

Show People Say Sentimental Farewell to Dorsey at Funeral

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—Show business said a sentimental farewell today to Tommy Dorsey. The Sentimental Gentleman of Swing.

More than 600 persons, including leaders of music, television and films, thronged within the midtown funeral home where a short non-sectarian service was held for the famous dance band leader.

On the sidewalks outside were another 500 spectators. In the chapel were massive banks of floral pieces—about 150 altogether—tears and a eulogy in the trade talk Dorsey knew so well. Playing softly on an organ before and after the service was one melody—Dorsey's theme song, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You."

"I can't say goodbye, just 'a rivererci," said his long-time friend, George Marlo, using the Italian phrase that means "I'll meet again."

Chosen to Speak
Marlo, an executive of Broadcast Music Inc., was chosen to speak on behalf of Dorsey's family and staff "and tens of thousands of friends in and out of the industry."

Several times he was interrupted by the loud sobbing of Dorsey's wife, Jane, and his mother, Mrs. Theresa Dorsey.

"When my time comes," said Marlo, "I expect to find him, hand extended in welcome and possibly with a reservation at a ringside table."

"At this very moment, I feel, Tom is in the No. 1 chair in the brass section of Gabriel's celestial music."

Many Flowers
Among the floral tributes was a four-foot wreath of chrysanthemums and gladioli across which a brass trombone was affixed. It was sent by Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, renowned trumpet player. The silver coffin was covered with a blanket of carnations and mums sent by TV star Jackie Gleason.

The 18 honorary pallbearers included Gleason; Paul Whiteman, Joe Venuti, Guy Lombardo, Tex Beneke, orchestra leaders; and close business associates and personal friends.

A 13-car cortege followed the hearse to Kensico Cemetery, Valhalla, N.Y.—about 15 miles from New York City—where Dorsey was to be buried.

The 51-year-old bandleader became ill in bed early Monday at his home in Greenwich, Conn. and choked to death on food particles which lodged in his throat.

Captive Nations' Flags Flutter by U.N. Building

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 29 (AP)—Nine new flags on nine new flagpoles appeared today on a building across the street from the flags of the 79 United Nations.

They were the flags of pre-Communist governments of Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and Romania. A billboard below said: "We demand the withdrawal of all Soviet forces and free elections—help us."

It was signed by an exile organization, the Assembly of Captive European Nations.
