Inside TV

Ancient Jokes Now Fail to Wow Crowd

(Today's guest column is by Sheldon Reynolds, creator, producer, director and writer of "Foreign Intrigue.")

By SHELDON REYNOLDS

Sometime around 1850 the Dean Martin of that period stood, on stage and asked, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" and a nineteenth century Jerry Lewis flashed back, "To get on the other side."

The audience screamed, yelled and howled with laughter.

Fifty years later a 1900 Jackie Gleason stood on stage and asked, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" and after pausing a suspenseful three seconds said, "To get on the other side." And again the audience rolled in the aisles.

I wouldn't be at all surprised if Anthony rocked Cleopatra with the same line. Certainly this vintage morsel of wit has worked for centuries. And then something happened.

The motion picture industry was born and drama on celluloid spread around the country. People who had seldom, if ever, seen live entertainment started going to the local flicks every time the program changed.

Radio started making noises and suddenly it wasn't even necessary to leave home to be entertained. The flicks knocked out the flicker and radio matured past static and the race was on! Entertainment became an industry.

Comedy, drama, singing, music, dancing, acting, animal acts and great profiles! If it was good entertainment, it became good business. The banks and the accountants moved in. The howling baby industry had to be organized. Entertainment had to get scientific. What were the right elements that had to be put together in order to achieve that magic formula that would get people out of their homes and their hands out of their pockets. How could you insure a success! And a success now became a question of millions of dollars!

And the public went and double-crossed the geniuses. They stopped laughing at our happy little chicken who had been crossing the road for some two thousand years. Along with this huge mass of entertainment came audience sophistication.

Producers still searched for a foolproof formula. They tried crossbreeding a matinee idol with the mental age of the audience, but all they came up with was another cliche.

Some shows were hits and others were flops and the public still refused to fit a formula. Studios bought all the right technical equipment but they couldn't insure a laugh or a lump in the throat.

And then, as if things weren't bad enough, along came television and brought forth more entertainment in one year than had been seen in the past century! The average viewer has seen today more shows of every description than many professional critics see in their entire professional life-time! Audience tastes have been refined to the point where a good show isnt good enough any more. It has to be a great show; a fine piece of work; not ordinary but extraordinary.

New minds, talents and techniques are developing to meet the demands for both quantity as well as quality. This year's smash seems almost certain to become passe next year and might not even be on the air three years from now! Now go figure out a formula for success.

Of course the formula is the same as it's always been. Not a series of numbers and a bookkeeping ledger, but talent. The talent that writes it, stages it and performs it. True, it has to be done faster now and more often, but that's a talent too. The pace is furious and the techniques change, but the stars of today are training themselves for this latest development.

Milton Berle, who created the entire pattern of comedy on television and brought so much laughter to so many millions, has decided after seven years to devote an entire year to the development of a new, fresh and exciting series for the 1957 season.

Danny Thomas, whose talents have taken him to the heights of drama as well as comedy, is planning changes in his program that should keep his series as fresh and exciting as ever.

Jan Murray has decided to change his successful "Dollar-A-Second Show" to a new, faster-paced format.

This is the kind of vitality that will keep our stars where we like to see them. This is the kind of talent and showmanship you must have to keep pace with the newer streamlined audience.

Our little chicken is having a tougher time crossing the road, but he hasn't laid any eggs yet.

Polio Cases Reach 359 In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The number of polio cases reported in Chicago this year climbed to a total of 359 Friday.

Eighteen new cases were listed.

The total in Chicago—the hardest hit area in the nation—was more than five times higher than the total on the same date in 1952, Chicago's previous high year in polio.

Of the 1956 cases 215 or 59 per cent have occurred in children five and under. Only 26 cases have been reported in children who received Salk injections.

MOMMY — By THE MOSSLERS

"For a moment I forgot where we were! I almost told those little statues to go put some clothes on!"

Cornerstone Set for New Building

Laying of the cornerstone for the first unit of the Oregon Turkey Growers' new plant was a feature of the annual meeting of the cooperative membership Friday. Placed in the cornerstone was the registration of the members at the business session. In the foreground are Noel Bennion (left) who made the address; Maurice Buxton, cooperative president who placed the package, and William T. Geurts, manager.

Senate Okehs Measure for Flood Relief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday night passed and sent to President Eisenhower a compromise bill providing for a 7½ billion dollar federal flood insurance and loan program.

