IT SEEMS TO ME

By Charles A. Sprague

On the whole the 84th Congress which adjourned Friday night did a workmanlike job in its second session. Its deliberations were interrupted less by side-circuit investigations which sometimes have taken the play from what went on under the big tent. Members of Congress can take considerable satisfaction over what this body did—and what it did not do. As to each side of this record there will be much debate, with the voters the judges in the coming election. The country as a whole seems to show a good degree of satisfaction with the performance of this Congress.

The outstanding legislative accomplishments of this sessions include the highway construction act, the adoption of a soil bank plan for farm relief, and approval of an extension of the social security system and liberalization of its benefits.

Conspicuous among the items which failed of enactment are the bill for federal aid in school construction, the relief of independent gas producers from FPC regulation (voted by the President), increase in postal rate schedules, legislation to advance civil rights.

The West is very sensitive to congressional action dealing with public works and resource development. Here the report is mixed. Projects already authorized fared well in appropriations. The big (Continued on editorial page 4)

West Stayton Fire Leaves Five Homeless

STAYTON—Three tiny children and their parents were left homeless Saturday morning when fire broke through their trailer house at a bean camp near West Stayton.

Victims of the fire that destroyed all of their belongings were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Ramsey and family, identified as transient bean pickers. The fire was at the Ray Wesolowski yards, about a mile north of West Stayton.

The father was picking beans and other members of the family were in the trailer when the fire broke out about 10:30 a.m. Cause was not determined, according to Aumsville Fire Chief Robert Mickey. Stayton firemen also responded.

Stayton Area Welfare Fund immediately gave the family $50 and plans were underway to house them at a cabin at the same beanyard.

"They lost everything but the clothes on their back," said Mrs. Joan Apelt, a daughter of the Wesolowskis. "One little girl was only wearing a nightgown," she added.

"I gave them a few things for the children, but they need more," Mrs. Apelt said. The children were reported as seven months, 20 months and three years old.

DALLAS, Ore.—The "City of Smiles" still has a big grin saved for Sunday's wind-up of the three-day Smileroo celebration. First reason for good humor is the VFW Chuck Wagon Breakfast to be held in Dallas City Park from 8 a.m. to noon. Patrons will get a large outdoor serving of hot cakes, ham, eggs and coffee with seconds available to the real hearty eaters. The Smileroo swim pool fund will share in the proceeds.

At 2 p.m., the community auction will be continued until all items have been sold, according to Al Adolf, chairman. Concluding feature will be the awarding of a new automobile and other merchandise prizes.

Langley Given 3rd Chance to Talk to Jury

Multnomah County District Attorney William Langley will get a third invitation to testify before a grand jury probing vice in Portland, Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton said here Saturday.

"I will overlook for the present his efforts to criticize, belittle and smear the attorney general's office, in an apparent attempt to improve his own position at my expense," Thornton averred.

Thornton said, "We have worked too hard on this investigation for the past 2 1/2 months to sit by and allow anyone, through irresponsible and unworn statements, to block the impending secret deliberations by the grand jury on the various charges involved."

"I will ask Langley for the third time, to remember his duty as an elected public official to waive immunity and appear before the grand jury and give its members the benefit of what information he may have."

"The grand jury members," Thornton continued, "will ask Langley many questions on their own as they have done with all other witnesses entirely apart from my own inquiries."

The attorney general said grand jury members would like this opportunity and Langley owes them and the citizens of Multnomah County who elected him this basic obligation.

Strong Wind Levels Beans

KEIZER—A five-acre beanyard at Spang's Landing collapsed Saturday afternoon under the pressure of strong winds blowing across the Willamette River.

Owner Don Forgy said picking had been underway only one week. A substantial crop of beans leaked weight down the vines, he said. The collapse brought down center posts in the field and left others sagging. It was undetermined Saturday whether the field would be raised.

Toll in Sinking Climbs

25 Known Dead; 73 More Still Unaccounted for

NEW YORK (AP)—The Italian Line, operator of the sunken liner Andrea Doria, revised sharply upward Saturday night its figures on the dead and missing from the ship.

It listed "two dead and 18 missing and presumed dead." This would bring the death toll in the sea tragedy to 25.

