Congress Votes Bill for Federal Construction of Atomic Reactors

WASHINGTON Aug 20 (AP)—Congress today passed a bill authorizing a program of government-built atomic power reactors The program opposed by the Eisenhower administration was included in a 352 million dollar atomic energy construction bill

This measure was sent to President Eisenhower by voice votes of both the House and Senate The House which had refused earlier to approve the reactor program voted first

Senate Democrats sponsored the reactor plan arguing it was needed to keep this country abreast of others in developing atomic energy as a source of power

Chairman Lewis L Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission resisted the program and Republicans contended Democrats were trying to put the government into the power business

Scaled-Down Version

The House at first rejected the Senate-approved plan but accepted a scaled-down version in the compromise measure passed today

In working out the compromise Republicans succeeded in saving 5 million dollars from the 389 million originally authorized by the Senate

Actual funds for the work authorized must be voted later in separate legislation

Even in the final Senate discussion of the bill there was disagreement between Democrats and Republicans as to the meaning of the compromise version

Sen Jackson (D-Wash) a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said Congress was entitled to assume the AEC would proceed in good faith to design and engineer two of the big reactor projects in the bill

Natural Uranium

These projects for which three million dollars each was provided call for a natural uranium gas cooled reactor at the Arco Idaho AEC installation and a single or dual-purpose plutonium reactor at the Hanford Wash AEC plant

Jackson said it was his view AEC must get ready to build the reactors and next year ask for the funds to proceed with construction

Sen Hickenlooper R-Iowa said he did not agree He said he did not believe AEC was under any commitment to ask for funds if it found the projects unfeasible

Retained in the compromise was an order for the AEC to build small reactors for three rural power cooperatives and a municipal power group These would be built at Piqua Ohio Hershey Mich Elk River Minn and Chugach Alaska

Keizer Water Board Eyes Salem Hookup

Statesman News Service

KEIZER Aug 20—Keizer Water Board members are reportedly considering a proposal which would allow a "standby" connection with the Salem water system for emergency use

The city proposal advanced recently by Kent Mathewson, Salem city manager, would charge $4,000 a year for the connection but the payment would also apply on use of Salem water at a rate 25 per cent higher than the regular city rate

Keizer also would be allowed to buy water in excess of this amount at the same rate The 25-per-cent extra charge is standard city policy for customers outside the city

The connection requested by the Keizer board would be on Keizer Avenue Keizer water supply, now in the advanced planning stage, would be mostly from wells in the district Alternative to the connection with the Salem system, reportedly would require construction of an elevated storage tank and pumping plant

Mathewson's proposal would require approval by the city's water committee and City Council as well as the Keizer Water Board

Balloon Flight

Breakfast Cooked 90,000 Feet High

(Story also on page one.)

CROSBY Minn Aug 20 (AP)— It wasn't the most luxurious kitchen in the world—a three-foot wide aluminum capsule jammed with equipment—but Maj David G Simons didn't need anything fancy

Drifting some 90,000 feet over western Minnesota today the balloonist reported to his ground crew at Fargo N D that the breakfast of bacon and eggs was delicious

The ground party wasn't sure the meal had the appearance of bacon and eggs Simons equipment included a lot of things but not a stove

He took with him some prepared rations that flight crews commonly use on long duration trips an Air Force crewman explained It might have been one of these

Bars of Candy

In addition Simons went aloft with bacon and lettuce sandwiches and a few chocolate bars, mostly for the first day

The balloonist's periodic radio reports to the ground reflected what a colleague called "his overwhelming exuberance about the job"

The job carried the Air Force doctor-flier from Lancaster Pa to an altitude record of 102,000 for a manned balloon flight

From Iron Mine

A member of his ground crew said Simons easily sounded fresher physically than any man involved in the whole project He was launched yesterday from an open pit iron mine near here

Planners to Study County Development

Review of a development pattern for Marion County is on the agenda for the Marion County Planning Commission when the group meets tonight at 7:30 at the Marion County Courthouse

A final draft on the development pattern is being prepared for presentation to the county court for approval, Wesley Kvarsten planning director indicated

The commission also will discuss a proposed street name grid for the Salem area which would organize street names so that thoroughfares running east and west would be named streets and those running north and south would be numbered avenues

County planners also will consider a petition signed by 11 residents of Gaffin Road southeast of Salem requesting change of the street's name to Holland Drive

Final item up for consideration is a petition to vacate a dedicated street in the Juedes subdivision north of Salem which runs north and south for about a block at the end of Juedes Avenue

Between 1948 and 1956 the dog population in the United States jumped from approximately 17 million to 25 million
