INTERESTING TRIPS...

aboard, to the Orient and South America are being planned by several Salem travelers... Flying to Copenhagen October 15 will be Miss Dorathea Steusloff, Dr. Mary B. Purvine and Mrs. Paul Jaquet of Victor Point... they are taking the polar flight from Los Angeles to Denmark... In Copenhagen Mrs. Jaquet will be met by her son, Bill Jessup, who has been in Europe since early summer... the two will then tour the continent, going as far south as Spain... Mrs. Jaquet flying home from Lisbon in time for Thanksgiving...

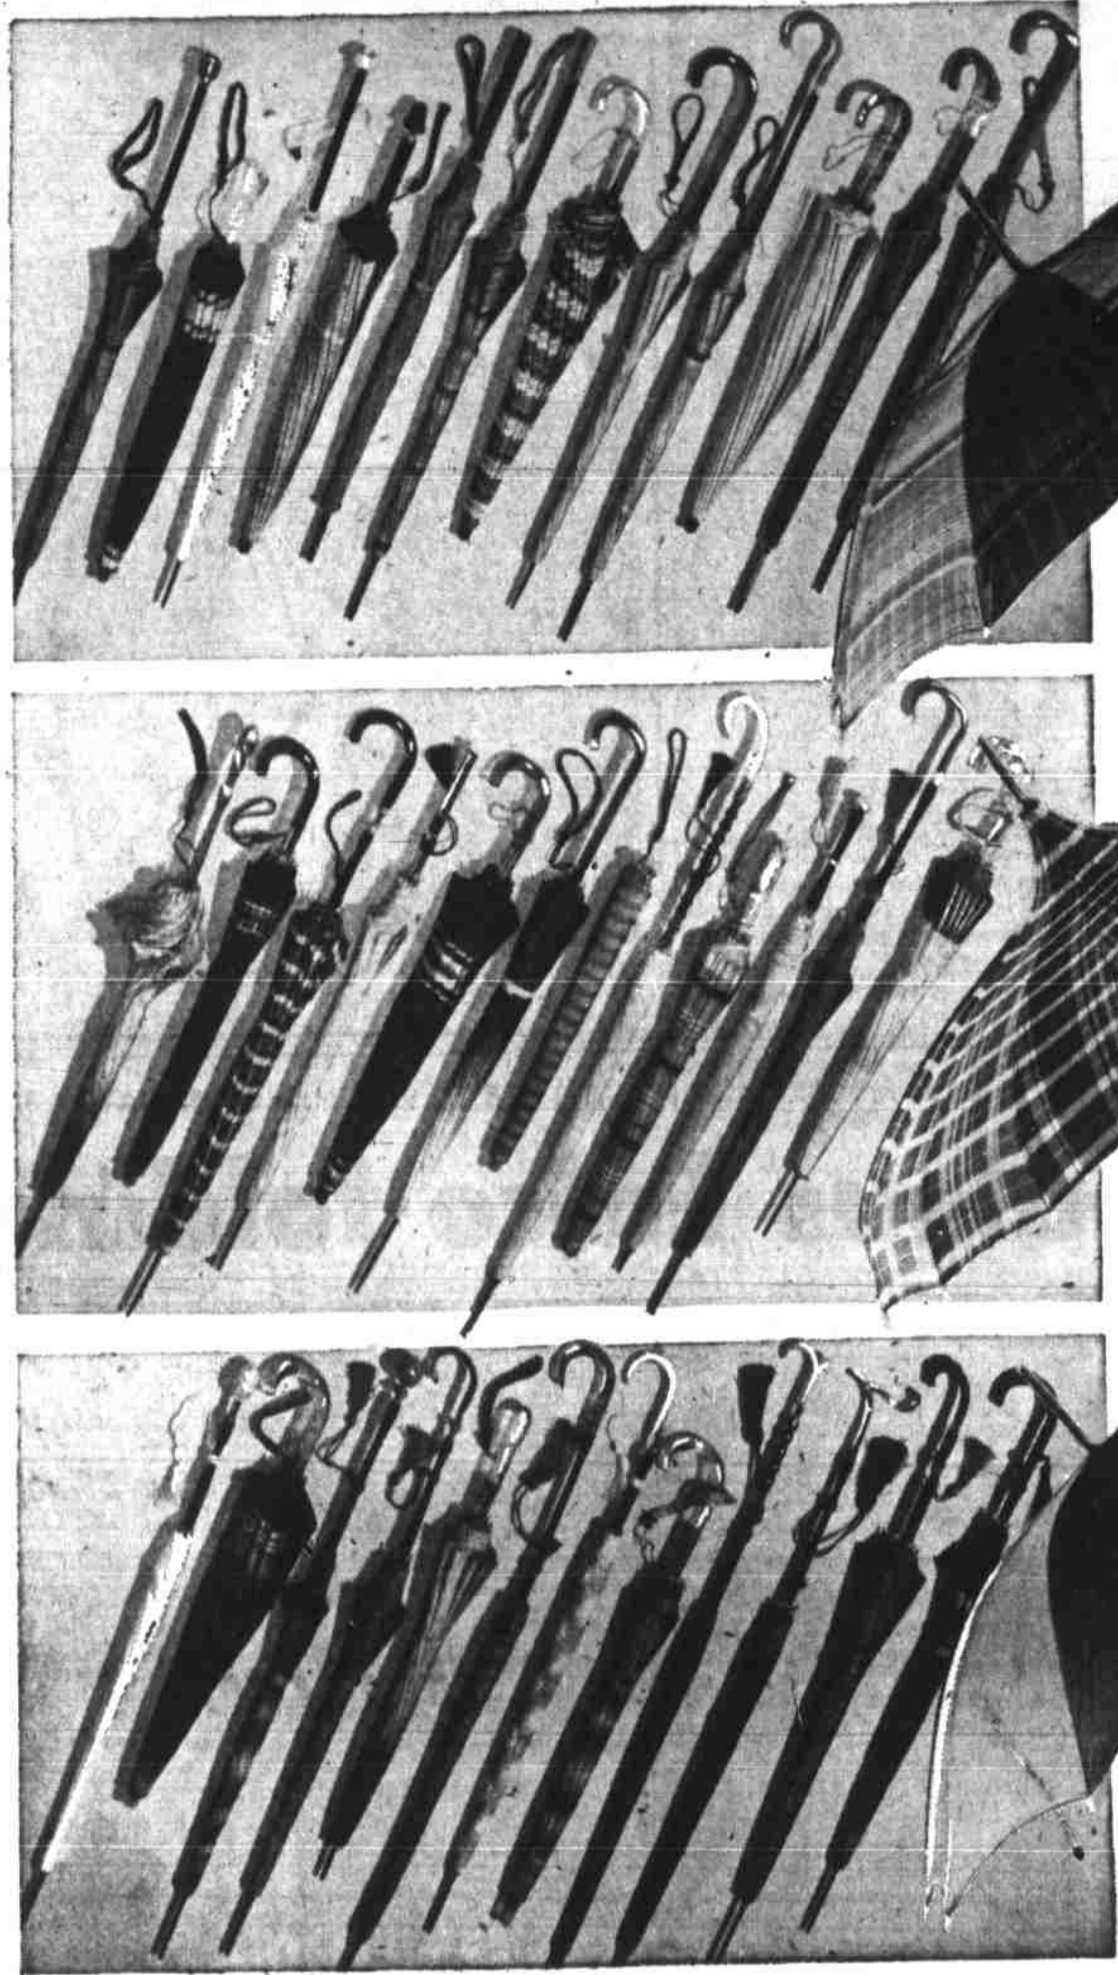

agua taffeta and later passing dream cakes at the reception... all white flowers at the altar and the pews marked with clusters of white chrysanthemums tied with satin bows... Sunny skies... greeting the newlyweds as they left the church... a colorful sight to see the several hundred guests as they congregated out in front following the nuptials... Norma and Pat, as the bridegroom is known by his many friends, posing for dozens of pictures... The Marion Hotel... the setting for the wedding breakfast and afternoon reception... The Gold Room a mass of white chrysanthemums, dahlias and asters... One of the most beautiful punch tables we have ever seen... A stunning, tiered arrangement of fresh, frosted green grapes interspersed with garnet roses and pale green Fuji chrysanthemums... garnet roses atop the arrangement and extending out from the centerpiece to the garnet tapers were grapes and white butterflies with a few roses... a handsome silver punch bowl at one end of the table with the ushers taking turns at serving the guests... The bride's table... all in white accented with garnet... a handsome, tiered, pillared cake encircled with smilax and roses... the white cloth caught at the corners with white butterflies and garnet roses... even a garnet tulle cloth on the table for the dream cakes... and the anniversary candle centering the guest book table... the bride's sister, Sharon, (Mrs. Joseph Wolvek) asking the guests to sign the book... En famille... Clarence Hamilton escorting his niece down the aisle... his sons, Doug and