

Tunisian Women Given Right to Pick Their Own Husbands, Seek Divorces

By GODFREY ANDERSON
TUNIS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Tunisian women now have equal rights—on paper.

A sweeping decree by Premier Habib Bourguiba gives them the right to pick their own husbands, demand divorce, and enjoy single-wedded bliss. The decree abolished polygamy.

No longer can a Tunisian woman be turned out by her husband's say-so uttered across a copy of the Koran.

There has even been notice of some slight change. You can see women walking in the street right beside their husbands, instead of trailing a few feet behind in their dust.

Miss Tunisia
The country has even elected its first Miss Tunisia. Danielle Roubhi, an 18-year-old secretary for an insurance company, was chosen to represent Tunisia in a contest for "Miss World."

But the greybeards in the mosques are still muttering and shaking their heads.

Even some of the newly emancipated women admit they are shocked at the idea that their teen-age daughters would be considered of age and free to choose their friends at 20.

Some results Bourguiba may not have foreseen have been surveyed by the weekly Neo-Destour Action, published by young Tunisian intellectuals who are government supporters. Action said in effect: Generations of teaching that women are inferior cannot be easily erased. The emancipation was welcomed by the teen-agers but for many it came too late. Many women will remain slaves because of their own training.

May Take Years
It may take years to persuade men to treat women as equals. Many women still wear the veil.

They will not be allowed to attend public meetings because they might meet men. They will never go out except when escorted by a male member of their family.

Girls penned up all their lives by strict fathers who even bought clothing for them, who have lost the chance at marriage, likely won't gain from the new decree. Some men are saying: "What! A woman choose her husband? A woman ask for divorce as she might ask for a new dress? A young girl free to do as she wishes?"

They protest: "The women don't even WANT to be free."
One Tunisian woman wrote the paper that the real trouble is that freedom came not because the women worked for it but because they accepted it as something men had decided, like everything else.

But then, there was the young girl student who cried: "Freedom! Darling freedom. I shall no longer be this being who is ordered to move along. I shall no longer be this person everyone ignores. My existence is legalized at last."

Tears Precede Innocent Plea

BLACKSTONE, Mass., Sept. 18—Mrs. Kornelia Zariczny, 72-year-old great-grandmother, weeps at her arraignment Tuesday on charge of disturbing the peace. She laid down her gun Monday and allowed traffic to pass over land which she says town took for road without paying her. (AP Wirephoto)

40-Inch Bust Creates Own Special Talent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 18 (AP)—Jayne Mansfield, who couldn't have gotten through a studio gate a year ago without a pass, returned to the movies today with the kind of a welcome usually accorded Oscar winners.

Miss Mansfield has never won an Academy Award but she has a 40-inch bust. On the Hollywood market that is a commodity equal to talent.

She also has a Broadway hit behind her—"Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"
The voluptuous Cinderella left this town just a year ago as a $250-a-week starlet. For her first picture, 20th Century-Fox will pay her $60,000.

Her wardrobe for the movie "Do Re Mi" will cost $35,000. Charles LeMaire, the studio's top designer, personally designed her clothes.

He admitted the size of Jayne's bosom posed a designing problem. He said 40-inch bosoms are a dime a dozen but seldom do they go with such a tiny waist as Miss Mansfield's. Her waist is 23 inches.

"On the Cinemascope screen, she could look out of proportion so we devised a startling new effect—widening instead of deepening the bustline."
"It was a problem but such a delightful one."

Israelis Said Hit by Shots

JERUSALEM, Sept. 18 (AP)—An Israeli military spokesman said Israeli troops were fired on today in the southern Judean hills near the Jordan border. Two Israelis were reportedly wounded, one seriously.

Several recent clashes along this border have brought tension between Jordan and Israel to a new peak.

Road-Blocking Grandma Shouts 'Not Guilty' in Court

BLACKSTONE, Mass., Sept. 18—Mrs. Kornelia Zariczny, 72, who says she was backed by 11 sons and daughters, 31 grandchildren and five great grandchildren in her weekend blockade of a town highway, today pleaded innocent to disturbing the public peace.

Mrs. Zariczny began her two-day blockade Saturday, insisting a section of highway 600 feet long and 60 feet wide was constructed across her farm without permission or compensation.

In court today, Mrs. Zariczny who armed herself with a rifle to enforce the road-block, wept as she waited for the clerk to read the complaint against her. Then she wiped her eyes and shouted a firm "not guilty" when asked how she pleaded.

Two Parliament Men in France Volunteer to Fight

PARIS, Sept. 18 (AP)—Two French parliament members volunteered today for six-months' duty with French paratroop forces trying to put down the 22-month-old Algerian rebellion.

They are Jean Marie le Pen and Jean Demarquet, both followers of tax rebel Pierre Poujade.
