Breakfasts Interesting

Such simple dishes as toast or pancakes can certainly make the morning's first meal something to exclaim about. Here we give the pancake some appearance to make them fancy, in a quick sort of way.

APPLE SAUCE PANCAKES
Sift 2 cups flour with 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Add 2 cups unsweetened apple sauce, made rather thin and stir to a batter. Add 3 tablespoons syrup or sugar, 2 tablespoons melted shortening and 1 well-beaten egg. Serve as usual with butter and syrup. The cakes may be made small and the rolled after baking, dusted with powdered sugar and garnished with a small fried apple ball and they be dressed up enough to appear at a company breakfast.

Breakfast can be interesting if you give it a slightly different treatment. Toast hot or buttered. In the toast, for several recipes which take only a few precious minutes to prepare but make breakfast worth getting up for.

Almond Toast—Trim crust from as many slices of bread as needed. Toast lightly. Spread quickly with butter then spread preserves and sprinkle with toasted sliced almonds. Serve hot.

Applesauce Bacon Toast—Trim crust from as many slices of bread as needed. Toast lightly. Spread with butter. Cover with heated applesauce and arrange 3 slices of bacon on top.

Pineapple Toast—Toast as many slices of bread as needed. Spread, while hot, with butter. On each slice spread 1 1/2 tablespoons drained crushed pineapple. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon brown sugar mixed with 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon and a little grated lemon rind. Broil until mixture bubbles.

Butterscotch Toast—Toast as many slices of bread as necessary. For 4 slices cream together 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1/2 tablespoon butter. Gradually stir in 1 tablespoon cream. Spread on toast. Broil until bubbly.

DRIED-BEEF CHOW ON TOAST
Cut up into little bits with a very sharp knife enough dried beef to make 1 cup and add to an ounce of hot melted fat in a frying pan. Next add 1 cup of tomato pulp, seasoned with 1/2 teaspoon paprika and 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard. Stir until the mixture is very hot, then add a cup of grated cheese and two or three well-beaten eggs, and stir vigorously until the whole is about as thick as thick cream. Pour immediately over perhaps 3 slices of hot buttered toast, dipped lightly in meat stock. This is a dish that may be made at the supper table in an electric chafing dish.

Apple Hints to Pep Up Menus

Apples in any of their many forms—fresh, sauce, cooked slices and juice are a treat when fresh fruits are at a premium. Here are a few suggestions for using the good old standby fruit.

An unusual and delicious dinner party starter is this: 2 cups well-chilled apple juice combined with 1 cup cranberry juice and 1 cup carbonated water, garnished with lime slices. Serve immediately. Yields 4 servings.

One canned apple slice plus one cube of sharp cheddar, sautéed on a toasting rack equals a gay party bite. And a whole trayful multiplies the pleasure with practically no work.

Here's an idea for a child's birthday. Instead of one big cake, make six cup cakes (maybe from a mix) top with canned apple sauce sprinkled with nutmeg and set a candle in each cupcake. A trayful is gay and twinkling and each youngster will be thrilled to get his own individual little cake.
