

Man Arrested in Oil Map Thefts Sent to Prison

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—A man arrested this week in the theft of oil exploration maps was sentenced to prison today on another charge — attempted extortion of $335,000 from the late financier Serge Rubinstein in 1954.

Emanuel Lester, 32, was ordered by General Sessions Judge Mitchell D. Schweitzer to serve 2 1/2 to 5 years.

Stence was suspended on two other charges on which he was convicted, conspiracy and coercion.

Rubinstein, a draft dodger, was found strangled in his Fifth Avenue home Jan. 27, 1955. The murder has not been solved.

Found Guilty

Lester was found guilty Nov. 1 on the attempted extortion charge and was being held in City Prison when the FBI arrested him in connection with the theft of secret maps from the Gulf Oil Corp. The FBI also arrested three other men.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the attempted extortion was the outgrowth of a $750,000 lawsuit pending against Rubinstein as a result of business transaction.

He said Lester used threats, transcribed on a tape recorder, in an effort to settle the case for $335,000.

"Legitimate Debt"

The recording was played at Lester's trial. A voice purported to be Lester's told Rubinstein that a syndicate would put him in "a hospital for a year" if the financier did not settle what Lester called a "legitimate debt."

Detectives from Hogan's office made the recordings on Aug. 26, 1954, with a microphone hidden in Rubinstein's home.

In the oil map case, the FBI arrested Odie Richard Seagraves of New York; Edward Lieberman of New York; and John Marvin Levia of Orange, Texas, in addition to Lester. All were charged with transporting stolen property across state lines.

The maps, showing locations of oil deposits, were valued at more than a million dollars.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—The Mexican government early next year will launch extensive prospecting for uranium in Chihuahua State. Some deposits have been found there near Ojima and Placer de Guadalupe.