The House passed the measure a short time before as the 84th Congress prepared to adjourn.

As agreed upon by Senate-House conferees, the compromise measure provides for direct federal flood insurance to a maximum government liability of five billion dollars and for reinsurance of policies that might be issued by private companies.

It also provides for a maximum of 2½ billion dollars in loans to potential flood victims as a supplement to the insurance program. Under this provision federally-guaranteed credit could be insured in advance of need by payment of a prescribed fee.

Insurance coverage and loans would be limited to $250,000 to an individual and to $10,000 on a single dwelling.

Purchasers of the insurance would pay at least 60 per cent of a premium rate estimated by the insurance commissioner, who would be appointed by and be under the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Participating states would be required to pay into the insurance reserve fund half of the subsidy amount after three years. This period was provided to permit states whose constitutions prohibit the use of public money for private benefit to amend their constitutions in order that they might participate.

The insurance program was inspired by the heavy floods of 1955 and the fact that private insurance companies do not write such policies due to the high risk and the inability to spread such risk over a broad base.

Police Seek Editor Killer

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — Police searched Friday for shoot-and-run gunmen who killed Manuel Acota Meza, 43, crusading publisher of a weekly Tijuana newspaper.

Acosta Meza was shot in front of his home Thursday night by gunmen in a speeding automobile bearing California license plates, police said.

Acosta Meza had just got out of a cab.

Acotsa Meza, a veteran newspaperman, was publisher of the weekly El Imparcial and a leader in the successful movement to obtain statehood for Baja California.

British Censor Miller's Play

LONDON (AP)—Britain's censor of stage plays, the Lord Chamberlain, has banned playwright Arthur Miller's new play, "A View From the Bridge."

Miller is in Britain with his wife, actress Marilyn Monroe.

"The play has a theme of incestuous love," he said. "That got by all right, but the censor objected to a scene in which two men embrace one another."

Miller said he was told that if he wanted a license to stage the play in a public theater he would have to make important changes.

He said he plans to alter the play, tentatively scheduled to be produced this fall, but not in the way the Lord Chamberlain's office suggests. He is considering putting it on at a club theater, where club members only would make up the audience. Plays at private theaters are not subject to censorship.

ROCKET SPEAR INVENTED

ROME (AP) — Rome inventors have announced what may be the ultimate weapon of skin diving fishermen—an underwater bazooka. Capt. Raimondo Bucher, one of the two designers, said it can shoot a spear with a rocket charge at a speed of 260 miles an hour. At a distance of 160 feet it can penetrate four inches of cement.

Turkey Growers' Gross Up, Net Down From Last Year

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman

While the total income to the Oregon Turkey Growers was considerably larger this past year than the year previous, the net income was $801 less, W. T. Geurts, manager, reported Friday at the annual meeting of the cooperative.

The downtrend in net income was charged largely to labor costs which had advanced 15 cents in processing turkey this past year, Geurts reported. Freezing costs, as well as cold storage costs, were also higher, Geurts said.

Because of these advanced costs, the growers approved the plan of the board of directors and the manager to erect a new plant which would be so "much more efficient that labor costs in processing would be cut considerably." Freezing and storage costs would also be down as the new plant is to be fully equipped for complete processing. Storage and freezing are now done outside of the West Salem plant, the manager explained.

Dedication of the start of the new $300,000 plant—already 10 days underway—was included in the Friday meeting, with Noel Bennion, head of the poultry department at Oregon State College, the dedicatory speaker. Placed in the corner stone was the registration of the turkey growers attending the business meeting held earlier in the afternoon at Mayflower hall.

During the business session Geurts reported total income for this past year at $2,214,000 as against $1,500,000 for the previous year ending March 31, 1955. Net, income was listed at $39,199 for this past year.

Geurts also reported that fryer chickens had become a very important part of the turkey plant this past year. During the past year 90,000 pounds had been processed. Since April 1, of this year, 1,471,000 pounds have already been processed.

Oregon Increase 5%

A national increase of 18 per cent in turkey production was reported by Maurice Buxton, Molalla, president. Oregon's production will increase a scarce 5 per cent this year.

One thing, Buxton said, which is so much more in favor of the Oregon turkey business these past three years, is the increased use of turkey in the western area. This is due, he explained to the turkey promotion work which is now in its third year. Three years ago, he said, 90 per cent of the turkey grown here was exported out of this area which includes western Canada, Alaska, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and western Montana. This past year but 5 per cent was exported.

