The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brentano of St. Paul and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buchheit of Silverton.

For her wedding the bride chose a white nylon tulle and lace gown with fingertip veil caught to a queen's crown of pearls and lace. She carried a white prayer book marked with a white orchid.

Mrs. Martin Krupicka Jr., sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and she wore a gown of white nylon over yellow taffeta and carried white Marguerite daisies. Her headdress was a tiara of daisies. Mrs. Al Walen, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Irene Mullen, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. They also wore white nylon gowns over yellow taffeta and their bouquets and headdresses were like the honor attendant's.

Junior bridesmaids were Miss Louise Brentano, sister of the bride, and Miss Patricia Mullen, cousin of the bride, who wore yellow taffeta frocks and carried white daisies. Kathy Krupicka, niece of the bride, was flower girl and she wore yellow taffeta. Douglas Anderson, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

Let's Decorate

Oh, to climb a hillock and lose oneself in the beauty of earth and sky! The valley below spreads itself before us in heterogeneous patterns of line and color. Beyond are the misty blue hills. Clouds scud across the sky and reveal large patches of blue sky. We raise our faces to the sky and the creases on our foreheads disappear as we become lost in the blue . . . Think what restfulness can be gained by bringing this sky blue into our homes and allowing it to relax tired minds at the end of the day . . . Let's use it in decorating a bedroom for a busy career girl whose work and interests leave only a little time for the enjoyment of beautiful home surroundings . . . We'll begin by covering the long wall of the room with a sky-blue shiki silk paper which shows a single bough of peach-pink blossoms and dips gracefully at its tip. The remaining walls will be done in the plain shiki silk of the mural's background . . . On the floor the very new nylon and wool blended carpeting in off-white would be nice. Now, under the bough on the long wall let's place the lovely French bed which is available to us, choosing it in a simple parchment finish and flanking it with a pair of matching bedside tables. These may hold crystal lamps with prism drops and off white silk shades . . . At the large window at the end of the room we will use our semi-sheer fortisan fabric in off-white, hanging the draperies below graceful swags of the same fabric . . . Let's use the same semi-sheer fortisan in a very delicate peach pink shade for our bedspread, having it quilted in a simple elongated pattern over dacron filler . . . Now, for a real note of comfort we'll cover a French chaise lounge in a bright peach-pink delustered satin, hanging a small crystal chandelier, lower than standard ceiling height, to one side. At the other side we will place a tiny floral-painted table which might hold a small plate of fruit at the end of the day. Voila, our sky blue room! Bye-till later.