A company spokesman said there also were about 73 additional "unaccounted for" from the Andrea Doria, but it was felt that "many of these were alive" and probably would be located.

Earlier, three Andrea Doria passengers were reported dead by fellow passengers or relatives who were aboard the ship. Their bodies were not recovered. Two other Andrea Doria passengers died after being rescued.

Two crewmen of the liner Stockholm, badly damaged in the collision with the Andrea Doria, were known to be dead also and three other Stockholm crew members are missing and believed dead.

The New York police department said its figures now show 15 persons missing and 70 unaccounted for. Previously it had said it believed that most if not all passengers and crew had been accounted for.

Ever since the arrival of six rescue ships with survivors of last Wednesday night's ocean mishap there has been great confusion as to the number of dead and missing.

Meanwhile, the Andrea Doria's master, Capt. Piero Calamai, told a news conference that everything possible was done by his crew to save everyone aboard. Some passengers had voiced criticism of the crew's work, while others praised it.

He continued to keep his silence as to possible causes of the disaster. (Story also on Page 13, Sec. 2.)

British Freeze Egypt, Suez Money U.S. Rebukes Arab Leader for 'Lies'

Ike Dispatches Ace Envoy to Trouble Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sharply rebuked Egyptian President Nasser Saturday for "intemperate, inaccurate and misleading statements" about this country.

Nasser has charged, among other things, that the United States lied about Egypt's ability to build the Aswan high dam.

The American protest was delivered orally to Ambassador Ahmed Hussein by Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. It topped off a day of fast moving developments here on the crisis created by Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal for the stated purpose of obtaining funds to build the dam.

The developments: 1. President Eisenhower dispatched an ace diplomatic troubleshooter, Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, to confer with British and French foreign ministers in London on measures for dealing with the Suez seizure. Murphy left Washington at mid-day and was due in London Sunday.

2. Secretary of State Dulles at Lima, Peru, arranged to cut short his Latin American visit by several hours in order to get back to Washington ahead of schedule Monday and take personal charge of U. S. policy in the Suez crisis.

3. Eisenhower, Murphy and Hoover met at the White House for about an hour early in the day to review the situation, go over Murphy's mission and presumably decide on the protest against Nasser's charges.

4. Responsible officials made it clear that the United States stands firmly with Britain and France in their moves to deal with the seizure of the Canal. The British and French have a primary interest in the dispute because of their ownership rights in the private company which has operated the strategic waterway.

Murphy had instructions to try to develop with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau reasonable and effective measures for handling the Canal issue. Special emphasis is being laid on American concern in keeping the waterway open to international traffic.

"Shocked" The protest was delivered to Hussein by Hoover during a 50-minute conference in Hoover's office at the State Department. Press Officer Lincoln White announced that Hoover told the ambassador the United States was "shocked by the many intemperate, inaccurate and misleading statements made with respect to the United States by the President of Egypt during the past few days and particularly in his Alexandria speech delivered on July 26."

Hoover declared the statements were "entirely inconsistent" with the friendly relations between the two countries.

Young Critic Studies Own Portrait at Salem Art Fair

It was like a peek in the looking glass for Joan Benner, giving the Art Fair portrait the critic's eye. Joan was model for the oil painting done by her mother Mrs. Esthel J. Benner, 1223 Fairmount Ave., at the Bush Pasture event. Several hundred persons took in the one-day show which included painting, ceramics, photography and leatherwork. The huge oaks of the park offered an ideal setting for outdoor fair. (Statesman Photo by Thomas G. Wright Jr.) (Photo also on Page 7, Sec. 1.)

M&F Plans Portland East Side Store

PORTLAND (AP)—A Meier & Frank Co. department store will be the key concern in a 130-store development in a proposed 20-million dollar Lloyd Corp. shopping center on Portland's east side.

Meier & Frank, pioneer Portland store which last year opened its first branch in Salem, will replace Allied Stores in the development, a joint announcement by M&F and Lloyd Corp. disclosed.

Aaron M. Frank, president and general manager of Meier & Frank, said space in the development "is required... to keep pace with the company's growth in the expanding Portland metropolitan area."

Meier & Frank has leased 300,000 square feet of floor space for the new store, the equivalent of 7 1/2 Portland city blocks.