"This proves that the western people are following our slogan of Eat More Turkey," Buxton said. He added that this also saves the growers the 4 cents a pound freight rate which it costs to ship the turkey east of the mountains.

In his dedicatory speech, Bennion stressed the change in business methods.

"Fifteen years ago there were 25 turkey processing plants in Oregon. Today there are but four or five and yet there are twice as many turkeys grown by many less growers," he said.

Following the business session and dedication, the turkey growers went to the West Salem park for the annual barbecue. Here 80 barbecued turkeys, along with added "fixin's" brought by wives of the growers, were consumed by the association members and their guests.

Kin of Amnesia Victim Reach His Bedside

KLAMATH FALLS (AP) — The wife and a son of a Montana businessman—who disappeared on a fishing trip June 26 and turned up as an amnesia victim here—arrived in Klamath Falls Friday to return him to their home in Billings.

It may be several days, however, before Lawrence H. Vandeveegaete, 45, can leave a Klamath Falls hospital. Dr. George H. Adler said the Montana man is suffering from amnesia, or loss of memory, and is in poor health.

His wife, Martha, and son, Charles, said they would remain until Vandeveegaete was able to travel.

Meanwhile, state police theorized from questioning that Vandeveegaete apparently wandered through Utah, Nevada and California before arriving here. Vandeveegaete spoke of "salt flats" and "a time change." He also hazily remembered being in several jails and ordered out of several towns as a vagrant.

Vandeveegaete left Billings to fish on the Yellowstone River at Columbus, Mont., last month. He walked into the Odd Fellows Hall here Thursday muttering he couldn't remember his name, but recalled something "red and white" and a telephone number. Police identified the "red and white" as colors of Montana auto license plates, and finally contacted his wife through the phone number.

Thief Erases Gain Made at Race Track

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —Thomas Rooney, 74-year-old pensioner living at the Philadelphia Naval Home, won $1,825 at the Monmouth race track in New Jersey Wednesday but came home a $4,175 loser.

Rooney told detectives he went to the track with his "nest egg" of $6,000. He made one $500 bet and won the $1,825, then started home with the $6,000 in $100 bills tucked in an inside coat pocket and the $1,825 in a pants pocket.

As he pushed his way through a crowd at the 30th Street station here, he was jostled and instinctively reached for his wallet in his coat pocket. He was too late. The wallet and the $6,000 were gone. Still safe in his other pocket was his $1,825 winnings.

Wyatt Hits Labor Boost For Morse

PORTLAND (AP) — "Eastern labor bosses will not force Oregonians to vote for Senator Wayne Morse," said Republican Chairman Wendell Wyatt in a statement here Thursday.

Wyatt said he was referring to speeches by James McDevitt and Jack Kroll, co-directors of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education at a labor conference here earlier this week.

"The tone and low level of the Morse campaign has been pretty well set by these eastern labor bosses who are again invading Oregon, and have made viciously false statements against Doug McKay."

McKay is the Republican candidate for the post now held by Morse, a Democrat.

"Obviously," said Wyatt, "they want Oregon to re-elect their puppet-senator, so they will continue to have direct representation in the U.S. Senate. Oregonians are entitled to be represented by someone who has the interests of Oregon at heart."

Baby Snagged By Door of Moving Car

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — A 23-month-old baby survived a remarkable accident in downtown Winnipeg Thursday. He was snatched from his mother's arms by a moving car.

Joseph Grabia's mother started to cross a street with him as the traffic lights changed. At the same time a car driven by Roland Tellier was completing its crossing.

The car's door handle caught the baby's foot and whisked him away. Tellier's daughter Coreen, a passenger in the car, noticed the tot and held him against the car until it stopped.

The baby escaped with a greenstick fracture, a partial break of a leg bone.

Cavaran Treks Famed Route of Lewis and Clark

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A caravan retracing the return route of the famed Lewis and Clark expedition reached Jefferson City Friday — one of the Missouri River camp sites of the 19th century explorers.

Despite 100-degree weather, the group leaders were dressed in buckskin costumes of an earlier day on their arrival. They plan to end their 2,500-mile re-enactment of the historic journey in St. Louis.

Cabbie Helps 'Good Fare' Leave 'Home'

DENVER (AP)—Cab driver Walter Schott figured the nonchalant, friendly man who met him at the door of a Denver residence was a good fare.

