New Hooded Sweaters

Snowtime Swank ... Left, bold stripes in red and navy on white bulky-knit pullover with attached hood; right, cable-stitch cardigan with brass buttons and pointed pixie hood.

Keeping up with the changing fashion tastes of American school-girls is something that keeps thousands of designers hopping, and causes untold headaches in the nation's vast garment industry. This year, however, there is one sure bet on every girl's list of wants, and that's a bulky wool-knit hooded sweater. Sweaters and hoods, it seems, go together like Bermuda shorts and knee socks, and young school belles who are in the know rate them "strictly fabulous," which is this season's highest form of praise.

Teachers Are Entertained At Coffee

Thursday evening from 4 to 5 o'clock the faculty and office staff of Parrish Junior High were entertained with a pre-holiday coffee at the home of Miss Ellen Reynolds on North Capitol St.

Greeting the guest at the door was a frosty snow man who held a sign welcoming the guests. Two lighted trees were arranged in the rooms. The centerpiece on the coffee table was of gold gilt holly with vigil lights surrounding a holly glass container. The mantel was decorated with gold sprayed camellia leaves surrounding a gold goblet holding a lighted candle.

Mrs. Roy Reynolds assisted the hostess. Miss Judy Wood and Miss Esther Carlson, teachers at Parrish, poured.
