New Park's Value Testified by Many

By CHARLES IRELAND Valley Editor, The Statesman

BUELL, Oct. 24—The venerable Grange Hall in this north Polk County district enjoyed its finest hour today as members of Buell Grange told a national judging team how they had developed a community park.

Well over 100 persons, many of them merchants and civic leaders from nearby Willamina, Sheridan and Dallas, filled the hall near capacity to testify how the new park had benefited the community.

1,000 in One Day
"I counted more than 1,000 people at the park on one Sunday last summer," Mrs. Gertrude Hummel, a Buell Grange member, told the five judges.

The judges will inspect the last of 10 finalists in the Grange-Sears-Roebuck foundation contest Thursday and said they would announce the three top finalists "later this week."

Will Announce Winner
Winner of the $10,000 first prize and other prizes will be announced Nov. 19 at the National Grange convention.

After hearing statements on behalf of Buell Grange projects, the judges inspected the park, located adjacent to the Grange Hall.

The seven-acre park site was given to Polk County in 1934 but, despite some WPA work during the depression, never flourished until this summer when Buell Grange took it over.

Improved Swimming
The Grange improved a swimming hole, built 18 picnic tables and five fireplaces, cleared brush, planted grass, dug a well, provided restrooms, installed horse shoe courts and playground equipment and improved a ball diamond.

Mrs. Kenneth Keyt, Perrydale, told how she taught swimming lessons at the park to "12 to 24 youngsters" every day for three weeks last summer and that "everyone over six years old learned to swim."

70 Boys Used Park
Willamina Cubmaster Carl Roehler told the judges that 70 boys in his pack had made good use of the park.

Buell Grangemaster Anthony Eisele accepted the previously announced $1,000 prize awarded to Buell Grange. It was presented by R. V. Muller, Chicago, executive secretary of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.
