A week ago, the same type of SAN FRANCISCO in — One thing about the Republicans: They certainly are operating in a much awankier atmosphere than the one in which the Democrats did business last week.

This doesn't mean that the GOP naturally puts on the dog. Politicians tend to look and act pretty much alike regardless of party label.

Go into the news workroom, and the impression is strengthened. Even with the teletype printers clacking in their plebian way, one atill can look up at the ornate gold trimmed ceiling, or the fancy little balcomies sticking out like everyway over full length mirrors. Makes you feel you ought to be a wearing tails and white tie just to stype a news item.

Many were nearby residents and as they stood around the area roped off by the Navy they hashed over those fearful minutes the night before when the ball of fire crashed in their midst.

With a good night's sleep, and knowing that no lives were lost in the crash, they were able to laugh as they had not laughed the night before.
