Distance Flyer Rescued

Downed Flier CORUNA, Spain, Oct. 20—William Wyatt, 25-year-old Dallas, Texas, pilot who ditched his light plane off Spanish coast, is greeted by Antonio Couto, right, on his arrival at Coruna, Spain, yesterday. Wyatt was attempting a non-stop flight from Galveston, Texas, to Rome but high winds and ice on his wings caused him to bring the plane down some 850 miles short of his goal. A fishing boat picked him up and also towed his plane into port. Couto is a retired U. S. Army major living in Coruna. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London)

Last Rites MANKATO, Minn., Oct. 20—The Rev. Clement DeMuth, a Catholic priest here, administers last rites to Milton Murphy, after the Mankato man was crushed to death under the heavy wheels of a truck. A policeman stands back of the priest and the covered body of Murphy. Murphy was turning his gravel truck when it collided with a semi-trailer truck. Murphy was thrown out. He rolled into the ditch and the truck ran over him. (AP)

This a Boy? BROKEN ARROW, Okla., Oct. 20—Mike Beaver, 6-year-old Creek Indian from Broken Arrow, still gets a little heckling over his long braids from the other boys in his first grade class, but it's good-natured kidding. Here David Hudson, 6, sneaks up from behind and sprouts a mustache. The teacher explained to the other children that it is quite common for adult Indians to have long braids. (AP)
