B52 Mishap Spews Debris On Route 99 in California

5 Airmen Die: Parachutes Save 2 Others

MADERA, Calif., Sept. 1 (AP)—Five airmen were killed today when a giant B52 Stratofortress jet bomber caught fire in the air, shed a wing in a nosedive and crashed near U. S. Highway 99, strewing wreckage across the four lane expressway nine miles southeast of Madera.

Two men, including the plane commander, parachuted to safety. Several hours later Brig. Gen William E. Eubank Jr., command er of Castle Air Force Base at Merced, Calif., the B52's base 40 miles north of here, announced all training flights scheduled for tomorrow have been canceled. He said the base would launch an in vestigation of what caused the plane to burst into flames at 3,000 feet as it returned from a routine
