Ton Per Acre Club Admits 2 Nut Growers

By LILLIE L. MADSEN
Farm Editor, The Statesman
McMINNVILLE, Dec. 5 — Although the last year was listed as one of the worst in Oregon nut history, two members were named to the newly organized "Ton Per Acre Nut Club," and one received honorable mention today as the 42nd annual Nut Growers Society of Oregon and Washington closed its two-day session.

Denny Doolittle, Eugene Walnut Grower, and C. E. Reed, Eugene filbert grower, both managed more than a ton per acre, and were admitted to the club, sanction of which was given by the Society at this year's convention. H. M. Broadbent, Salem, was given honorable mention.

Lloyd Baron, Newberg, chairman of the Ton Per Acre Club, introduced the winners and briefly told of their accomplishments. Neither of the Eugene men had used commercial fertilizer. It was brought out, but both had fertilized heavily with organic animal fertilizers. While Doolittle had pruned his walnut grove very little, Reed had pruned his filberts heavily. Both had used cover crops.

Officers Named
R. E. Kerr, Eugene, was elected president to replace H. B. Sallee, Vancouver, Wash. Kerr has served as vice president this past year. C. E. Mulkey, McMinnville, was named vice-president, and C. O. Rawlings, Corvallis, retained as secretary-treasurer.

An invitation from the Salem Chamber of Commerce to the Society for next year's convention was extended at the meeting this afternoon, and the matter was left in the hands of the executive committee to make arrangements and name the meeting city.

Parity Price
A resolution, adopted unanimously, will ask the Secretary of Agriculture to take necessary action to insure the filbert growers of the Pacific Northwest a parity price which will enable them to receive a fair return over their cost of production. "Some of the growers wished to include walnuts in this resolution, but were dissuaded from this with the explanation that the large importations of walnut meats this last year had "put walnuts in their present position."

Instead of including the walnuts, the group voted to ask the committee to prepare a separate resolution which would ask for a tariff on walnuts.

Acreege Drove
Baron, in making the Ton Per Acre Club introductions, told that filbert acreage had declined 30 per cent in the last 30 years, and that 60 per cent of the walnuts in the area were affected by blackline, a serious tree disease.

"While people talk about higher prices for walnuts, they should be talking about increasing production and giving their orchards better care," he said.

"There are people getting three-fourths of a ton per acre quite regularly," Baron continued. "These aren't complaining too much about market. They are too busy growing better crops. If you get a dollar a pound for nuts, you still won't make money if your yield is way down."

The institutes total $4,965,000, Williamson said. OSC, the only Pacific Northwest school on the list, has been assigned 50 of the approximately 750 teachers to be picked for the institute training.

Teachers selected will each receive $2,000 stipends for the year along with all tuition and fee costs, plus dependent allowances up to $1,200, travel allowances up to $160, and a book allowance of $50.

South High Trio Top in Magazine Sales

Magazines Sold to Aid Scholarship Winners

The South Salem High School magazine drive, sponsored by the Girls League, drew to a close Wednesday with $1,251 collected of the $2,000 goal and an assembly to announce the winners in the drive.

First place saleswoman for the school was Sue Keech, junior, who sold $128 worth of subscriptions and chose a portable radio as her prize. Iris Hunt, in second place, sold $81 worth of subscriptions. She chose a photograph as her prize. Margaret Stalter, third place winner, sold $59 worth of subscriptions and as prize she chose an iron.

Fourth to eleventh place prize winners, respectively, were Vona Roberts, Vivian Locker, Jean Klingler, Carol Smith, Sally Oske and Diane Meola who tied for eighth place, Sandra Shorey, Linda Meyer and Julia Quiring.

Girls who sold over $10 worth of subscriptions were presented with ballpoint pens. These girls were Imogene Thomas, Lee Coffey, Sally Wallingford, Pam Lindholm, Betty Fujii, Doris Stringham, Marie Bonny, Sharon Wendland, Pat Test, Irene Gylboom, Shariene Eisele, Linda Schwalen, Lina Ramage.

Boys who sold over $10 worth of subscriptions were presented with ballpoint pens. These boys were Cooper, Linda Lewis, Karen Nelson, Carol Joseph, Pat Thor, Bev Bishop, Linda Fox, Jean Hagen, Eileen Sheppard, Connie Reany, Donna McClure, Jean Haworth and Sharon Clouse.

Drawings were held every day during the drive and if a girl had sold a subscription and turned the money in, she was eligible to win a certain amount of money. Linda Ramage won $5 and Carol Joseph received a $5 prize.

Each year the Girls League sponsors a project to earn money for $100 scholarships given to members of the Girls League to be used at any college. The girls are chosen by the GL cabinet and members of the faculty on the basis of their leadership, scholastic ability and activities.

Mrs. Lisle, 80, Noted Church Worker, Dies

Mrs. Lena M. Lisle, Salem resident almost 40 years, died Wednesday in a Salem nursing home at the age of 80.

