Legal Use of . Sample Ballot

(Story also on Page 1.) Supreme Court Justice William McAllister, candidate for write-in election to the court, issued the following statement Friday in regard to the use of sample ballots which has caused controversy in Curry, Polk and Marion Counties: "The election laws require that sample ballots shall be printed upon cheaper colored paper so as to be readily distinguishable from the white ballots and shall be used for the information and convenience of voters. The law also pro vides that sample ballots shall be furnished in reasonable quantities by the respective county clerks to all electors applying for them.

"My campaign headquarters re-quested the chairmen of my county committees to obtain sample ballots from the county clerk, to stamp my name on the ballots and to use them to illustrate how the write-in vote to fill position number one on the Su-preme Court should be accomplished. This is an entirely proper use of a sample ballot.
