Initial hearings last week were balked by witenesses who challenged the jurisdiction of the Senate Investigations subcommittee and refused to testify.

Both the investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. McClellan (ID-Ark), and the Senate Labor Committee have claimed jurisdiction over the inquiry. Sen Hill (ID-Ala) is chairman of the labor group.

Senate leaders are reported to have agreed to create a special bipartisan committee, give the chair to McClellan, and authorize the committee to handle most phases of the investigation from STOCK AVERAGES 15 15 66 164 Rails Lills Stocks

Congress Has Right

President Eisenhower, discussing labor racketeering at his news conference today, said Congress has the right and the responsibility to look into the operation of any laws it has enacted

Asked whether his program for amendment of the Taft-Hartley labor law would deal with labor racketeering. Eisenhower racketeering, Eisenho amendment of the Tait-Hartley labor law would deal with labor racketeering. Eisenhower replied that he had suggested in the past that the welfare and pension funds set up by unions be open to inspection.

But he added that in his opinion the federal government should not get into the field of exercising police power regarding any labor.

Ike Terms Economic Aid as 'Vital' Part of Mideast Military Program

Eisenhower made his arguments for a "one package" deal at his news conference. He spoke against the background of propostals by some Democratic congressation but noted that these main points:

1. He "wouldn't guess" whether and practically inexplicable and practical atomic weapons in helping any Middle East country which became the target of agreements to cut out or heavily restrict which became the target of agreements and practically inexplicable and practically inexplicable. Two other persons in the house—sometimes, and any agreements to ease problems must be of the kind both sides can trust.
