

Don't Look Now...

but... for the bird watchers let us report that we found a tiny broken egg on the ground just under the eaves of the barn the other day, which indicates that some little feathered friends are trying to raise a family in midwinter. We should have known from the millions of sparrows hanging around the place that population couldn't be increased with such rapidity in a mere three months of summer.

Anonymous... We seldom give more than a disgusted look at anonymous letters, believing that anyone who is so unsure of his convictions that he won't sign his name, is beneath our notice. I should like to answer one who declares himself as one withholding his donation to the polio fund and criticizes a coffee given in a local store as a benefit. Here are the facts: Mrs. Elmo Smith (as were governor's wives in all the states) was the token hostess, lending her name to the affair. The store donated the space and refreshments. Those invited gave $161 to polio and many are going to give benefit coffees in their homes in a week or so. The affair was considered a success.

Variety of Silhouettes Are Shown

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—"Say it softly for spring," advises designer Adele Simpson, introducing her collection of tenderly tailored suits and carefully clinging dresses for the new season.

Some 250 fashion editors representing newspapers throughout the country applauded the varied silhouettes of Mrs. Simpson's lady-like designs, shown near the end of a week of spring style previews by couture members of the New York Dress Institute.

This diminutive but knowing designer shows a half-dozen new suit silhouettes headed for the Easter Parade but all have certain points in common: short jackets, slender skirts, easy fit and feminine softness.

Important among the jacket styles are: the cape jacket, the belted jacket, the bolero, the loose waist-length jacket and the separate brief cape. All the suit skirts have a slender look but some are slightly bell-shaped and some have a new panel front.

Navy and light gray are the favorite suit colors, but they are a number of other muted beige and pastel tones that look new and distinguished.

Mrs. Simpson likes light-weight worsteds, silk tweeds and blends and even some silky cottons for her spring suits. She also shows a large group of the always-popular dress-and-jacket costumes in dark silks, frosted with lacy white jabots, gilets and collars. There often are crisp lingerie touches on suits also.

Mollie Parnis, Mrs. Eisenhower's favorite dressmaker, shows a group of "soul mate" costumes consisting of shoulder caplets lined in print to match the accompanying slim dress. Her series of dress-and-brief-jacket costumes is gay and varied, and she places importance this spring on the return of the ever-useful "little black dress" in silk crepe, slender, smart and easy to wear.

The famous "Carnegie suit" is still a signature of the Hattie Carnegie collection—gently tailored and strictly feminine. Maurice Remy espouses the bloused and belted dressmaker's suit, which he calls the "Cavalier."

Miss Brown Selects Bridal Attendants for Nuptials

Miss Vivienne Plamondon Brown, who will be married to Spencer MacCormac Snow on Saturday, January 26, has announced members of her bridal party. The afternoon ceremony will be performed at St. Joseph's Catholic Church at 2 o'clock. Only members of the immediate families and a few longtime friends of the couple will witness the exchange of vows.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler P. Brown and Mr. Snow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley Snow of Arch Cape, formerly of Portland.

Miss Catherine McCormack will be the maid of honor and Miss Roxanna Brown, sister of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. Douglas Green of Eugene will be the bridesmaids. Miss Brown, who is currently attending Dominican Convent of San Rafael, Calif., will come north for her sister's wedding.

Richardson O. Shoemaker of Portland will serve as best man for Mr. Snow.

The wedding reception will follow at the Fairmount Hill home of the bride's parents.

Luncheon To Fete Miss Brown
Several pre-nuptial parties are being planned for the bride-elect. For this week is the luncheon for which Mrs. G. Herbert Smith and her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Hardman, will be hostesses on Wednesday at the former's Fairmount Hill home. Twelve longtime friends of the Brown family have been invited to the 1 o'clock luncheon and a spice shower will fete the future Mrs. Snow.

The couple will make their home in North Bend following their marriage, where Mr. Snow is with KFIR.

The Hammond Organ Society will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday night at the Stone Piano Co. Appearing on the program will be Prof. Tom Roberts of Oregon State College and Mrs. Alvada Gash.

Friendship Night

Chadwick Chapter, OES will hold its first meeting of the new year on Tuesday night at the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m. This will be Friendship night and invitations have been extended to Adah Chapter, Independence, St. Mary's Chapter, Corvallis, Barzalla Chapter, Albany, and Naomi Chapter, Dallas. There will be a special feature during the social hour following the meeting.

The Keizer Lions Auxiliary will be entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Al Lamer, 5500 North River Road, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Ray Boucher will be the assisting hostess.

Ainsworth Chapter, OES will hold their regular meeting Wednesday evening, Jan. 16 at the Scottish Rite Temple at eight o'clock. A social hour will follow the business meeting in the dining room.

Presbyterian Women Meet

Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday in the social room of the church. A 12:15 luncheon will be served by the Crown Guild. Mrs. George LaBorde, the newly elected president, will preside at the business session.

Mrs. Jason Lee is arranging the program. Dr. James R. Lyles, professor of education at Willamette University, will speak on Segregation.
