Meanwhile plans for a "River-Rama" street show Monday night in front of the Marion County Courthouse from 8 to 10 p.m. are advancing. Festival officials said. An effort to push button vote sales, the street acts will precede the naming of a River Days royal court Tuesday night at the Marion Hotel.

From the court of seven princesses a queen will be selected, then crowned by Gov. Robert D. Holmes during a Coronation Ball July 3 at the Armory.

First of the pre-festival activities, open to all towns in the mid-Willamette Valley area, is the invitational tennis tournament which will start Sunday. Registration and drawing for match play will take place at 2 p.m. at Willamette University courts.

Events include men's singles, and mixed, junior and children's doubles. The tournament will last to July 4.

State Veterans Loans Reach New High Last Month

The Oregon Department of Veterans Affairs had its biggest loan month in May of this year when Oregon farm and home loans went to 433 veterans in the amount of $3,941,600.

The monthly average until May had been running around $1,200, 800 a month to about 185 veterans. The previous high month was December, 1952, when 401 veterans borrowed $2,821,250. The average loan in May of this year was $9,102.

Reason for the May record was attributed to passage of the amendment by the 1957 Legislature increasing maximum home loans from $9,000 to $13,500 and farm loans from $15,000 to $30,000. The amendment also increased the amount of the loan from 75 per cent to a maximum of 85 per cent of the appraised value of the property, and increased the maximum repayment period on farm loans to 30 years.

Loan applications in May amounted to a record-breaking 924. The average for the six-month period prior to April for applications was 547. Veterans are currently applying for the state loan at the rate of 43 a day.

A total of 18,539 loans have now been made since 1945, amounting to $101,304,874. More than 6,000 of these loans have been retired.

Police Chief Offers Tips To Foil Thief

Careless home owners are handing out millions of dollars a year in thieves, according to Salem Police Chief Clyde A. Warren.

In a joint warning from Warren and Salem insurance executive Brad Barrett Thursday, these four steps were recommended to discourage burglars.

1. Use good quality locks on all doors. Use night latches and lock the windows.
2. If you're away for the evening, leave some lights burning to make it appear that someone is home.
3. Before going away for a few days, ask a neighbor to collect mail and newspapers left outside. Otherwise, you are telling a thief that no one is home.
4. If you plan to leave on vacation, tell the police, so they can give your home special attention. It might pay to buy an electric timer that can turn house lights on and off at regular intervals.

Spiritual Health Combats Drinking, Ministers Told

Ministers can best help prevent the occurrence of problem drinkers by developing spiritually healthy congregations, the Rev. Ralph D. Bonacker of San Diego, Calif., told a group of 55 ministers assembled in Salem Thursday for a clinic on the counselling and treatment of problem drinkers.

Speaking on "Spiritual Implications of the Problem," he made his remarks during the clinic's first day of sessions at the State Hospital.

Sponsored by the Oregon Council of Churches, the Alcohol Education Committee and the State Hospital, the clinic was designed to help ministers acquaint themselves with the problem of alcoholism.

In a panel discussion the group from all over the state, heard the Rev. George McDonough explain the Salvation Army harbor light program for alcoholic people.

Gordon Raney, of the state alcoholic rehabilitation clinic in Portland, also outlined the work of the clinic and the available aids readily offered by the outpatient clinic.

He told the ministers the alcoholic's problem is a complicated one significant to the problems of a complicated person. One who needs the spiritual help a minister can give. "You must work with the entire personality of the alcoholic and not just figure out some way to take away his bottle," he said.

Berlan Lemon, executive secretary of the Alcohol Education Committee, speaking in the afternoon, explained in detail the work of the committee, its educational service, lending library, visual aids and readily available programs of service.