The man invited Schott into the house, politely asked him to wait, offered him a drink—"anything you want, gin, rum, whisky"—and went on packing clothes in three suitcases on the floor.

Schott declined the drink but listened to the man's story of how he and his wife were getting a divorce and how he had given his wife the house. He was taking his belongings, he said, and moving out of town.

So Schott wasn't surprised when the man asked him to help carry the television setout to the cab. The man explained he wanted to pawn it because he needed money for an airplane ticket. Schott drove him to the airport after he had pawned the television set for $25.

This all happened Wednesday. Thursday Schott learned from police the friendly man had burglarized the home of lawyer Bert A. Gallegos. Gallegos listed his losses as $600 in currency, $200 in jewelry and $963 worth of clothing, luggage and other items.

Crooked River Project Bill Goes to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved and sent to President Eisenhower Friday a bill to authorize the Crooked River reclamation project near Prineville, Ore. It would furnish water for about 20,000 acres. Power revenues from The Dalles Dam would help repay its cost, estimated at $6,598,000.

House and Senate conferees also approved inclusion of a $19,800,000 authorization in the rivers and harbors appropriations bill for extensive improvements in Yaquija Bay near Toledo, Ore. This project is in addition to 100 million dollars of previously authorized appropriations for other Northwest rivers and harbors work.

Petitions to Ask Release Of Airman

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Parents of an Air Force pilot, whom they say has been a prisoner of the Communists since Oct. 6, 1952, were circulating petitions Friday in an attempt to win his release.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Rosenvall said their son is one of 450 American fighting men who are still being held by the Communists as "slave laborers."

He is 1st Lt. Richard Rosenvall, 28, a graduate of Utah State Agricultural College with the class of 1950.

Rosenvall told newsmen Friday that 150 persons have signed the petitions, which will be sent to President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the U. S. representative in the United Nations.

Rosenvall said the son entered service in Boise in 1950 and was taken prisoner during the Korean conflict. The Rosenvalls have another son, Donald, who is a member of the Boise police force.

New Wrinkle Eyed In Prune Standard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's a new wrinkle in the news.

The Department of Agriculture has announced a proposed revision in the federal standards for dried prunes.

The proposals would change the grade standards in effect since June, 1945, with respect to types, moisture and certain defects.

Oregon Tells Power Need To FPC Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission, now studying applications of the Pacific Northwest Power Co. to build two dams on the Snake River, was told Friday by Oregon of that state's growing need for power.

A letter from chairman Joseph W. Smith of the Oregon development commission was put in the record of a hearing before examiner Edward Marsh on PNP's applications.

Smith told the commission of industrial expansion in the Pacific Northwest.

He did not endorse specifically PNP's plans for the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley dams, but referred to them and then asked the commission to "bear in mind the real need of this area for the early development of important resources of power."

W. H. Colquohoun, a vice president of Ebasco Services, New York engineering firm which drew up plans for the Pleasant Valley dam, was questioned about cost of the project.

He said his concern had studied various possible dam sites on the Snake River and its tributaries, and estimated the cost of Pleasant Valley dam at approximately 95 million dollars.

Attorneys for the National Hells Canyon Assn.—opposing PNP's application just as it is fighting Idaho Power Co.'s three-dam project in the upstream Hells Canyon area of the Snake—were cross examining the witness when the hearing recessed for the weekend.

They had brought out that the Reclamation Bureau's proposal for a dam at Pleasant Valley called for expenditure of about 200 million dollars.

Attorneys for the pro-public power group disclosed that Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black has scheduled arguments Wednesday on the association' request that Idaho Power's construction work on one of its dams be stopped.

The group, which favors construction of a huge federal project in Hells Canyon, has asked the high tribunal to issue a stay against the work pending a U. S. court of appeals ruling.

In the appellate court case, the association is seeking nullification of the FPC licenses awarded Idaho Power for its three dams.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The wreckage of a jet training plane in which a Craig Air Force Base, Selma, Ala. pilot crashed last November 13 during a storm has been found atop the lofty Sierra between here and Reno, McClellan Air Force Base announced Friday.

The Public Information Office said the body of Capt. David H. Henderson, along with the plane, was identified Thursday by a search team from Stead Air Force Base, near Reno.

McClellan officials said the plane's wreckage was first spotted on a heavily wooded slope a week ago by Nick Merth, a Placerville fisherman.

Mrs. Mason said there now are 61 vacancies in the commission staff, and turnover in case workers has been running about 65 per cent.