Widow of Charles J. Lisle, who died in Salem in 1930, she lived for many years in the old Lisle home at 1041 S. 13th St., former residence of her father-in-law, the late Dr. James Lisle, former Willamette University librarian.

Mrs. Lisle was for many years editor of the Oregon Teachers Journal, published by Statesman Publishing Co., while her husband was on the news staff of The Oregon Statesman.

She was born March 4, 1876, at Adrian, Mich., but moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wineland, at an early age to a farm near University Place, Neb. She and Lisle were both graduated from Nebraska Wesleyan University in 1897. They were married Nov. 27, 1900, in University Place. They moved to Salem in 1917 from Idaho, where Lisle had owned and published several small newspapers. Mrs. Lisle had been ill since an almost fatal accidental asphyxiation in a mishap with a gas oven in her home 4 1/2 years ago. Before that time she had been active in the work of First Methodist Church in Salem and its Women's Society of Christian Service and Bible Class, Salem WCTU and Chemeketa chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

She leaves a son, Everett W. Lisle, Happy Camp, Calif.; daughter, Mrs. Esther L. Billman, Oroquieta, Calif.; two sisters, Mrs. J. R. Caruthers, Salem and Mrs. F. J. Patton, Blue Springs, Neb.; seven grandchildren; and six nieces and nephews.

Arrangements are pending at W. T. Rigdon's Mortuary.

Court Rules Road Error Voids Suit

The State Supreme Court held Wednesday that traveling on a one-way street against traffic and entering a through street without first stopping is contributory negligence which prevents a plaintiff's right of recovery, no matter how negligent the defendant may have been.

The opinion was in connection with the denial of a petition for rehearing filed by Tony Senger, Portland, in a suit for damages against the Vancouver - Portland Bus Company.

The high court in June, 1956, reversed a judgment obtained by Senger for personal injuries in the Multnomah County Circuit Court.

This opinion was written by Justice Walter L. Toose.

The high court reversed and remanded a decree of the Multnomah County Circuit Court in a suit in which Leon B. Ralston sought to recover medical expenses incurred in the care and treatment of his minor child who was injured in an automobile accident.

A second cause of action in which the plaintiff recovered for damages to his car was not in controversy, the high court said.

This opinion was written by Justice James T. Brand.

Young to Attend Conference for Oregon Sheriffs

Marion County Sheriff Denver Young will attend the 46th annual conference of the Oregon State Sheriff's Association in Portland today and Friday.

Proposed legislation for a statewide teletype system financed by state funds will be under discussion at the two-day meeting.

Clyde Warren, chief of Salem police department, is scheduled to appear before the association to explain the mechanics of the teletype system now operating in the Willamette Valley.

Damage Suit Asks $17,633

A complaint asking $17,633 for injuries allegedly received in a two-car collision in Salem last July was filed Wednesday in Marion County Circuit Court by Mrs. India Kemp, 2646 Hulsey Ave.

The Montavilla Lumber Co. was named defendant in the suit.

Complaint states that the plaintiff was a passenger in a car operated by Terry G. Zimmerman when the car was struck by an automobile owned by the Montavilla Lumber Co. Accident took place July 1, 1956, on Capitol Street.

Bridge Paving Contract Let

Contract for one-half mile of grading and paving and construction of a 275-foot concrete and timber bridge on the Whitson section of Highway 90-W Wednesday was awarded to Workman and Wilson, Canby, on a low bid of $129,962.

The paving and grading project is approximately four miles south of McMinnville. There were five higher bids received by the State Highway Commission which announced the award.

Parents Club To Buy Gift

A record player and a radio for Candalaria School is included in the annual budget approved by the Candalaria Mothers' and Dads' Club.

Budget also includes a revolving fund to be set aside for the purchase of an inter-com system for the school. Club budget was submitted and approved Tuesday evening.

The club also scheduled a no-host dinner Dec. 14 at the school, according to Ted Smith, chairman of the Ways and Means committee.

Bar to Give Portrait of Late Justice

The Lane County Bar Association, on Tuesday, Dec. 11, will present to the State Supreme Court an oil portrait of former Justice Lawrence T. Harris.

The presentation ceremonies will take place in the Supreme Court room after which the portrait will be hung on a suitable location in the building.

Harris practiced law in Eugene for many years prior to his elevation to the Supreme Court and following his Supreme Court service returned to Eugene. He was prominent in legal circles for many years.

Salem Chemeketas Plan Mistletoe Gathering Trip
The Salem Chemeketas will once again gather mistletoe for the holiday season.

Kenneth Jennings, chairman for the group's annual trip, reported Wednesday he had located abundant quantities of the plant near Brunk's Corner and the trip will go on as scheduled Dec. 16.

Jennings earlier had difficulty in locating any mistletoe in the Salem area for the annual outing. However, now that the mistletoe has been lined up, members are asked to register for the trip at Greenbaum's Store, he said Wednesday.

Mistletoe trip highlights a crowded December calendar for the Chemeketas.

A council meeting at 7:30 tonight opens the month's activities. Members will show pictures taken during trips of the last year during a meeting scheduled for 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Two trips also are planned this
