Doing Part of Meal Ahead Saves Hostess Honored queen Miss Lamona Collins presided at Junior Bethe

Statesman Woman's Editor It's trite but true-Thanksgiving seems awfully early this year, Being the first holiday, it has a way of appearing suddenly on the horizon, when we've scarcely recovered from summer.

There's even more choice of turkeys than in previous years. There are now sizes ranging from the 20-pounders down to 8 pounds in the regular turkeys and down to four pounds in the Beltsvilles, We also have smoked turkey, and newest of all-stuffed turkey, which you can get it just about any size.

We're a great believer in doing things ahead of time and suggest that a great deal of the meal can be prepared the day ahead, and some of it even before that.

For instance, the pie shells can be put into the pans away ahead and frozen, then taken out just in time to thaw out, fill and bake, Mince pie, ready to eat, can be frozen ahead of time, though we don't think the pumpkin pie is quite as good when the fifting is

About the Sauce

Cranberry sauce is every bit as good made ahead of time, so the hostess can get that out of the way the night before. They tell us not to stuff the bird the day before, but the dressing can be made and refrigerated. The turkey can be made ready schead too. One reason we like a jellied salad is because it can be made up the day before Thanksgiving. Mold it in a flat pan-for speed will take just a tiny square, while Papa may want a hig helping, Garnishes and specialties such as spiced apples or peaches are made away ahead of time, relishes such as celery and enions can be cleaned and scraped ready for icing the next day, Everyone has her special recipe for pumpkin pie perhaps, but

and also so helpings can be adjeted to appetites. The very small