Teen-Agers in Salem Hold Film Premiere

Five "Oscars" were presented at the world premiere of "Wellington's Ordeal," a teenage saga, here Saturday night, but there was no one to cheer but the film's producers.

The four- reel, 16 mm movie, written and produced by a junior English class at North Salem High School, was shown in the home of Herb Shipman, Oscar-winning cameraman of the film.

The show traced high schooler Wellington, supposedly a new boy at school, through his trials and tribulations as he tries to gain acceptance among his classmates.

Sally Tontz and Bob Richardson, the film's two leads, were voted Oscars by the rest of the participating group. Director George Darland, producer Len Sietzer and Shipman were also awarded Oscars.

Ike Backer Leading Texas Governor Vote

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—U. S. Senator Price Daniel, a Democrat who supported President Eisenhower in 1952 when Texas went Republican, held a strong lead over five opponents for nomination as candidate for governor of Texas in Saturday's Democratic primary.

With slightly over 10 percent of an estimated 1,250,000 votes counted Daniel had 86,203 votes, and his nearest opponent, Attorney Ralph Yarborough, had 62,548 votes.

Yarborough was defeated for the nomination by Gov. Allan Shivers in 1952 and 1954. He supported Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic Presidential nominee, in 1952 and stressed party loyalty in his campaign this year.

W. Lee O'Daniel, who served two terms as U.S. Senator and two terms as governor, was in third place with 57,244 votes.

The three other candidates for the Democratic governor nomination to succeed Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers, who did not seek re-election, were far behind the leaders.

Returns collected by the Texas election bureau gave J. Evetts Haley, rancher-historian, who campaigned on a strong pro-segregation platform, 15,382 votes; Reuben Senterfitt, former speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, 5,199; and J. J. Thomas, a businessman, 1,576.

Northern U.S. Area Chilled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The northern one-third of the country was chilled by unseasonably low temperatures Saturday as Canadian air pushed its way south and eastward.

A belt of scattered showers and thunderstorms dampened the leading edge of the cooler air from the Pacific Northwest through the upper Mississippi valley into New England.

Several persons were injured at Orchard Beach near New York City when lightning struck a bath house Saturday afternoon.

In contrast to North Dakota where cold rains and cloudy skies skidded temperatures to the 50s, Kansas and Oklahoma had readings of 100°.

Ad to Locate Missing Boy Not Needed

A Salem woman whose 11-year-old boy had been missing from here since Friday inserted a classified ad in today's Oregon Statesman hoping that it would lead to information concerning the lad's whereabouts.

But she didn't need it. Marion County sheriff's office said the boy, Douglas Keith Brondel, 2210 S. 19th St., called from Milwaukee, Ore., Saturday night and was picked up by his mother.

Mrs. Bernice Brondel told deputies Friday that the boy left home about 10 a.m., later called her and said he was on his way to Portland.

The ad, which appears in today's classified section, reads: Lost: 11 year old boy, 140 lbs. Brown crew cut hair, blue eyes. Last seen wearing yellow T-shirt & blue jeans. Name Douglas Keith Brondel. Has large dog with him. Ph. 3-7586.

Mrs. Clarence B. Grund, Monthout, was elected state president of Legion Auxiliary. She had been nominated Friday.

A sneak thief flitped through a hotel where Legionnaires were sleeping early Saturday, casting a cloud over the final day of the convention.

Five men reported a total of about $350 stolen from their billfolds. Biggest loser was Frank Troutwine, Portland, who told police $220 was taken from the billfold he had tucked under the pillow on the bed where he was asleep.

Crippled Plane With 98 Aboard Reaches Land

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A military transport plane had engine trouble out in the Pacific Saturday, awakening about a dozen young children among the 98 persons aboard.

But its competent crew and stewardesses took charge so quickly that most of the children went back to sleep.

The plane labored 500 miles to San Francisco, on the 2,400-mile flight from Honolulu. With one of its four engines "frozen" and its idle propeller causing a drag, it could not be feathered.

Four Coast Guard planes flew out quickly to escort the crippled craft in to international airport, where a crowd watched it make a slow, agonizing glide to the runway.
