Subway Crowd NEW YORK—New Yorkers are veterans of rush hour jamming on the city's subway system, but this mass of humanity at the midtown Grand Central station Monday morning was the acid test for straphangers. Crowds on their way to work pack the passageways to shuttle trains connecting the east and west side subway systems in a rerouting operation because a busy section of the east side system was knocked out by flooding from a weekend fire in the Wanamaker building. Circus Folds PITTSBURGH—A circus hand guides a big elephant down the ramp for last road show Monday as Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows arrives at Pittsburgh before announcement that Monday night's show will be the last "under the Big Top." Youngsters watch in background, as thousands of others have in 86 years circus has been on the road. (AP Wirephoto).