David, coming in with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. C. S. Hamilton... Five of the bridegroom's brothers and sisters on hand for the occasion... his sister, Charlotte, a pretty redhead, one of the bridesmaids... Frances Wald, of Seattle, also a bridesmaid, engaged to Norma's cousin, Dwight Davis... From out-of-town... came Mrs. Earl Day of Central Point, a former Salem resident, busy greeting her many friends... ditto for the Jack Wittliffs of Astoria, who were accompanied by her daughters, Beverly Beakley and Mrs. Roger Schnell... Mrs. Bruce Spaulding down from Portland and minus her spouse, who was hunting... their youngest daughter, Jean, just home from a summer bicycling in Europe and now enrolled for her junior year at Scripps... Noteworthy... the very young children at the wedding, who were as good as gold during the hour long ceremony... The Frank Nicholls, the Owen Millers, the Maynard Shiffers and Mrs. Charles Gray accompanied by their youngsters... Mrs. Gray, whose husband was one of the ushers, presiding at the punch bowl and wearing a smart black dress and beautiful hat of white fur with rhinestone trim... Stand-outs... Mrs. Daniel J. Fry wearing a stunning garnet wool dress and hat with her mink stole... Mrs. William G. Stacey donning a blue tweed with winter white hat and silver blue mink stole... Mrs. Kenneth Potts in a good-looking black dress with floating panel in back... Margaret Stump, who will become Mrs. Arthur Young in two weeks, chic in a black velvet sheath... Mrs. Jerald Backstrand donning a fetching beige feather hat with her outfit... a becoming sapphire blue satin pillbox for Mrs. Donald A. Young, who is currently sojourning in Palm Springs... Patricia Owens, home from college for the wedding, chic in a tweed suit with ruby red velvet hat... and Mrs. Wolcott E. Buren wearing a lovely mink cape stole with her ensemble... The newlyweds... leaving amidst showers of rice... and district awaits them on their return... Monthly meeting of the Salem Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will be held Monday morning in the sunroom at the hospital at 10 a.m.
