most instances.

Alderman's record is now 4-5, Kostenuk's 7-6. Holden and Kostenuk each had two of the seven Tri-City bingles.

George, Cade Named
Andy George (8-3) and Lefty Jerry Cade (4-8) are to pitch against the Eugene club in Friday's twin bill. A single game is set for Saturday night and another doubleheader for Sunday afternoon at Eugene. Salem then moves home to play Eugene in four games, starting Monday night.

Gain after rain...

BY DON HARGER

The latest and most interesting "big fish" story comes to us from Bunny Mason, Salem golf pro. Mason was spending a few hours on the Metolius river earlier in the week and noticed a young fly fisherman working one particular piece of water for over an hour.

During that period the angler had caught and released several fish, three or four of which would have pleased any angler. It appeared that the young fly caster was enjoying himself only in the taking and releasing trout. But such was not the case. Bunny soon heard an excited whoop and holler and could see the youngster's rod bending dangerously. He wandered up close to see what was going on and got in on the landing of the fish. In fact, Mason aided considerably in tossing the fish out on the bank after it was tired. The young angler had hooked and landed one of the terrific Metolius rainbows. It measured twenty-two and one-half inches and weighed four and one-half pounds.

The capture of the large rainbow was the result of a planned campaign. The young angler, son of the resident ranger on the Metolius, has been fishing about a month earlier and had watched him day after day. He figured out the rainbow's feeding cycle and then went to work on that one fish. It took a month of casting but the concentrated effort finally paid off.

We never did hear all of the story as we don't know yet whether Bunny Mason was fishing the Metolius or looking for a golf ball which may have strayed over there from Prineville, where he was playing golf.

Neport Salmon Fishing Hot and Cold

Neport fishing has been hot and cold at Neport during the past week with numerous anglers taking limits of fish on one day and few catching anything on the following day. The weather has been fair some of the time and short of a full gale the remainder of the time. The fish are gathered at Neport and it appears likely that anglers will do well from now on. Silvers are out-numbering the chinook salmon at the present and although they are not as large

Some Will, Some Won't . . .

Game Commish Yields Forecast for Anglers

The Oregon State Game Commission Thursday released its weekly report on angling prospects around the state for the weekend. Covered in the report are the northwest, southwest, central, northeast and southeast portions of the state. The report follows:

NORTHWEST

Trout angling is slow along the north coast. Not many sea-run cutthroat are in yet. Steelhead and chinook jack salmon fishing is fair along the Columbia sand bar. Trout angling has been slow in streams of western Lane and Lincoln counties. A few blueback have been caught in tidewater. Salmon angling has been good on Yaquina Bay and Depoe Bay when weather permits crossing the bar. Trout angling has been fair on the Clackamas river. The road is not yet open to the Rock lakes and Serene Lake (Clackamas county). McKenzie river and tributaries are good to excellent. Willamette tributaries fair to good. Lookout Point, Dorena, and Dexter reservoirs fair from bank and fair to good on troll. Clear lake is good with quite a few large fish being taken.

SOUTHWEST

In the Florence area, Mercer lake is producing fair catches of trout on troll and flies. Angling is slow at Sultion lake. Bluegill and perch fishing is good at Tahkenk, but trout fishing is slow. Siltcoos is producing fair catches of trout and good catches of bullhead catfish. Perch fishing is slow. Success of the trout fishermen varied from slow to good throughout most of the North and South Umpqua areas. Best catches are reported to be taken on flies in morning and evening fishing. Bait angling is very poor except in the power impoundments in the upper North Umpqua where worms are taking brown trout. Summer steelhead angling is very poor. Fish are moving slowly, and the river is generally too high for proper fishing. Some turbid water still results from upstream construction work. Cutthroat or salmon trout are moving in fair numbers over Winchester dam; some fishing should be available below that point, but reports of catches so far are sketchy. Salmon angling at Winchester Bay has been good when it is safe to cross the bar. At Coos Bay striped bass angling has been fair, and salmon angling has been poor to excellent depending on weather. Trout angling in the main Rogue river is slow during the hot days when the fish seem to be laying in deep water. Early morning and late evening periods best. Catches are fair to good in streams and lakes at high elevation. Chinook salmon season closes after Sunday July 15.

CENTRAL

East and Paulina lakes have slowed down considerably the past two or three days. Catches have just been fair at both lakes. Bait fishing is still good for rainbow at Blue lake. Ochoco reservoir has been excellent for rainbow with short troll as best method. Best results at Three Creeks lake are obtained with spinners and gray flatfish on troll. Anglers can't drive all the way into the lake because of a snowdrift short distance from lake. Some nice catches have been reported from
