Designer Views Fashion from the rear . . .

By DOROTHY ROE
 Associated Press Women's Editor

Ladies who wish to be glamorous should look in a rear-view mirror, says Luis Estevez, young Cuban designer who has zoomed to a place among New York's top fashion creators in a brief two years.

"I believe in a more subtle approach to the sexy look than that which has been developed to such a high point in Hollywood," says the 26-year-old Estevez, who looks like a Yale freshman. "Strange as it may seem, I think a woman's back often is more alluring than her front, even if she has a Marilyn Monroe development."

"Just exposing the bust is too obvious. That's why I am showing so many low-cut backs in the new collection."
 Estevez goes in for definitely elegant clothes, with his most dramatic successes in cocktail and evening gowns. He uses a great deal of lace, embroidery and other feminine touches, believing that women should look like ladies, making the most of all their feminine assets.

Full Length Evening Gowns
 There are many full-length evening gowns in the advance fall collection, underscoring the mood of formality and elegance evident everywhere in the new fashions. Estevez employs a graceful Empire line in many of his designs, accenting it with a sash, belt or band just under the bust in front, dipping to the waistline in back. Necklines often are high in front, dipping almost to the waist in back.

A striking evening gown of white lace revives the fashion of the train. Another dramatic ball gown, full length, with sweeping back interest in the skirt, is of black tulle with an embroidered in white plumes, shown with a head-dress of ostrich plumes.
 Estevez, together with most other top designers, believes that next fall and winter is the time when women will dress to the teeth.

Slope, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Watson, Mrs. Jessie Newkirk, and Bob Jarvill; from Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Carter and children Arelene and John, Mrs. Lulu Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson, Dianna and Donna Lee; from Milwaukie, Mrs. and Mrs. Jared Newkirk; from Vancouver, Wash. Potato Salad, Hot or Cold is Welcome Dish

Potato salad may be an ordinary, down-to-earth, old-fashioned item on the menu, or a glamorized concoction for a party. But anyway, if the cook wants to make it it is all right with us, providing it's moist enough and just oniony enough.
 We think our own potato salads are extra good, but then most folks who like to cook have a high opinion of their own concoctions. Our potato salads are always ad libbed—no set recipe. The only sure things are potatoes, onions and dressing. We might add dill pickles or the juice from them, chives, celery, ripe of stuffed olives, celery seed, capers, green peas or beans, cucumber, tomato capers and/or green peppers.

In old Germany, the potato salads might be hot thus:

- HOT POTATO SALAD
 8 boiled potatoes 1/2 cup bouillon
 1/2 pound bacon 1/2 cup vinegar
 1 tablespoon trip 1 teaspoon salt
 Pepper to taste

Boil the potatoes in their jackets. Skin and slice while still hot. Fry diced bacon, add onion and cook 5 minutes. Add liquids, seasonings to taste. Pour boiling hot over potatoes and serve hot.

- POTATO SALAD
 18 small potatoes 2 tablespoons chopped onion
 Salt Olive oil
 1 cup wine vinegar Parsley, chives
 Pepper, celery salt Hard cooked eggs
 Boil potatoes in jackets and peel hot. Slice into a heated bowl, sprinkling them with the salt sliced. Dress vinegar with pepper and celery salt, sprinkle chives and parsley over potatoes and pour on hot vinegar. Let them absorb vinegar for a while, tossing the mixture occasionally. Pour off excess liquid, add oil, spoonful by spoonful until potatoes are well coated. Cool but do not chill. Add the hard cooked eggs when arranging in bowl for serving. Here we have a found—another one that's a little unusual.

- SALAD NOISIE
 Use equal parts cooked diced potatoes and cooked green beans. When done, drain each thoroughly and when cool mix lightly together. Make a dressing of 2 parts oil to 1 part lemon juice, salt and pepper. Arrange in a bowl, garnish with ripe olives, capers, peeled tomatoes. And if you've herbs, sprinkle with basil for interesting flavor.

Waistlines Accented By Designers

By CELE WOHL

ROME (AP)—Simonetta is drawing attention back to waistlines while her dress designing husband Fabiani is concentrating on back effects.

