sted from U.S. Buseau of Labor Statistics Survey of Consumer Expenditures based on average wage earner family of 3.4 persons

About 42 million dollars will be spent this year by the 160,000 people employed in this region's forest products industry to buy furniture, refrigerators, TV sets and other home furnishings.

Although large, this expenditure is only about six per cent of the annual forest industry payroll in Oregon and Washington. Food, housing, clothing, taxes and other necessities and luxuries account for the balance, making a total of about 700 million dollars a year.

Buying power of forest industry paychecks is felt all through the Pacific Northwest, creating jobs and income for almost every business, trade and profession. The industry's payrolls and business expenditures thus support about one-half of our economy.

Prosperity in this region depends a great deal on a stable forest industry. To maintain stability, the industry is growing timber as a crop, assuring a perpetual source of raw materials. It is also manufacturing an increasing variety of products to help provide the volume of sales necessary for steady employment.
