River's Potentia Finally Recognized

The Willamette River Davis has proved several things in its two years of operation

First that a proper's handled summer time promotion can be successful in Salem Secand that its success thus lar warrants more widespread participation particularly in reward to parade floats than has obtained thus far Third that on the big day. July 4 there needs to be additional events perhaps along the line of participating sports such as driv ing golf balls across the river to augment the bost races which for all their thrills can t alone sustain general interest hours on end

Officials sponsors and participants deserve sincere commendation for their efforts this year and last. They have contributed to what has become one of the main boliday attractions in the valley and which can be come of even more importance if the returns are deemed sufficient to justify an even greater promotion and support

There is always the question of just how much good such an event does for the community in which it is held. The answer largely must be based on intangibles ('ertainly, Willamette River Days has drawn major attention to Salem and from such at tention some good must come

The selection of a court on the basis of ticket-selling has been surprisingly successful from the standpoint of providing a most attractive group of girls. The community can be proud both of its princesses and queens. Whether other methods of selection are possible, and still provide sufficient revenue for the event's expenses, undoubtedly will be

The development of the Williamette River has been long overdue in the Salem area. We are glad its potentialities finally are becoming realized

The tragedy of Hurricane Audrey is all the more poignant with the revelation that adequate warnings apparently were issued and that the loss of five to seven hundred lives could have been cut to a handful, had the warnings been heeded. It was one of those times when the millions of dollars spent on weather research and coordination of data could really have paid off. It is an important

Communism Still In 'Transition'

Union keeps right on cracking under the stress and strain of power grabs, to a point where the repudiation of Stalin may yet be regarded as a very major turning point in the Political denunciations of once revered masters violent contradictions in the party ine admissions of error by the great and near great wavering acceptance of Titosamdifferent roads to socialism, and unpredictable gentieness and harshness - these and other factors appear to be telling into a threat to the entire Communist movement in a way the frend is right down the line of Karl Marx manifesto of 109 years ago. Power was to be seized by the proletariat. There was to be a transitional socialism with state control of industry labor and distribustion A communistic society initially compulsors then was to be gradually achieved to a point where a centralized state was to become less necessary and the state would with-what will be left." Not the collectivist social economy which Mars envisioned for the world with the workers accepting surrender of property to a sterile state and producing goods only for individual needs and exchange. Even the most rabed of visionaries would hardly claim human nature is progressing loward a general contented equality stage for a long time. It will never get out of it alive. The delegation of responsibility and authority to leaders chosen at free elec-

Say Something Nice

Everybody in Oregon - except maybe Stewart Holbrook - wants new industry. Republicans, and Democrats alike scream for it. Each blames the other because new industry is developing here with only glacial speed Democrats say the Republicans won't face up to the fact that we're in a depression Republicans say Democrats are to blame because they won't go for a sales tax. Both along the way distribute gloomy tales about what it s like to live in Oregon. On the floor of the Senate last week Democatic

Senator Richard L. Neuberger, talking about Oregon's superior schools asserted the quality of the schools was remarkable "because Oregon in recent years, has been suffering an economic slump Other Democrats explain that new industry doesn't want to come into Oregon until we get more cheap power - meaning federal power Then along comes Charles V Stanton in the Roseburg News-Review In a pair of editorials be talks about the action of Gov. Robert Holmes in firing one Oregon development commission and in replacing it with another. Looks bad to new industries says the Roseburg editor. He also talks about our high income lax rate and cites it as a factor discouraging to new industry. He implies but doesn't exactly say that industry cannot look Oregon has And we're getting more all the