Other than that, there were strong similarities between the rival lines they presented last night in a show closing the second day of Rome's fall and winter style previews.

Simonetta accented the waistline by swathing it with draperies, dropping panels from it, or using bolero jackets.

Her suit lines differ widely, but the waistline remains fixed—at its natural level. Some jackets are belted in behind, others are belted in front and fall free in the back. Loose fitting jackets have Martin-Goose sloping down from the waistline.

Daytime skirts are narrow. Those intended for after dark are full. Coats are double-breasted and boxy or in widening pyramids. Simonetta cuts skirt panels into dress fronts, knotting them up into bodices as prominent frontal draperies.

Designs a New Dache

She liked a hat she designed in collaboration with the Rome Miliner Canessa. It's a cloche, fashioned like a closing umbrella, and slanting down over the nose. For one wearing it, visibility of anything but the wearer's toes is improbable. But it's gay.

Only for evening does Simonetta let the face be shown, then often under an upright circus pony plume.

Fabiani has many of the same tricks as his wife, but he concentrates on back effects with panels attached at one side. Only one or two have front-concealing panels originating in chest-high bows.

He drew some gasps with a pair of milk-trimmed raincoats. Earlier, suitmaker Ferdinandi showed a "penguin line" characterized by a hem-length tail or suit jackets.

Gattinoni chose "winged victory" for her theme, from the Greek statue she shows smooth-fronted creation with the fullness drawn into skirt backs and little wing-like capelets. They removable capes, some in rich fur, top both suits and dresses.

Juniors, Seniors Play

Juniors and seniors combined to make eight tables at the Knights of Columbus Bridge Club Thursday night. Mrs. L. E. Taylor and Mrs. Walter A. Barsch took first honors north and south. Mrs. Frank Ward and Jim McAnear of Texas lead east and west. Mrs. Carl Charnholm and Mrs. Ed Payseno were second north and south. Mrs. Kathryn and Mrs. Rupert Park were third. Mrs. E. A. Guenther and Mrs. J. H. Meusey were second east and west and Mrs. Henry Kropp and Mrs. L. J. Marker came in third.

After a wedding trip to the Oregon State Highway Commission, it does not authorize service on Sundays, holidays or Saturday afternoons.

Wed at Mid-July Rites

Mrs. William Lawrence Voss (Lorrie LaVonne Papke) whose wedding was an event of July 14 at St. John's Lutheran Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Papke and Mr. Voss is the son of Mrs. Vivian Voss of Wenatchee, Wash. The couple will live in Wenatchee. (McEwan Studio.)

Attend Utah Wedding

FOUR CORNERS—Robert Brant, Walter Hart, Ralph Wilson, and James Hillborn left Thursday evening by car for Bountiful, Utah to attend the wedding of Lawrence T. Cherry, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Cherry of the Four Corners area, and Miss Marion Cayias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cayias of Bountiful, Utah. The wedding will be an event of Sunday, July 22, at the Greek Orthodox Church of Bountiful.

The young men were all classmates in high school and Lawrence Cherry is a graduate of Willamette University.

Hauling Permits Give Extra Hour

Public Utilities Commissioner Charles Helms announced Friday that all permits authorizing transportation of logs, poles or piling over Oregon state highways, will be changed immediately to show that transportation of such commodities is authorized between the hours of 4 a. m. and 9 p. m.

This extends the hours from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m. The change was made pursuant to recommendations of the Oregon State Highway Commission. It does not authorize service on Sundays, holidays or Saturday afternoons.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it obligatory for a bride to buy a gift of some kind for her bridegroom on their wedding day?
 A. While this could not be called obligatory, it is the customary thing for a bride to give her bridegroom some kind of gift for his personal use.

Q. My wife and I have received an engraved card from distant relatives, announcing their golden wedding anniversary. What obligations does this impose upon us?
 A. Your only obligation is to send them a message of congratulations and good wishes.

Q. When spaghetti is served Italian style, how should it be eaten?
 A. It is much better for the average person to break it with the fork than to attempt to copy the Italians' skillful manner of handling it. This may save you both embarrassment and laundry.
